FALLING ROCK TRAPS BOY IN WELL

LENORE, W.Va. (AP)—A 15-year-old boy remained trapped 14 feet underground in an old well near this southern West Virginia mountain town at noon today. Anxious rescue workers were trying to reach the boy by digging a deep trench.

Young Leonard Boyce was given a sedative this morning, about 14 hours after he was trapped in the well by falling rock. Only his head and one arm were uncovered.

Before the sedative took effect he reported: "I have lots of pain. I'm praying. Do you think they're going to get me out of here?"

Hospital Strikes Averted

A Victoria union official said today a proposed agreement between major B.C. hospitals and operating engineers is certain to be accepted.

Ed Callan, local business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, gave the Times the assurance in a telephone interview from Vancouver where he's attending a union meeting.

Acceptance of the proposal will avert a threatened strike against Victoria's two major hospitals.

"We have obtained everything we set out for in Victoria," said Mr. Callan.

GAINED PARITY

"We have gained parity for third-class and senior engineers, and a few fringe benefits.

"No membership vote is necessary in our local (Victoria). We are authorized to accept these terms."

Mainland locals will vote on the proposed two-year contract this weekend.

The terms would boost third class engineers from $540 to $620 a month, rising to $645 next Jan. 1 and $660 the following July 1.

Ratification will end the strike against Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster, now in its fourth day.

GREAT RELIEF

The tentative settlement came after appointment of a mediator, labor department conciliation officer Jack Sherlock, and a strong hint by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson hospital strikes could be made illegal.

Dr. Murray Anderson, medical superintendent of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said "everyone is greatly relieved. We would hope this proposal truly means the end of the strike threat."

A spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital said "we are all very grateful."

The hospitals' negotiating was conducted by the B.C. Hospitals Association.

Mr. Callan said he has "full confidence the final agreement will be signed Monday."

HIGH AND ALMOST DRY, the B.C. Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert sits on a rocky reef 3½ miles from Alert Bay where she ran aground Friday. Crews are working today to prepare the $6.5 million vessel for refloating early this evening. (CP Wirephoto)

Long Layup Likely

By TERRY IZZARD

An attempt was to be made this evening to free the crippled ferry Queen of Prince Rupert from a reef near Alert Bay.

Two deepsea tugs were standing by at press time awaiting the 7 p.m. high tide.

Meanwhile everything possible was being done to lighten the ferry's weight.

Sitting atop Haddington reef, 3½ miles northwest of Alert Bay, the B.C. government superferry was discharging her load of 87 vehicles this morning.

They were being driven aboard scows down a hastily built ramp.

While the efforts to free her were going on, B.C. Ferries officials in Victoria were trying to assess damage.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

They weren't as optimistic as Premier Bennett who said Friday the ferry would be in drydock for "at least two weeks."

Operations manager Bill Weston said the ferry won't be back in service for "a few weeks."

A Victoria shipyard official estimated the ferry will be undergoing repairs for at least three months.

GOING TO BURRARD

If tonight's attempt is successful, the ferry will be towed by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s Sudbury II to Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver.

Until she is out of the water, no one can be sure about the extent of damage.

She has a gash along her bow and the engine room is still flooded despite the use of auxiliary pumps.

Hindering the pumping operation is the fact the Rupert is without power. Sudbury II and Island Sovereign provided the pumps.

In addition to the engine room, a number of tanks in the ferry's double-hull are flooded.

With the vehicles removed and some of the sea water pumped out, no great difficulties are foreseen in successfully completing this evening's tow.

NEXT TIDE THURSDAY

High tide is 14-feet 8-inches, which should float the vessel free. Next tide as high is Thursday when it reaches 15 feet.

In Port McNeill, where the 299 passengers were taken by a small armada of boats, people were boarding buses this morning for the 10½-hour ride to Nanaimo.

They will have dinner in Campbell River and be put up in Nanaimo hotels tonight. B.C. Ferries will meet the expense.

By Sunday, all the vehicles should have arrived at Nanaimo's Departure Bay ferry terminal.

Shipwreck Passengers Having 'Heck of a Time'

ALERT BAY (CP)—Friday's grounding of the British Columbia Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert could be considered one of history's happiest shipwrecks.

The 299 passengers aboard were scarcely jostled by the impact, no one was killed or injured, passengers and crew were taken ashore in a swift and efficient rescue effort, and finally, the town of Alert Bay went all out to help.

Citizens of this isolated community of 825 on Cormorant Island off the north tip of Vancouver Island, closed ranks and devoted all efforts to making the stranded passengers comfortable.

And the unanimous feeling among the passengers was that Alert Bay is a very nice place to get shipwrecked. Most said they were having a heck of a good time.

FESTIVE ATMOSPHERE

After feeding the victims, clothing the ones who fled the ship in night attire, and finding 299 spare beds in the town, the burghers of Alert Bay — mostly fishermen and loggers, Indians and bush pilots — set out to entertain their unexpected visitors.

A festival atmosphere set in throughout the day. Visitors and natives mingled and got to know each other.

At St. Michael's Indian School, where most of the visitors were billeted, students prepared a sign that read: "Hi! Welcome to St. Michael's. Hope you enjoy your visit."

LIKE A PARTY

The visitors, mostly American tourists, strolled about the village, looking at totem poles and other native art work.

James Sewid, chief of the Nimpkish Indian Band arranged for the visitors to tour recently-built reserve longhouses, and had 50 members of the band perform authentic dances for an hour to the throb of Indian music.

By evening Friday, the town's two beer parlors were filled to capacity with tourists and residents, mixing in a party-like manner.

"We have a very fine group of people," said Mrs. Albert Martin, manager of the Harbor Inn. "They come from everywhere; from Washington to Belgium.

"The town went way out to make them feel at home — and the people are proud to say they did."

Caouette Pushes For New Province

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of le Ralliement des Creditistes, is throwing his support behind a movement for the creation of an eleventh Canadian province in northwestern Quebec.

The proposal for creation of a new province in this ara of Quebec and another suggestion for one which would incorporate the adjoining area of Ontario, have been put forward in recent times by residents of both areas.

Mr. Caouette said in an interview Friday that the Abitibi region, which would be in the heart of the proposed new province, has been treated worse by Quebec City than Quebec has been treated by Ottawa.

The Creditiste leader said: "According to statistics based on the provincial budget we pay annual taxes in this region amounting to $593 per head of the population while the average for the whole provice is $291 . . . and we get 10 times less than the others."

Thet ferry wreck seems so popular with th' passengers, mebbe they c'd make it a regular feature o' th' run.

Canadians Drop Foursomes Again

An inability to win the Scotch foursomes held true again for Canada, today, and once more the host team had to hope for a big comeback in the afternoon singles in an effort to win the Commonwealth golf team championship today.

The singles were to wind up the five-day, five-nation tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

Canada, starting out the day in excellent position to win the trophy, lost its foursomes matches for the fourth straight time. Great Britain won two of the three matches.

New Zealand—also in the running for the over-all title along with Canada and Britain—chalked up a 2-1 edge this morning against Australia.

To claim both points today, Canada had to win four of the six afternoon singles.

Nick Weslock and Keith Alexander came in with Canada's only win this morning, 3 and 2 over the British pairing of Michael Bonallack and Dudley Millensted.

Foursomes results:

CANADA 1, GREAT BRITAIN 2

Silverberg and Vollmer lost to Shade and Foster, 2 and 1; Cowan and Johnston lost to Saddler and Cosh, 4 and 3; Weslock and Alexander defeated Bonallack and Millenstead, 3 and 2.

AUSTRALIA 1, NEW ZEALAND 2

Donohoe and Hartley lost to Murray and Durry, 3 and 1; Bulgin and Bell lost to Stevens and Jones, 1 up; Billings and Britten defeated Vezich and Clarke, 3 and 2.

Congo Seeks Help in Fight

KINSHASA (UPI) — The Congolese government today awaited an answer to its appeal for international help in fighting mercenary-led rebels now in control of Bukavu, the Kuvu province capital.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko made the plea Friday to the U.N. Security Council and to friendly countries.

In a letter to council president Roger Seydoux of France, Bomboko asked for "logistic support and other help in maintaining regional order."

Children Move Up in Front Of Contenders' Viewfinders

The kiddies seem to have taken the place of kittens in the viewfinders of Times Amateur Snapshot contest entrants.

Children at the beach, at home, posed and natural, happy and not so happy, all made good subjects for the camera fans as the contest went into its fourth week.

Winners will be named in the early part of next week.

This week's entries closed at noon today and judges are now sifting through scores of prints to find a $10 winner in each of the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animal of the World and the World in Which We Live.

There are two more weekly contests, then the six winners in each category will compete for the $25 best of contest prizes and these winners will go into the national competition.

First prize is a trip around the world for two with $1,000 in spending money. For other winners there are trips to Mexico, Europe, the West Indies and Hawaii.

For Canadians who are not lucky with the travel prizes there are seven $100 prizes and a special $200 prize for the best Canadian picture submitted.

The contest is open to amateurs only.

No color pictures will be accepted but black and white prints from color negatives are permitted.

All pictures must have been taken since July 1, 1966, and must be no more than 10 inches on the larger dimension.

Pictures for different categories may be mailed in the same envelope and each print should bear the name and address of the sender and the category. Contest deadline is noon on Saturday each week.

YOUNG LOVE THREATENED

'Litter Not Letter'

LONDON (AP) — Young love, parted by the English Channel, almost sank today on a typographical error.

The story came out when Dominique Bientait, 18, from Montelimar, France, complained to Glen Nichols, an urban council clerk in Aldridge, that he never got any mail from his girl-friend.

Dominique, living as a guest of Nichols, was on an exchange visit arranged by the sponsors of the Aldridge-Montelimar "Twin Town" Friendship Society.

He said he had written at least seven letters to his girl Martine Rivasi, and some to her parents.

In Montelimar, Martine also wondered what was wrong.

Nichols was unable to find a handy explanation at first. Then he asked Dominique to explain how he went about it.

The French youth showed the box where he had deposited his letter.

The box bore the painted sign: "litter."

Victims Hang From Trees

HONG KONG (UPI)—Travellers from Canton today reported South China's largest city in a state of near anarchy, with Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's Red Guards battling one another and vigilantes stringing bodies of victims from trees and lamp posts on main street.

More than 1,000 persons have been killed recently in the struggle for control of Canton, touched off by Mao's "cultural revolution," according to the arrivals.

Plane Faults Traced to Rack Holding Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon concedes the accuracy of reports that the U.S. Air Force's controversial F-111 vibrates in flight, but calls it a minor problem.

Responding to questions Friday, the Pentagon said the vibration has been traced to bomb racks. A spokesman called it a design problem now being solved.

The New York Times said Friday technical difficulties would delay a planned Vietnam combat test of the swing-wing jet until next year.

While the Pentagon never officially has announced combat testing of the plane, sources say it's scheduled for such workouts soon.

Judge Named In Dispute

A B.C. Supreme Court Justice has been appointed industrial inquiry commissioner in the province's interior lumber dispute.

Mr. Justice F. Craig Monroe was named Friday by Labor Minister Peterson.

The dispute involves the IWA and 68 interior employers. The union is demanding wage parity with coastal workers.

Mr. Justice Monroe settled a 1960 grain workers' strike and has acted a commissioner in several railway strikes.

. . . FERRY

Passengers have already had their hastily deserted luggage returned.

Contacted at Dawson Creek, Premier Bennett said the cabinet will decide whether to hold a full-scale government inquiry.

CAPT. JOHN CALLAN
. . . still with ship

He said the vessel is fully insured.

While no official estimate on cost of repairs has been given, waterfront observers say $1 million is a conservative figure.

Mr. Weston said a lot will depend on how soon the Rupert can be drydocked.

He said it may be possible to drain the engines and "wash them out" with oil.

"The main damage will be to the electrical system," he said.

HINDERED BY KELP

The hull damage has been inspected by divers but kelp hindered their survey.

Still aboard the 3,500-ton flagship is Capt. John Callan who was on the bridge when the ship ran aground.

With him is the crew of 66.

Ferry spokesman Robert Innes said there will be no layoffs while the ferry undergoes repairs.

"The men will be absorbed on other ferries," he said, "though there is a possibility that some of the part-time staff will not be required."

Department of transport investigators began a preliminary inquiry today.

'Quebec Liberty Or Independence'

PARIS (UPI)—Quebec Premier Johnson threatened Friday night to break Quebec away from the rest of Canada unless a new Canadian constitution is drawn up giving French-speaking Quebec more "liberty."

"If this is impossible, then we would leave and it would be independence," Johnson said on the state-owned television network.

Johnson praised President de Gaulle, who evoked a storm of protest from the Canadian federal government last month with his shouts of Long Live Free Quebec.

"Today," said Johnson, "political leaders nearly all admit—and several are even advocating—the necessity of not only a revision of the constitution but also a new constitution made in Canada for Canadians and based on the judicial recognition of two nations: the French Canadian nation and the English Canadian nation."

"We are many. We are strong," concluded Johnson. "We want to remain ourselves, to flower.

"We want that Quebec be the pivot of this development at the interior of Canada, if possible, but if impossible, well then we will leave and we will be independent."

Viets Consider End to War

By CHALMERS M. ROBERTS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — For many months the Johnson administration has been trumpeting the forthcoming South Vietnamese elections as a historic step in the process of nation-building. North Vietnam, it was said, is more afraid of a widely accepted and popularly elected government in Saigon than it is of American troops and bombs.

Today the administration is the victim of its own over-sell.

The military junta's ticket of General Thieu and Air Marshal Ky gave the back of its hand to its civilian opponents, combining humiliation with disdain. And the story got around that the junta would overturn any civilian regime that beat the Thieu-Ky ticket, if that unlikely event were to occur.

The result has been an uproar in Congress and a new sense of alarm in the executive branch. There are two points worth making, however, before succumbing to despair.

ABSURD HOPES

In the first place, to expect a replica of an American election in South Vietnam is absurd. The country is run by the military in the midst of a war that is everywhere. The military leaders are determined not to be euchered out of power by civilians they disturst for personal reasons if not for principle. While Vietnam has a history of village-level democracy, the idea of national elections, American-style, is something quite different.

In the second place, the campaign row could turn out to be of the utmost importance, not in discrediting the election process, which it seems likely to do, but in forging a generally accepted public opinion.

It is true that the one potential candidate who had been talking of a compromise peace with the Communists was ruled off the ballot and every other candidate had to pass what amounted to a loyalty test. All this was designed to eliminate any possibility that the issue of how to end the conflict would arise between the military and the other candidates.

PUBLIC OPINION

Despite these precautions, however, the remaining civilian candidates have begun to talk about how to end the war. And in the last few days, even General Thieu has joined in with a promise to ask Hanoi to talk and a suggestion of another pause in bombing of the north.

The point is not that any candidate has come upon a formula for peace; rather, the point is that all candidates including Thieu, seem to be responding to what they feel is the public's desire for peace.

In short, the unmentionable is now being mentioned; the undiscussable is now being discussed.

Thus it now seems possible, at least, that the winner in next month's voting will be under a new compulsion to do something more than simply carry on the wearisome war.

For a long time the world's attention has been focused on how to get Washington and Hanoi to the conference table. But as each effort has failed, there has been rising feeling here and abroad that the war more likely would be ended through talks between the regimes in Hanoi and Saigon.

It doubtless would be pleasing to Americans if there were to be what we would consider free and honest elections in the south. However, it is likely to be more important by far if the election produces a strong sense of public opinion.

The Saigon regime must be a party to any peace, and the first necessity is that it have a realistic willingness to face up to what could be the possible terms of a settlement.

Candidates Demanding Good Crowds

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnam's civilian presidential candidates said today they will resume their campaign trips to the provinces, but informants said they will demand guaranteed crowds to hear their speeches.

A communique from eight of the 10 civilian candidates said they will begin a limited government-sponsored tour Tuesday, probably in Bien Hoa province, northeast of Saigon. But it said continuation of the tour depends on "the good will of the government."

After a transportation mixup on the first day of the government-sponsored tour, seven of the 10 announced they would boycott it until they received assurances from the military government of adequate transportation and security.

The government sent them a peace feeler Friday, assuring them of its good intentions, but a spokesman said the candidates still blamed the government for the mixup and that they would make further demands on security and transportation arrangements.

Vagrant Jailed For Two Months

A man picked up on a vagrancy charge was sent to Wilkinson Road jail for two months after appearing Friday in central court.

Magistrate Ostler said of Ronald Strain, 21, no fixed address, "I simply cannot understand why a young man would choose this type of life instead of getting a job." Strain has a previous criminal record.

INVESTIGATION of television interview by former Conservative cabinet minster Duncan Sandys is being made by Scotland Yard. West Indian immigrants have charged he broke the Race Relations Act by calling for a halt to immigration and said the breeding of half-caste children would produce a generation of misfits.

Both Men Lost The Race

Two young drivers who raced at 70 miles an hour on Esquimalt Road both lost when they appeared in central court Friday.

Rodney Taylor, 22, of 2649 Quadra St., and Kenneth Peverelle, 125 Egerton St. in Colwood, were fined a total $900 after pleading guilty to charges arising from the race. It ended when Peverelle's car flipped over early Friday.

Police said they first noticed the cars travelling at high speeds near the Johnson Street bridge.

The Taylor car hit the curb, then tried to pass Peverelle on the right before speeding up Signal Hill.

Taylor, fined $400 for dangerous driving, said the race started when he accepted a challenge by five American sailors in the other car.

LICENCE LIFTED

Peverelle, fined $500 for impaired driving, also had his licence suspended for two years. He admitted he started drinking 14 hours before the incident.

One passenger was injured when the car turned over on Signal Hill. The vehicle received $600 damage.

Demands Mounting For Greater Rations

MADRAS, India (AP)—Widespread demonstrations in support of mounting demands for a bigger food ration broke out Friday in Kerala state.

The ration is six ounces of food grains, three of which are supposed to be of rice, but there is insufficient rice available in Kerala and the rice portion is being made up by wheat provided as aid by the central government.

Marxist students in the state capital, Trivandrum, burned effigies of prominent people, including one of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Rival non-Marxist students countered by burning an effigy of the state's chief minister, E. M. S. Namburipad, and another of Food Minister Mrs. Thomas Gowri.

Pro-Chinese students in Trivandrum stoned buses, forcing many drivers to abandon their vehicles on the roads.

In Ernakulam, about 17,000 students held up all vehicles for two hours until police dispersed them.

At Quilon, students smashed the railway station.

In addition to the government's troubles over food and political agitation by students, telegraph and telephone employees are adopting a "go slow" policy in support of demands for more pay. More than 100,000 letters remain undelivered in Trivandrum and in industrial towns like Ernakulam. Telegrams are delayed and phone connections slow.

QUEBEC OPINION POLL RESULTS:

De Gaulle Not Backing Separatists

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

MONTREAL — A public opinion poll among French-speaking Quebecers indicates that a majority disagree with English Canada's contention that President Chrles de Gaulle's celebrated cry of "Vive Le Quebec Libre" was support for the province's separation from Canada.

Just over 71 per cent do not believe that the French president advocated Quebec's withdrawl from confederation, the poll indicates. Only 17 per cent believe he favors Quebec's separation.

Even those under 29, living in the Montreal region, did not support the belief that the general supports separatism.

The findings are the result of a poll conducted by an independent Montreal firm of public opinion survey experts, Le Centre de Recherches Sur L'Opinion Publique. The pollsters themselves drew no conclusions from the figures they obtained.

A series of 17 questions were asked of heads of households in Montreal, Quebec City and Three Rivers. The questions were confined to French-speaking persons.

A solid majority agreed the general should have made his visit and that his words and deeds did not constitute interference in Canada's internal affairs.

Just under half — 48.9 per cent — felt the general had done no harm by uttering the phrase, the slogan of the province's strongest separatist party, Le Rassemblement Pour L'Independance Nationale. And a bare majority — 50.5 per cent — felt the Canadian government had dealt too harshly with him in saying the phrase was "unacceptable."

Most — but not majorities — felt the visit had been good for Quebec and for Canada as a whole. But 45 per cent felt it had changed little in Quebec's situation regarding the rest of the country.

The Quebec politician who appeared to come off best, and by a long shot, was Mayor Jean Drapeau who sent the general home from his shortened visit with a reminder that while Quebec wants French cultural aid, it had stood without help from France for two centuries.

But perhaps the most significant reaction was that of young people.

Asked whether when he uttered the famous phrase from the balcony of city hall, the French president had meant that Quebec should separate from Canada, 68.4 per cent of Montreal's 29 and under said no. Only 17.5 per cent of this category said yes and 14 per cent had no answer.

In the whole sample — all-age categories, all three cities — 37.3 per cent agreed the General meant Quebec should free itself from U.S. domination, 38.3 per cent disagreed and 20.3 could not reply.

DRAPEAU BACKED

The subjects were asked which of three Quebec politicians — Premeir Johnson, Liberal Leader Lesage and Mayor Drapeau — seemed to feel the same way they did about the general's visit.

The poll indicated that 41.8 per cent of French-speaking Quebecers identified themselves most closely with Mr. Drapeau's comments on the visit. Mr. Johnson got 22.5 per cent and Mr. Lesage 4.6 per cent. Another 30.2 could give no opinion, or suggested some other figure, who was not named in the results.

Another question dealt with how the general's four-day visit had affected Quebec's situation in its relations with the rest of Canada.

A total of 17.9 felt it had worsened the situation and another 17.9 felt it had improved the situation. But 45.2 per cent felt the viisit had changed nothing.

Another question dealt with the visit's effects on Canada as a whole. The sample was fairly evenly divided between those who felt it had done some good (32.8 per cent), and those who felt it had done nothing (31.6 per cent). Another 11.9 per cent felt it had been bad for Canada and 22.6 had no opinion.

City 'Won't Be Pushed Around' On Siting Convention Centre

A suggestion that Victoria city council is "pussy-footing" over the provision of a convention centre was repudiated by Mayor Hugh Stephen Friday.

He told a meeting of the directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce that neither he nor his council will be "pushed around by anyone" in the matter of providing a convention centre.

The mayor was replying to a statement by Chamber president Courtney Haddock that most of the directors might be "dead" before Victoria had a centre in operation.

"I resent any suggestion that council has delayed in this matter," Mayor Stephen said.

U.S. 'Exported' Quaker Issue To Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Informants said Friday the United States almost certainly will investigate incidents at Lacolle, Que., where an American inter-faith group tried unsuccessfully to move medical supplies over the international border for shipment to North and South Vietnam via Canada.

The group, which included Quakers, Unitarians and Episcopalians, was prevented earlier this week from taking the supplies over the border to Montreal.

Friction is reported to exist between the treasury department, responsible for policing the United States' Trading with the Enemy Act, and the justice department, which would have to decide whether to prosecute the Americans involved. The U.S. applies the act to such countries as North Vietnam and Cuba.

So far, the justice department has not initiated proceedings against any mamber of the inter-faith group, although one spokesman for Quaker Action groups has said such proceedings would be welcomed as a forum for their opposition to the Vietnam war.

SOME GRUMBLE

There is some private grumbling among Canadian officials that the United States, at the Lacolle border crossing point, "exported" its problems to Canada.

RCMP had to tug from a dozen members of the group packages addressed to North and South Vietnam because they lacked the necessary U.S. export licenses. The U.S. customs wouldn't grant the licences and, by Canadian law, such parcels couldn't enter Canada.

The points, Canadian officials say, is the U.S. law could halt protesters before they reach Canadian soil.

Earlier in the week, a Quaker spokesman, Ross Flanagan, said here that he fears Canada "has undertaken to do the dirty work for the U.S." He said he would welcome "a legal charge being laid agsinst us by the government, but they apparently don't want to do that."

On the other hand, the treasury department, "has done everything it can to frustrate, intimidate and harass our program."

FREEZE DEPOSITS

That includes freezing of some Quaker bank deposits, orders to post offices to refuse to sell money orders clearly bound for Canada to buy Vietnam relief and efforts to get Canadian banks to co-operate in detecting bank deposits used to send aid money to Canadian Quakers.

U.S. officials say the treasury enforces the Trading with the Enemy Act through the office of foreign assets control. Then, a spokesman said Friday, treasury investigations of violations are sent to the justice department for study as to whether prosecution should occur.

The spokesman said a specific case presumably now before the justice department involves the transfer by Flanagan and other Quakers of money and medical items at Buffalo, N.Y., to Canadians.

Viet War Vote Plan Under Way

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., announced Friday a nation wide campaign for a referendum on the Vietnam war.

The campaing, supported by the organization Vietnam Summer, seeks to place anti-war referendums on petitions on local and state ballots this fall and next spring.

King, who won the Nobel Prize for his civil rights leadership in the U.S., said in a statement the project already is under way in more than a dozen localities.

"Congress and the president have been unresponsive or indifferent in the face of deepening grass roots opposition to our policy in Vietnam," King said. "The local initiative is a unique and dramatic way for our people to deliver their mandate against the war."

King noted that last year in Dearborn, Mich., a referendum calling for "an immediate ceasefire and withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam" received 40 per cent of the vote.

"Vietnam Summer volunteers and other anti-war groups," he said, "are already working to place similar initiatives on the ballot in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Berkeley, Cleveland, New York, Cambridge, Marin County, Calif., and the State of Wisconsin."

Viet Living Costs Soar

SAIGON (AP)—Soaring food prices have pushed the South Vietnamese cost of living up some 35 per cent so far this year and the overheated economy may spin out of control entirely in the months ahead, economic sources indicate.

Because of the impact on the peasants and working class, the economic battle is considered a vital part of the political war in Vietnam.

Not all economists are agreed on how serious the current situation is. However, one who had watched the economy for many months predicted that an increase in prices from 30 to 50 per cent this year could prove disastrous.

The chief causes of the spurt in prices—12 per cent since June—are rising food costs and the tremendous amount of money being poured in the Vietnamese economy.

Ship's Equipment Smashed

MOSCOW (CP) — Chinese Red Guards attacked a Soviet merchant ship in the Manchurian port of Dairen for the second consecutive day today and smashed equipment aboard the vessel, the Russian news agency Tass reported.

The agency said "an enormous mob is raving on the embankment" where the ship, the freighter Svirsk, was moored.

The Soviet government previously sent a strong protest to Peking, accusing Chinese authorities of seizing the ship and "capturing" its captain Friday.

Tass quoted shipping officials at the Russian port of Vladivostok as saying that "Red Guards stormed onto the deck of the ship and began smashing up its equipment" this morning.

MASTER BEATEN

Tass also said the ship's master, identified as Viktor Korshov, was beaten following his arrest Friday. It said Korshov was brought back to the dock area today and was taunted by a mob of Chinese.

The crew of the Russian ship was besieged and unable to go to the captain's rescue, the agency said. The report said the Chinese were demanding that the ship's navigator also be handed over to them.

Russia charged Friday that the previous attack on the ship was a "planned provocation, intended to further complicate Soviet-Chinese relations."

It accused the Chinese of "unprecedented bandit actions" and demanded the vessel's immediate release.

"The unprecedented bandit actions against the Soviet ship and members of its crew," said the note, "took place in the presence of official Chinese authorities and with their direct connivance."

Nine Britons Killed

PALMA, Majorca (AP)—Nine British tourists were killed and 26 injured today in the collision of a truck and a bus. The accident occurred 18 miles from Palma on the highway to Nanacor in the Balaeric Islands.

New RCMP Deputy

OTTAWA (CP) — Assistant Commissioner Weldon Jack Fitzsimmons, 54, in charge of the RCMP provincial force, in Alberta, will assume the duties of deputy commissioner in charge of administration in Ottawa early next month, RCMP headquarters said Friday.

NO COMIC OPERA

Mayor Jest Plain Folks; Royal Daimler Rejected

Mayor Hugh Stephen said Friday he has no intention of making the Mayor of Victoria a "comic opera figure".

He declined a suggestion he should ride in a Daimler car once used by the Royal Family.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Courtney Haddock said "someone in England" had a Daimler once used by the Royal Family and had offered it to Victoria for £3,000 sterling.

He said it could be the mayor's official car.

Mayor Stephen declined. He said he and former mayors of the city used their own cars 90 per cent of the time. When they needed an official vehicle they called on the police pool.

The offer of the Daimler was referred to the chamber's tourist trade group.

The Hon. John Gilbey arrives home from another international tour

England welcomes home the Hon. John Gilbey

Arriving home after another International Tour, the Hon. John Gilbey remarks on the excellent standards of Gilbey's London Dry in Canada. And Gilbey's International Quality Controller announces that he will now compare the English Gilbey's with its overseas brother:

"My gin has been the best gin in the world for no less than 110 years," says the Hon. John Gilbey. "In Canada, for example, I have found that Gilbey's London Dry perfectly matches the original English standard. So now I intend to compare our English product with it."

Next time you see Gilbey's famous frosty bottle, remember the Hon. John Gilbey and his job as Gilbey's International Quality Controller. When you see the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks, bear in mind his proud words: "This is my gin! For no less than 110 years it has carried my family's name. Gilbey's London Dry is the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks. And I shall make sure it stays that way."

A Bumpy Prelude

TO THE DIFFICULTIES OF conducting a general election in a country which has not yet mastered the democratic form of government have been added not only South Vietnam's war environment but also a complicated tangle of charges and counter-charges regarding the honesty of the whole election procedure.

Chief of State Thieu and Premier Ky, running for the offices of president and vice-president, are confident that between them they can attract sufficient strength from both civilian and military voters to carry the polls on September 3. But their numerous civilian opponents charge that the existing government is putting obstacles in their way, that their campaigns have been sabotaged and that the outcome of the elections will be fore-ordained by the government's secret measures.

This, of course, is denied by Premier Ky and the military powers who support him. But the situation points to a widespread distrust of whatever results the election brings, and if the Thieu-Ky combination wins there may be no end to the accusations of unfair tactics. By many the win itself will be taken as proof that chicanery was used, even though military quarters are confident of a genuine victory.

As one correspondent points out, in a political situation so chaotic as that in South Vietnam, with no tradition of clean politics and with a voting public unused to its role, it is almost inevitable that there will be dishonest acts by some candidates and supporters however minor—probably sufficient in number to cast doubts on the authenticity of the elections and provide fuel for post-election unrest.

That will be doubly unfortunate if it occurs, for a successful election resulting in a stable, popular government could have important effects on the future of the United States presence in South Vietnam. There is hope in some quarters that a strong government could take over more, if not all, of the direction of the war effort, with the gradual withdrawal of United States control in view.

That may be overly optimistic, but it is clear that a government behind which the South Vietnamese people could unite would do much to disperse the fogs of confusion and dissension that now hamper the country. Conceivably it could be made the turning point in United States policy, and provide the basis on which Washington could begin to reverse its course.

If the war and the country were to be given back to the Vietnamese under a democratic government, an honorable way out might open invitingly for President Johnson. There can be little doubt that he would welcome it.

Speaker or Spokesman?

A PARIS DISPATCH QUOTES Quebec's Premier Johnson as saying that unless a new Canadian constitution is drawn up giving Quebec more liberty, "then we would leave and it would be independence."

If the provocative remarks of General de Gaulle while in Canada were part of a planned campaign of turmoil in partnership with Premier Johnson, then this Paris broadcast could be viewed as Step Two in the program. It is noticeable, of course, that each leader has made his strongest pitch in a country other than his own, for its local effect. And Mr. Johnson, as usual, has left a wide margin for compromise by pinning his statement on a big "if."

When he says that "we" would leave, he is taking large liberties with Quebec opinion, for in the absence of any authoritative polling of public sentiment in that province there is still a great deal of doubt as to how many Quebecois would follow the extremists who would destroy Confederation in their pursuit of localized independence.

Surely the majority of the people of Quebec know—like Mayor Drapeau—that their unity with a sea-to-sea Canada is the best protection their language and culture can have in this continent of 250 million English-speaking people. There is no limit to what they can accomplish with their language and their culture within the framework of Confederation, particularly now that Quebec's educational system is undergoing a needed modernization to meet today's demands.

Full Steam Ahead

THE UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT that wrecked the province's Queen of Prince Rupert and has halted for an unknown period the popular northern coastal service brings two facts to public notice.

One is the important place that this service has found in British Columbia's transportation picture—nearly 3,000 prospective passengers have had to be informed that their bookings over the next two weeks have been cancelled—and the other is that expansion of the service is inevitable and should be high on the list of provincial projects.

The action of the United States government in amending shipping regulations to open the route to a potentially great traffic in American freight trucks makes still more imperative early action in providing a sister ship. The truck traffic should make all the difference between profitable and subsidized operation. The initial experiment indicates a gratifying success and Premier Bennett may be accorded full honors for the imaginative venture.

Trail-Blazing

THE SIZE OF THE AWARD won by Miss Elva Starr bears little relationship to its importance. The St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing senior has received $100, the regular Mungo Martin Memorial Award.

Its significance rests in the recognition it accords this young lady from the Haidas of Kitimat in the realm of accomplishments by Indian peoples of British Columbia.

Following graduation in September, Miss Starr hopes to attend the University of British Columbia to study for a B.Sc. in nursing, before seeking employment with the World Health Organization.

The aspirations of the young winner draw attention to the point made by Mr. Philip Paul, of Brentwood's Tsartlips, in a discussion of educational needs for Indians. He found, from a survey, that among the 1,000 Indians in the capital region, the average educational level is below Grade 8. It is his estimate that about 30 have finished Grade 12.

The numbers are few, but the trend to higher education is increasing. Miss Starr indicates the development. The road ahead to adequate education among the Indians stretches almost interminably, but they are moving along it, encouraged by their own people.

R. L. S. Epitaph

In last Saturday's paper, P. 9, "The Book Page", you print under the heading of "Anthology", part of R. L. Stevenson's "Epitaph". You have, however, omitted the second stanza:

"Here may the winds about me blow
Here the stars may come and go,
Here shall be rest forevermore,
And the heart for aye shall be still."

I am aware that this stanza is omitted from the author's gravestone—why, I do not know, and I have also found that it is unknown to many fairly literate people.—S. H. Anderson.

Sports fishing groups should demand that water be released into Goldstream to keep salmon and steelhead fry alive. Let's keep a few fish. Which is more important—saving fish which can not be replaced, or keeping grass green?—J. M. Jamieson, 2370 Pacific.

Retaliation

There comes a time in nature when an excess in one direction brings a corrective force from another direction.

When an organization refuses an orderly means of conciliation and by witholding services endangers and hurts the public at large to enforce demands, is it not a form of blackmail?

Society can also bring a corrective force against the aggressor by witholding services against the organization.—Concerned.

FROM OTTAWA

The Manning Success Gives His Thesis Importance

By MAURICE WESTERN

DESPITE Mr. Diefenbaker's curt dismissal of the Manning thesis, the Conservatives cannot very well ignore the premier of Alberta. It is a curious situation. Nine avowed contenders for the succession are going up and down the country soliciting delegate support and delivering patchwork speeches about various aspects of Conservative policy. But the most serious and thoughtful appeal of the September convention has been written by a man who calls himself a "Social Conservative" although he is not a candidate or even a member of the existing Conservative party.

Western

Mr. Manning commands attention because of the indisputable fact that he has had more experience of government, albeit at the provincial level, than any person in Canada or indeed in the Commonwealth. For 32 years, without interruption, he has been a member of the Alberta cabinet, and for 24 years, through seven elections, its leader. Only a most able man could achieve such an amazing record.

Almost on the eve of the convention, this man has written a book addressed to (admittedly in a very general way) the principles on which a "reoriented" party might be fashioned. He says that in its present chaotic state the party must be rebuilt anyhow; if it will accept these principles and proceed to certain subsequent steps, it will earn the support of Mr. Manning and, he strongly feels, of the old Social Credit group.

While Mr. Diefenbaker may not be interested in this carrot, there is evidence that other Conservatives are.

The most interesting aspect of the book is that it contains only a single reference (and that a negative one) to Social Credit monetary theory. In Mr. Manning's judgment, the national Social Credit party "faces almost insurmountable difficulties in becoming a vehicle for national political reconstruction in the foreseeable future."

It is apparent from this that Mr. Manning as a sensible man does not believe in printing press money. He speaks of the Aberhart crusade as a movement for "investigating" monetary reforms "intended to relieve the desperate depression situation. Commending the economic doctrine of the Liberal-Conservative philosophy, he writes:

"In particular, it should be pointed out that the present North American expression of this economic doctrine is highly modern and should no longer be caricatured in terms of 19th century laissez faire capitalism. It presents a highly practical and realistic system for the maximum development of physical resources through the utilization of human initiative and enterprise stimulated by the prospect of rewards."

Monetary Reform Abandoned

With this crossing of the ideological watershed, there is no longer any need for a program of monetary reform nor any reason why Mr. Manning should make it a condition in his appeal to the Conservatives. His criticism of the Conservative party becomes, in fact, very much like that of discontented Conservatives. It has become an amorphous, all things to all men coalition, intent more on embracing than on defending principles. Its faults are very much those of the Liberal coalition which it greatly resembles.

What does Mr. Manning want? First, a more definite and consistent opposition to collective socialism. Secondly, greater responsibility in relating programs to available resources. Criticizing present trends he says: "In the absence of tangible evidence that the Liberal government recognizes the degree of economic growth necessary to sustain these ever expanding social services, Canadians face the grim prospects of pyramiding public debt, drastc increases in taxation, and a steady decline in the value of the Canadian dollar." In fact he fears that the present course may precipitate a serious financial crisis within the next few years.

Mr. Manning also wants the reorganized party to dedicate itself to various "social conservative" ideals and principles. Most of them are so vague as to be acceptable, one would think, to almost any Liberal or Conservative and they have perhaps been included primarily for the consolation of Social Crediters who are to merge into the larger entity.

The key to the premier's thinking is the word "polarization." He would end (for the present at least) the existing untidiness of our system by a realignment which would bring together the "social conservatives" of all parties into one party, with the socialists and radicals in another.

There has been much talk along this line ever since the third inconclusive election in 1965. At one point there were even informal discussions between various Liberals and NDP members at Ottawa. Polarization into a new two-party system would undoubtedly give the voter a more meaningful choice.

But it might have other consequences. Division along doctrinaire lines would certainly make changes of government more disruptive of the economy. Thus in Britain, Labor nationalized steel; the Conservatives turned it back to private enterprise and now Labor is again reorganizing it within the public sector. It is not necessarily a bad thing to have Conservatives moderating the thrust of a Liberal government and Liberals exercising a restraining influence within the Conservative caucus. In any case it seems vain to hope for political tidiness in a federal system.

On the other hand our politics at the moment are untidy beyond all reason. A recognizable Conservative party would serve the national interest. We now have one party, Social Credit, which, at least in Alberta, is conservative in action but not in name and another party conservative in name but with no clear direction. (Mr. Manning is careful to distinguish the "more pragmatic" Bennett government from his own — Does he mean more opportunist?) We have Mr. Caouette's assurance that the Creditistes are not conservatives and this may be accepted; they are perhaps the people to whom Mr. Manning refers to obliquely as "extremists" and from their speeches would apply in the 1960s the measures which, as a young man, he thought suitable to the desperate 1930s.

Larger Convention

Mr. Manning insists that the Conservatives after Toronto, should take various steps leading to a larger convention open to social conservatives of all parties or none. It sounds vaguely like the Kingston conference and subsequent rally of "liberally-minded Canadians." That this had extremely important, if very mixed consequences, no one could seriously deny.

As it may not be altogether easy after Toronto to determine whether the Conservatives have met Mr. Manning's conditions or not, the chances are that realignment will be in the political air for some time to come. A dramatic merger is perhaps unlikely but a drift of Social Crediters into a reorganized Conservative party quite probable. This certainly appears from Mr. Manning's thesis to be their logical federal home.

Too Many Obstacles for a Vietnam Council Session

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

SENATORS Mike Mansfield (D) of Montana and John Sherman Cooper (R) of Kentucky revived, this past week, a long-standing suggestion that the Vietnam war be taken to the UN Security Council. This idea seems to surface each time there is a wave of discouragement in Washington about the progress of the war — as there is at the moment because of failure to enlist greater troop contributions from America's allies.

Frye

Not knowing what else to do, the hawks cry, "Step up the bombing!" and the doves say, "Toss it to the UN!"

This puts the Administration in the position of a golfer whose tee shot is stymied behind a large tree. "Chop down the tree!" cry some in the gallery. "Use your fish pole!" others suggest.

Taking Vietnam to the UN is not unlike trying to hit a golf ball with a fish pole. It can perhaps be done, but it is not the most appropriate instrument available.

Debate in the UN Security Council would be fruitful only if preliminary explorations indicated the Soviet Union was amenable. There is no sign this is presently the case.

It is not just that Moscow can veto Council action. Under some circumstances, it can be worth while to put the Kremlin into the embarrassing position of having to veto a virtuous proposal.

In this case, however, it is not clear what practical purpose would be served by forcing a veto. There is no likelihood that it would pry Soviet policy in a westward direction, and much to suggest that the opposite might result.

Indeed, it is not clear the United States could round up the nine-vote majority necessary to pass a resolution whose principal purpose was to isolate and pressure Moscow. Unless there are nine affirmative votes in the 15-nation Council, a veto is unnecessary.

Presumably the focus of discussion would be a proposal that the Council call for peace negotiations.

Long before such a proposal came to a vote, the Soviet Union would be certain to offer amendments. At the very least, the Kremlin would ask, and be likely to get majority support for, a halt in the American bombing of North Vietnam and participation by the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) at the peace table.

Washington would then either have to agree or use its own veto. It might conceivably agree, but — barring the election of a peace-minded civilian president Sept. 3 — Saigon would not.

Only in a very special set of circumstances would an appeal to the UN be useful. Each of the following things would have to be true, simultaneously:

- The United States would have to be ready to halt the bombing and talk to the Viet Cong.
- Washington would have to be prepared for — indeed, would have to welcome — UN pressure on Saigon to do the same.
- The current election campaign in South Vietnam would have to uncover or produce sufficient demand for peace to render a Saigon government — military or civilian — susceptible to UN pressure. (Several presidential candidates do appear to be bidding for the "peace vote.")
- Hanoi, influenced by Moscow, would have to want to get out from under Peking's wing. It would then accept an invitation to take part in the UN diplomacy, public and private, while Peking — barring a complete transformation of policy and personnel — would continue to refuse.
- Moscow would have to be ready, and able, to protect North Vietnam from Chinese backlash if it did defy China. Some Peking spokesmen have threatened to intervene physically in the war if a "sell-out peace" seemed imminent.

Such a concatenation of circumstances is not impossible, but it is extremely unlikely.

Short of it, a Security Council session on Vietnam would be a wildly abrasive East-West tug-of-war, each side seeking to muster UN pressure on its adversary with little hope that the pressure, even if obtained, would have anything but propaganda value.

The United States would not enter these lists at an advantage. As Secretary-General U Thant's recent public statements have indicated, American policy in Vietnam is by no means universally approved.

What Senators Mansfield and Cooper suggest, therefore, would be a risky venture. The golfer who uses a fish pole must be ready to see the ball go in almost any direction.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

Now that the woods and forests are dangerous to hike in, take a leisurely trip around the Marine Drive to Royal Oak. There are many trees that one can see.

Some of them are native, others have been introduced and now are a part of our landscape.

There are some fine specimens of the Garry oak at the Rithet property as well as several Douglas firs that are perhaps over 400 years of age.

Out at Gordon Head there is perhaps one of the best stands of Arbutus to be seen anywhere. Some have twisted limbs, others are straight and tall.

Do you know that this tree was given its name by the first white man to see it, Father Juan Crespi, and that it was taken from the Spanish word Madrono which means the strawberry tree.

Along the way, in some of the older gardens you can see some of the Cedars of Lebanon with their long bluish-green needles and egg-shaped cones that are erect.

In several spots are the acacias, with double compound leaves and long thorns on the twigs and branches. Look for the flattened, often twisted, pods that hold the seeds. In some places the tree is called the sweet locust.

Elsewhere in rows are sicamore trees, with their shallow lobed leaves. The bark is often "patchy" and in the fall the fruit hangs in tight balls composed of many hairy nutlets.

Of course we can see many of the horsechestnuts that are now showing the thick cupule holding the shiny brown nut with which, as boys, we played "conkers."

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

The confusion and lack of information in the West concerning China's titanic "cultural revolution" was never more apparent than this past week.

Recent reports, by way of Hong Kong and Tokyo, had indicated Mao Tse-tung was gaining the upper hand and on the verge of crushing opposition centred around President Liu Shao-chi.

Only last weekend thousands of militant young Red Guards paraded outside Liu's Peking home in a show of strength for Mao. Liu's ouster was considered imminent.

●

Then, suddenly, the picture changed. A note of alarm was noted in Mao's official Chinese press. Reports petered out of violent struggles in widespread areas. Mao clearly was a long way from control. Some said he was unlikely to hold on to power after the present upheaval, regardless of which side comes out on top.

Defence Minister Lin Piao had been considered next in line as Mao's chosen successor, but now attention was turned to Premier Chou En-lai as a possible compromise leader.

At any rate, it seems clear now that Liu's faction is bigger and stronger than anyone outside China realized previously. Reports of fighting and bloodshed have come from provinces believed to have been Mao strongholds.

The country's largest city, Shanghai, is a main centre of the turmoil and Wuhan, an important economic centre, is caught in the throes of hand-to-hand fighting.

Official Chinese organs admitted that Liu's supporters had tried to assume power in army and air force units and called on Maoists to step up the struggle.

Meanwhile the Communist-inspired strife continued in Hong Kong. There were a number of border incidents including a foray by Chinese workers across the frontier to attack a British police post.

However, it was becoming more apparent in Hong Kong that the Chinese, with their hands full at home, are intent only on making mischief and are deliberately avoiding any major encounters.

●

Two other revolutions halfway around the world from China which also were believed to have been quelled, suddenly flared anew in Nigeria and the Congo.

The breakaway eastern region of Biafra launched an offensive which gave it control of midwestern Nigeria and staged two daring bombing raids on the federal capital of Lagos.

Britain had been adopting a hands-off attitude toward the rebellion in the expectation that the Biafra forces would be defeated, but now has begun air-lifting weapons to boister the federal army of Major-Gen. Yakubu Gowan.

In the Congo, mercenaries and Katanga rebel forces seized the town of Bukavu and hurled an ultimatum to President Joseph Mobutu to resign or face a full-scale civil war.

●

Elsewhere in Africa, Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith sent a message to the British government asking Prime Minister Wilson to give more details of a peace proposal first discussed by the two leaders last December.

Smith was also faced by his first real challenge at home, by extemist members of his own party who want the breakaway regime to break off negotiations with Britain, declare formation of a republic and introduce a racial policy of apartheid.

At the United Nations a number of African and Asian nations, impatient at the lack of progress in putting Smith's rebellion down, are preparing to push for stronger international measures.

Armed force, symbolized by soldiers on riot duty shown here, has so far been the main response of white America to the Negro revolt. And this, in turn, has brought about the rise of militant Black Power advocates.

Is Revolution Only Hope?

By LOUIS E. LOMAX

DETROIT—As one pokes in the ruins of Detroit it is irrefutably evident that a black power revolutionary organization—or thinly veiled group of organizations—took over and directed the riots.

Detroit is every American city. No honest man can question the black power structure's indictment of the motor city. What one can question is the black power advocate's basic philosophy and the militaristic actions that flow from that philosophy.

The first tenet in the black power theology is that there has been no change since the supreme court decision of 1954 and therefore the American white man is incapable of change. I first heard this argument from the late Malcolm X as I helped him correct galley proofs of the first edition of the Black Muslim newspaper being printed at a white plant in Brooklyn. The argument is false on both counts.

A great deal has happened to American race relations since 1954. It has happened for the Negro with training, brains and talent. It has not happened for the Negroes from Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia who have, as migrants, taken over the ghettos of our major cities and inbred their children with something approaching a congenital inability to live in and work into the American mainstream, something those of us who were the original participants of the Negro revolt aspired to.

Last in Series

The orginal dream, the one articulated by Dr. Martin Luther King, was that we would all—black and white together—walk, live and pray together. The Negroes and whites who made sure Detroit exploded are yet another breed. They are bent upon bringing down both the nation and the system that undergirds it.

They have lost faith. They are now convinced that neither the white power structure nor I as a successful Negro really care about what happens to them from day to day.

"President Johnson will get his rat bill passed now," a Negro woman in Detroit said to me last month, with pointed reference to the cavalier way the House of Representatives had vetoed the administration bill to eliminate rats.

"I wonder what Gov. Romney prayed for in church last Sunday," a Negro Ph.D. said to me in obvious reference to the fact that Romney is a high official in the Mormon Church which holds, as a basic tenet, that Negores are created morally inferior and thus cannot achieve the highest spiritual degree

I stood and watched as the mayor of Detroit convened with what he deemed to be "Negro leadership" to plan the future of Detroit as it rises, Phoenix-like, from the ashes. They were the same old crowd, the same old Negro leaders who have not the slightest communication with the Negro masses; the Negroes who could not foresee or stop a racial insurrection if you gave them a detailed blueprint.

I stood outside Edward Vaughn's bookstore talking with the owner. "Look," Vaughn said as he waved a copy of my book, 'The Negro Revolt,' which had been water-soaked along with all of his inventory by the Detroit police, "you told them; Martin King told them; everybody who cares, white and black, told them. They did not listen." That is the most fundamental thing written in the ashes of Detroit: will America listen to those who write and orate their grievance under the aegis of non-violence. Or, God forbid, the only thing they will hear is the crackling of flames, the burp of gunfire and the wail of police sirens across the nation.

The bad people are now organized. They are subsidized, trained and ready.

Are we?

Labor Party Would Lose If Election Held Now

By KENNETH HARRIS

LONDON—Britain's Labor government has come to the end of its third parliamentary year. The prime minister, Mr. Harold Wilson, and his ministers are taking a holiday before they face an autumn full of problems when Parliament reassembles in October.

And the question comes up: If there were to be a general election in the next few months, would the government be returned to power? Or would Mr. Edward Heath and the Conservatives, now with 100 fewer seats in the House of Commons than the Labor party, sweep into power?

The Labor party, after 13 years in opposition, squeezed into office in October, 1964, with a majority of only four seats, mainly on the basis of three major promises to the electors.

Big Promises

It claimed that it would solve the problem of increasing inflation, and would be able to do so where the Conservatives had failed, because the trades unions would support a Labor government's policy aimed at smaller annual wage increases whereas they would not support similar policies urged by the Conservatives.

The second major promise was that there would be a general increase in the standard of living, represented, for instance, by bigger pensions for retired people, larger family allowances for the poor, more schools for everybody—all this to be financed, not by higher taxation, but out of economic growth and increased productivity.

Not Delivered

The third major promise was that a fresh new climate, or atmosphere, of effort, achievement and satisfaction would be created in Britain, replacing the tired, frustrated, stagnant, social atmosphere inherited from the Tories.

These promises have not been fulfilled. For 12 months relations between the trades union movement and the government have been no better than they were when a Conservative government was in power. To some extent they are positively worse. The Labor government, though it claims to be relying on the trades unions exercising voluntary wage restraint, has insisted on extending the powers of an act passed a year ago giving it the right, if necessary, to impose wage control. This is extremely disagreeable to the trades union movement.

Though wage increases have been limited during the last 12 months, though prices have risen by only two per cent and though, consequently, the Government can claim a temporary victory in the battle against inflation, the main objective of economic policy—a favorable balance of payments situation—has not been achieved, and the most fervent supporter of the Government at the moment could not claim that is in prospect.

As for ecomomic growth, its targets, outlined in the famous but short-lived National Plan published in September 1965, have been temporarily abandoned, and nobody can be sure when they will be set up again. Though it would be unfair to say that there is economic stagnation, the rate of growth is very low.

As for the "new" and "fresh" atmosphere in Britain, there is not much sign of it. The rate of unemployment is the highest for years; prices are still very high; the brain drain continues; the newspapers talk of the youth of Britain living on drugs; Government Ministers and Members of Parliament look fatigued; the general public seems irritable and one frequently hears the phrase "fed up."

The government can say many things in its defence. It inherited a tremendously difficult economic and political legacy from the preceding Conservative Government. Is has had some atrocious luck, ranging from the disastrous seamen's strike of last summer to the recent Middle East war, which is going to send soaring the price Britain will have to pay out of its precious reserves for oil.

The Government can claim that all its alleged "failures" to deliver are in the short term; that—in its new approach to the trades union problem, for instance—it is laying down the basis for future success. Given another couple of years the picture will be different.

It can claim that it has saved sterling. It can claim that it has improved the plight of the old-age pensioner. It can claim to have cut defence costs and eliminated many wasteful projects.

Do No Good

Yet, if, as a result of the problems which will face the government in the next few weeks, mainly of an economic character, there were to be a sudden general election, it would not do the Labour Party the slightest bit of good to harp on the mess the Conservatives left them in 1964, nor to point out what ill luck it has had since being reelected with a vastly increased majority for a five-year term in 1966.

There is no doubt in my mind that if there were a general election tomorrow the Labour government would be turned out and the Conservatives, under Mr. Heath, would be brought in.

Separatist Groups 'Small but Noisy'

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — When Prime Minister Pearson referred a fortnight ago to the "small minority of our population whose aim is to destroy Canada," he meant the Quebec separatists.

Waring

How small that minority is is not generally known.

In the past the separatists have made grossly inflated claims as to their strength, like the 60,000 members Le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale once boasted to have—a figure that has been sharply scaled down to a more believable 11,000 in most recent RIN statements.

However, reliable sources here who have made it their special business to keep track of bubblings in the murky pot of Quebec extremism have more realistic figures. As of Jan. 1, they say, the membership of the RIN was no greater than 6,500 to 7,000. Undoubtedly the RIN has sympathizers outside its membership. How many is wholly unknown, but the number is not believed to be large.

●

The RIN, headed by former newsman Pierre Bourgault, is thus the strongest of the three separatist political parties. Its proselytizing apparatus is its party periodical "L'Independance,' and its body of organizers — one chief organizer and two or three assistants in most of Quebec's provincial electoral districts.

Second to the RIN is Le Ralliement National (RN), the party led by Gilles Gregoire, MP for Lapointe, Que., and former deputy leader of the Quebec Creditiste party. It has between 1,500 and 2,000 members, including some 300 organizers.

The third pary is Le Parti Socialiste Quebecois, a breakaway group from the Quebec New Democratic Party that has no connection with the NDP. Its leader is Roger Bedard, a former journalist, and it has an estimated 500 members.

There have been other separatist parties in the past that are now moribund or defunct, like the Parti Republicain de Quebec. The pattern has been for a group of hot-eyed separatists to form a party, then fight among themselves and split into splinter parties that either die or are swallowed by the RIN or the RN.

●

The FLQ — the terrorist organization calling itself the Front de Liberation Quebecois that specialized in mail box bombings a few years ago — still exists, but is quiescent. Its membership is believed to be very small, and its political affiliation, if any, nebulous.

So the number of separatist party members is not more than 10,000 — which is .17 per cent of Quebec's population, and .049 per cent of Canada's population. Indeed, as Pearson said, "a small minority."

But a noisy one, playing the squeaky wheel in Confederation, although as yet getting no grease except the soft soap of Charles de Gaulle.

Indeed, there's reason to suspect that de Gaulle had been surreptitiously giving them aid and comfort long before he was "carried away" with their enthusiasm in Montreal, and cried "Vive le Quebec libre" from the balcony of City Hall. In March an article on RIN leader Bourgault in the Montrealer magazine quoted Bourgault as saying:

"I know de Gaulle is for an independent Quebec, though you'll never hear him say it."

After he said it, RN leader Gregoire was sufficiently encouraged to declare flatly that Quebec will be independent by 1970.

Not Even a Nibble, but— Nice Night for a Boat Ride

By ART STOTT

Except for a few evenings when the strait has been glass-smooth, the winds that have sprung up in the late afternoon have kept a lot of us from after-dinner trolling. We take this to be an unkindly act of nature in a summer that has permitted vacationers ample fishing time while we were at work, but denies us the relaxation of the pastime in what should have been serene pre-dusk hours.

Stott

Not that the wind alone has prevented some of us from catching salmon. People in my category no longer talk of going fishing. We simply say that we're going for a boat ride and probably will trail a couple of lines behind us. Actually landing a fish becomes more and more a memory. Somehow we've lost the touch.

We look with a small, but jaundiced, envy upon the youngsters who start out at the crack of dawn, generally catch the change of tide and frequently return with salmon. Some of us, with recollections of hauls made in a distant past, wonder if the ability diminishes with advancing years.

* * *

On occasion, I, as one of the less successful of today's fishermen, try to be realistic about the thing. Did I, in fact, pull in as many salmon years ago as I have come to believe I did? Or has my boyhood fishing attained the glamorized aura that retrospect has given to my boyhood tennis. Human memory, I have been told, has the capacity for holding the cheerful, enjoyable recollections, but loses the unattractive asd disappointing. That, an informant explained to me, is how we preserve a measure of mental health and avoid going round the bend brooding about misfortunes.

Apart from grilse — and I did reasonably well on them before conservation regulations reduced the number that could legally be taken by one fisherman — my remembered "boatloads of fish" seldom, if ever, ran more than two or three salmon for each troller in the boats I occupied and helped to row. Very often we came in with a single coho. If memory serves, very often we also came in skunked. And we spent more time on the water at good fishing hours than we do now.

I'm convinced, however, that 40-odd years ago we caught more salmon, with fewer fishing, than we do today. Naturally, we attribute the drop in sports catches to the commercial men, particularly the netters. There is no way of proving that if more people had fished the waters from Brotchie Ledge to Trial the catches would have been correspondingly higher then than they are now — though I think they would have been. As I look at the gear used today, in comparison to the primitive equipment of half a century ago, I'm impressed with the higher efficiency of the modern troller.

Time was when almost everyone used a handline, about 40 feet from boat to the Gibbs Stewart No. 5 that was almost universally used, wobbling at the end of a four-foot piano wire lead attached to a secondary 20-foot lead of cuttyhunk. We tied the heavier line around one of our legs as we rowed, and when a fish struck, we had no alternative but to railroad it in. Very few used rods and reels, with their capacity to let a fighting salmon run.

By modern standards, our technique was something less than sporting. We were out after fish. We enjoyed catching them, and the business of light leads and slender rods was something for the "chirpers". Since that day of practical fishing we have been educated to the refinements — on the basis of my non-catches, over-educated, over-refined.

Still, there are compensations. Nothing replaces the sharp exhilaration of that quick tug on the line, the surging run of a fighting fish and the final satisfaction of boating it. But this does not discount the pleasure of being afloat on a fine evening, with Mount Baker in pastel glory, the Olympics changing color in the softening light and the Sooke Hills silhouetted against a setting sun. There is still the marvel of flight patterns as seabirds sweep to resting places. There is beauty, also, in the fluid grace of porpoises rolling up and over in the quest for food. Even the seals, lifting inquiring heads above the surface, have their attraction.

Sure, the sea animals spoil the fishing. But they add interest to a boat ride — and I'm growing reconciled to boat rides. With all this, who wants fish?

I do, of course.

Arabs Feeling The Pinch

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The cost of the Arab-Israeli war and its aftermath has begun to squeeze the peoples of the Arab countries.

Their leaders have told them a long period of sacrifice and belt-tightening lies ahead before things return to normal.

In Egypt, the government has announced an austerity budget that raised taxes and the price of consumer goods.

The Iraqi government has established a new defence tax that ranges from two to 25 per cent of all salaries. Syria raised the price of bread 14 per cent and the price of rice 11 per cent. It banned imports of luxury items such as neckties and artificial flowers. Unemployment is up in Jordan.

The new taxes and price rises are intended to make up for frozen sources of revenue, such as the blocked Suez Canal in Egypt and the stoppage of oil exports from Iraq.

Some of the money will also be used to rearm and reorganize the Arab armies.

10,000 BY TONIGHT?

Luxton Fair Crowds Setting New Record

Hundreds of visitors poured into the Luxton Fair grounds today boosting total attendance at the three-day agricultural exhibition to 9,000.

Fair officials were optimistic that the total attendance by nightfall would be at least 10,000 — an all time record for the class C fair.

Today's events started at 11 a.m. with a parade which began at Belmont High School and ended on the fair grounds. There were some 40 entries — mostly all depicting centennial themes.

The parade also included bands of the 5th B.C. artillery and the American cruiser, USS Chicago.

In the afternoon, Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes visited the fair and presented centennial medallions to eight pioneers.

PIONEERS NAMED

The senior citizens have qualified for the awards by being resident in Canada prior to 1892.

Those who received medallions were John Campbell, 256 Gorge Road N.; Laurette Conway, 331 Gibbs Road; Isabel Moors, 450 Tipton Road; George Mowat, Matson Lodge; John Pynn, 3965 Glanford Ave.; Albert Reenes, 943 Latoria Street; Jenny West, Cedars Hospital, and Eva Rhodee, 3484 Happy Valley Road.

Some of the attractions popular with visitors are the show, the midway and the animal exhibits which include dairy cattle, goats, sheep and rabbits.

Friday events included the crowning of Brenda Aylward, 17, 3355 Libbett Crescent, as queen of the fair. Princesses were Wendy Parsons, 3186 Ayton Place, Linda Cunningham, Millstream Road, and Theresa de Groot, 743 Pears.

Winner of a baby show was eight-month-old Robert Henson of 1449 Burnside West.

A major sport attraction was a tug-of-war won by an RCMP team. Competing were Colwood and Langford firemen.

BIG SUCCESS financially, the Luxton fair is attracting record crowds because of the quality of its farm exhibits and lively program of entertainment. Major event Friday was crowning of fair Queen Brenda Aylward (above) by Emily Robinson, last year's queen. Also above Sarah Blenkinsopp, 3468 Happy Valley Road, attired in pioneer dress, holds old lamp, one of many relics of the past on display. At right, brothers Lavon and Shawn Milligan have fun with a bull horn; a plate containing butter and cheese made from goat's milk is shown the maker by Mary Fernie, 4987 William Head. Having fun in the hay are Debbie and Lorraine Stohl, 888 Heatherly Road, and Karen Goodman, 617 Kildew. (Queen's picture by Robin Clarke, others by William John.)

Sewer Plan Criticized

NORTH COWICHAN — Ratepayers in the south end of this municipality are against council taking compulsory steps to install a sewer line.

A citizens' committee decided unaninmously Friday to plug instead for a regional sewer area.

This would mean linking up to neighboring Duncan's sewers.

The furor is over council's decision this week to instal the $450,000 sewer main as a local improvement; requiring approval only of householders who are serviced. Only they meet the cost.

Citizens' spokesman Bob Evans said: "Some members of the southend ratepayers and the citizens' committee for sewers were very shocked and surprised at North Cowichan Council's decision to go ahead with the southend sewer under local improvement.

"The city of Duncan has gone on record as being in favor of a regional sewer area.

"The committee voted unanimously in favor of a regional sewer area and to ask the municipality to have the engineer quote costs if the area was sewered under a regional area with the municipality using the city transmission line form the city boundary to the sewage lagoon.

"The committee also passed a motion to ask the department of municipal affairs for a joint meeting with the city and the municipality to discuss the regional sewer area."

Earlier this week, Reeve Donald Morton expressed doubt whether a regional area could be implemented in time to solve the urgent need for a southend sewer.

Racqueteers Overrun Park Courts

Nearly 300 youngsters from Victoria and Esquimalt are competing in tennis matches in an inter-municipal contest at Beacon Hill Park.

The tournament will run from Monday to Wednesday with civic officials presenting awards 4 p.m. on the last day.

Two special trophies, donated by the inter-municipal recreation council, will be presented for sportsmanship, one to a boy and one to a girl.

Finalists in Friday's matches were: Esquimalt: Girls—Linda Bishop, Cathy Campbell and Vikci Dormen. Boys—Dave Gerry, Howie Lee and Doug Stubbs.

Victoria: Girls—Margaret Reid, Heather Graham, Beverly Dumas and Liz-Ann Ogden. Boys—Pete Mason, Dave Blackley and Ted Davies.

Duncan Timbermen Compete for Cash

DUNCAN — Crowds streamed into Pioneer Park here today for the second annual Cowichan Timber Carnival.

They were greeted by the rasping saws and the chopping of axes as top woodsmen from the Pacific Northwest competed for the many cash prizes.

As a break from logging competitions, the crowds were treated to skydiving by three local men.

Following the opening by Lands Minister Ray Williston at 1 p.m., visitors were treated to a smorgasbord luncheon.

The carnival was to end tonight with a fireworks display.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the charity game held at the junior bridge club Wednesday were: Homer and Jean Kolb; Irene Brown and Doris Seddon; Peggy Crawford and Grace Cotton; Gladys Cropp and Kay Clark; Helen Ryan and Georgia Razzell; Tom Perry and Bill Hargreaves.

If America Right World Must Follow

THE ARROGANCE OF POWER, by J. William Fulbright, Vintage Paperback, $2.25.

Reviewed by E. R. Zietlow, University of Victoria.

"Hampered though he is by human limitations, the American politician of the 1960s has responsibilities which no politician in any country in all history has had before. His is the world's most powerful nation at the moment in history when powerful nations have acquired the means of destroying the human race."

These words of Senator Fulbright express a truth which is disagreeable to a large — and perhaps growing — number of nations. However, the people of these nations should be in some measure reassured that J. William Fulbright numbers among important American politicians and is deeply concerned by a phenomenon of American foreign policy he labels "the arrogance of power."

●

His recent book THE ARROGANCE OF POWER (Random House, 1966; now in paperback) is a wise and forthright critique of some of the most important issues in the world today — a critique often censorious of U.S. policy, but indicative of the author's "higher patriotism" in his concern that his country's actions be consonant with world realities. World realities inevitably involve Latin America, Vietnam, China and Europe as they are affected by the arrogance of power.

Fulbright defines the arrogance of power as "the tendency of great nations to equate power with virtue and major responsibilities with a universal mission."

America has had from the beginning a sense of her mission among the nations of the world, because her 18th century founders had an inordinate faith in reason and human goodness and saw their country as a model for future states. But it is one of the great ironies of U.S. history that she should at last come to the position of imposing her good upon unwilling neighbors.

If the American way is right, U.S. policy makers seem to have reasoned, it follows that communism, the politico-economic antithesis of the American way, is wrong, and it is America's duty to rescue emergent nations from communism.

Unfortunately they are rescued for a fate they are often ill-prepared to survive, the imitation of America.

●

The American obsession with rescuing countries from communism has resulted in a "crisis" foreign policy with too many ironies to list here. But in general, crisis policy, the indiscriminately negative revolutions in the world, has resulted in an arrogance of power. Vietnam is the current example.

Vietnam is a complex problem which Fulbright oversimplifies. He focuses upon that aspect of U.S. involvement which relates to American idealism and anti-communism, ignoring the economic factor.

Europe's partial turning away from America increased America's fear of Chinese economic hegemony in Asia because it would result in the hemispheric isloation of the U.S. With the dissolution of empires, a "new imperialism" has developed, manifested in the economic domination of politically independent emergent states by hightly industrialized states such as the U.S.

This is not necessarily a tragedy for the emergent states, unless it inhibits "normal" processes of revolution — Latin America offers examples. Cuba broke U.S. control and, in a divided world, associated herself with the opposing bloc. Chinese hegemony in Asia would result in an extensive loss for America of markets such as Japan, besides probably triggering largely leftist revolutions in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and perhaps India and Africa. Hence the spread of communism and China's emergence in a (probable legitimate) sphere of influence appear to go hand in hand and the result could only be a squeeze on the U.S.

I could not blame the U.S. for its obsession with the "containment" of China if there was no possibility of a reconciliation with Communist states and every revolution pushed America further into a corner.

The possibilities, however, appear to be more extensive, and here Fulbright is quite explicit.

"Far from being unified in a design for world conquest, the Communist countries are deeply divided among themselves, with widely varying foreign policies and widely varying concepts of their own natural interest."

'Rescued for Fate Ill-Prepared To Survive'

Nationalism, not communism, has tended to characterize modern revolutions. Furthermore, it is in the nature of revolutions that they pass through stages, eventually arriving at a stage known as "Thermidor," in which there is an abatement of fanaticism.

Not seeming to understand these factors, U.S. policy makers have involved their country in such ventures as the Dominican intervention, the Cuban invasion and the Vietnam war. The alternative to such policy is the rebuilding of bridges to the East.

"The reconciliation of East and West is primarily a psychological problem, having to do with the cultivation of co-operative attitudes and of a sense of having practical common objectives."

●

Hence the barriers are not ideological; neither are they ultimately a question of economic survival for America. The normalization of relations with Communist countries and the opening of trade channels provide a way around the politico-economic problems that generate current U.S. foreign policy—policy which, unfortunately, aggravates rather than resolves the problems.

Finally there is the question of how to achieve the revision of American foreign policy which Fulbright outlines. Ay, there's the rub.

Fullbright recognizes that there are two Americas: "One is the America of Lincoln and Adlai Stevenson; the other is the America of Teddy Roosevelt and the modern superpatriots . . . One is judicious and the other arrogant in the use of great power."

How America acts will depend on which America is speaking; which element is in power. There is no magical solution which will cause the tradition of Lincoln and Stevenson to prevail, but Fulbright's book is certainly a contribution to the clarification of the problem.

Let us hope clarification can adjust preconception.

Fulbright quotes Gordon Allport: "What people expect determines their behavior . . . The indispensable condition of war is that people must expect war."

●

We need to liberate our imaginations; to look objectively at the conditions under which some people of the world live and to try to understand their human experience.

If we did this, "we might be able to see why so many people in the world are making revolutions; we might even be able to see why some of them are Communists."

THE ARROGANCE OF POWER is a stimulating book about some terribly important matters. Whether or not you agree with Fulbright, whether you are American or Canadian, you can ill afford to ignore this book.

Writer Portrays Napoleon In Role of Tragic Hero

THE LAST DAYS OF NAPOLEON'S EMPIRE, by Henry Lachouque (New York: Orion Press; Toronto: Fitzhenry & Whiteside.) 291 pp. $7.50.

Reviewed by Hereward Senior, McGill University

The adventures of Napoleon between the time of his defeat at Waterloo and his departure for Saint Helena had, for the most part, been neglected by biographers and historians.

Commandant Henry Lachouque has unwoven the complex maze of details which surrounded this episode, and has presented them with considerable dramatic effect.

Although he is master of the facts, Commandant Lachouque is interested in telling a good story. He presents Napoleon in the role of the tragic hero, betrayed and deserted by cowardly and selfish careerists, whose intrigues prevent the emperor from rallying the people and army "from the rank of captain down" in a defence a outrance.

It is evident that the author believes such a defence possible, and perhaps it was, but it is not clear that the sacrifice involved would have had much point. The peace terms of the allies in 1815 were relatively mild, and a people's war of the kind Napoleon contemplated was attempted without success against the Prussians in 1870.

NAPOLEON
. . . misled

And if the return of the Bourbons was inglorious, it was not quite the disaster the author suggests, as constitutional government returned with them to enjoy a precarious existence until France was again ruled by another Bonaparte in 1848.

Yet if Napoleon's plan of resistance was folly, it was heroic folly and those who deposed him acted from instincts of self-preservation.

It would appear that these same instincts on the part of his followers led them to mismanage or possibly sabotage the Emperor's projected escape to America.

In Napoleon's final decision to surrender to England, the author explains how the Emperor was misled, partly by the vague courtesies of Maitland who commanded the blockading squadron and partly by his own entourage, into a belief that he would be treated more generously. But at the time of his surrender, Napoleon was hardly in a position to make terms.

His return from Elba proved that an unrestrained Napoleon was a menace to the peace of Europe, and the exiled rulers of the 20th century, who often live in fear of kidnapping and assassination by secret police, may well envy Napoleon the security and relative comfort of Saint Helena.

In 1815 it was essential to exile Napoleon because France and Europe needed a respite from heroes and heroism. But only for a while. Commandant Lachouque's book should be read in the English-speaking world as it provides a rare opportunity of seeing Napoleon, not only through French eyes, but through the eyes of a Bonapartist.

A WAY TO ADVERTISE YOURSELF

Everyone Has a Half-Time Period

ORANGES AT HALF-TIME, by Euston More, J. M. Dent and Sons, $5.25.

Reviewed by Norman W. Alford

Euston More's "half-time" is the age of 35, at which he took stock of his memories and set out "to recapture the atmosphere of a pre-war childhood, a war-time schooling and post-war employment."

Every man, so it has been said, has one good book in him, and the author of this saying presumably based it on the idea that any human life is interesting to read about.

This, of course, will depend on the intensity or variety of the life led and the sincerity of the individual's reaction to his experiences.

There is also the need to communicate the experiences, and this last requirement is what condemns most people to remaining "mute, inglorious Miltons," or mute inglorious Grace Metalliouses, as the case may be.

The interest of Mr. More's life really resides in its similarity to so many others of his period (which happens to be my own) and my pleasure in the book is akin to that of discussing schooldays, "war" experiences, and job-hunting, in an English pub, with congenial and amusing cronies who have been through a similar mill.

His opening chapters are his weakest since, treating of a childhood now somewhat distant, they call for a literary skill which the author does not possess. He is best on his short career as an officer in the peace-time army, an environment which he seems to have found most congenial once the rigors of training had been endured.

The cliches and commonplaces which, in the first chapters, made me feel it presumptious of him to write at all, become positively amusing, in a Wodehousian kind of way, and one realizes that Mr. More's forte is as a raconteur of his picaresque misadventures.

He is very good in conveying the claustrophobia, myopia and snobbery of the staff of a private school where his stay was short and indignant.

He ends in advertising and, with a lack of sensitivity to structure which is a part of his general amateurish approach to writing, spends far too long, in such a short book, on less amusing details of this profession.

Perhaps his introduction to advertising encouraged him to advertise himself: the result is, as I have said, a generally entertaining two hours' read for the train or the beach.

Poet Outstrips Her Mentors With New, Direct Simplicity

THE UNQUIET BED. by Dorothy Livesay. Ryerson, Toronto, $4.95.

Dorothy Livesay's recent study of the work of some younger poets, chiefly in Vancouver, has had an invigorating effect on her own poetry.

In a general way, it has drawn her attention to the value of the word in itself, and enabled her to express herself with a new strength, a new spareness, a new direct simplicity. As in all successful poetry, the medium is the message.

It would be unfair, however, to suggest that there is any fundamental break between the African poems, privately published and now re-printed as the last section of the volume, and more recent work.

The natural flow of imagery, which has always been a characteristic of Dorothy Livesay's poetry, is still there. But, like Yeats, she has pared her poetic statements down to the bone, under the stimulus of feeling and fresh technical interests.

The love poems are particularly moving, embodying as they do with astonishing clarity both tenderness and passion.

I cannot help feeling that she has outstripped her young mentors, because she has so much more to say than they, in this frank poetry which sings of the heart and the skin and the marrow-bone with sincerity and complete control of both language and rhythms.

Publication Date Of Letters Advanced

NEW YORK (UPI)—The publication date of Svetlana Alliluyeva's book about her life as daughter of the late Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin has been advanced by three American publishers.

Harper and Row, which holds the main publication rights to the book, "Twenty Letters to a Friend," announced this week it will publish a Russian edition on Oct. 16.

The New York Times and Life Magazine, both of which own serialization rights to exerpts of the book, have advanced their publication dates from October to September. The Times serialization will begin on Sept. 10 and the first of two installments in Life will appear in the issue dated Sept. 15.

A spokesman for Harper and Row said the date was advanced because of a recent surprise publication in England of a Russian language edition.

DEADPAN, DRY SATIRE

Hiebert Attacks Phoneys In Many of His Guises

WILLOWS REVISITED by Paul Hiebert, McClelland and Stewart, $5.00.

Reviewed by Thelma Hurst

Sequel to the author's award-winning Sarah Binks (1947), Willows Revisited is a roguish satire whose targets include pretense and quackery in the spheres of literary regionalism, academic criticism and Canadian politics.

The engendering spark is Sarah, Saskatchewan's late renowned songstress, the goddess, the excuse for self-indulgence.

The Happening at Willows graveyard is the fine old tradition of reading and sacrificial burning of poetry (copies only) by Saskatchewan's famed School of Seven-and-a-Half to commemorate the province's semicentennial and Sarah's 25th death anniversary.

The happening itself is relegated to a tape recording and appendixed to the main body of the work, a critical expose of the background and members of the school.

●

Deadpan and dry satire it is (monument to the hot, dusty, wind-swept Prairies) and perhaps too devastating for any thin-skinned patriot, but probably the most logical means for what might have seemed intractable material, and aimed at a people who take themselves either too seriously or not seriously enough, who need humor to become more human.

Hiebert attacks the phoney in many of his guises. Imitating the puffed-up, cut and dry, know-it-all, over-elaborated and sometimes witless style of too many modern critics Hiebert wholeheartedly exaggerates the foolish or eccentric or commonplace characteristics of prairie variety of the culture vulture, who become understood variations of a theme.

For example, the Great Dean Swivel is "something of a Saskatchewan existentialist," never yet excelled in his cow symbolism. Balaam Bedfellow, PhD, is the sarcastic schizophrenic skeptic prof-poet, academic neurotic.

Wraitha Dovecote is Bedfellow's exotic half-breed student mistress, "an artistic conversation piece, who is poetically, as she has always been physically, a pre-Raphaelite of whom Saskatchewan is proud but does not altogether accept." Purge Potatok, D.P. (and proud of it), the "Half" Member (New Canadian), adopted because of his generous box lunch, is the Primitive Poet, necessary adjunct to any healthy school:

●

I swing flag 24th of May,
I swing him too Dominion
Day—
Dis country got good
King and Queen

But best is here Saskatcheween. . . .

The pace varies with content and range. At first the satire is racy and comprehensive, devouring the Canadian scene; then it narrows and slows down (or stretches out) to the prairie variety.

In the portrayal of the dry and substanceless in criticism and prairie culture Hiebert is successful.

●

The Better Canadian may guffaw heartily or titter discreetly but his own possibilities for ridicule strike one as even richer. The prairie 7½ is only representative, for whenever the Bug (now it's currently the Centennial) has bitten Canada (let alone the world) we've been plagued with the project and too often attempted cures through quacks.

Hiebert does not say we have nothing of value; he simply indicates what we and all men can do without — Sham, Hypocrisy, Self-Adulation, perverted Cynicism, Inflation.

A seventy-five-year-old Young Canadian Protest Marcher, Hiebert is willing to question the Established, the Pompous, the Fake.

NYO Success Shows What Youth Can Do

By AUDREY JOHNSON

No responsible citizen can be deliberately or carelessly oblivious of the problems afflicting so many of the current generation of adolescents and young adults.

Refusing to acknowledge and regard them as a serious social disorder is as heartless as believing that a person with an imagined illness does not suffer.

Society at all times has labeled as misfits those who failed to conform to the established mold and has drawn a rigid line between the wrong-uns and the right-uns.

Audrey

But the endlessly debatable point is, who has rejected whom?

Yes, the hippies have many prototypes in history though perhaps few as youthful.

The fact that it is the young generation, traditionally supposed to be optimistic and overflowing with hope, energy and ambition, that has succumbed to disillusionment and negativism, makes the present situation particularly distressing.

It seems to me that we must regard it as a critical symptom of our age and ask ourselves what is wrong with the training the children are getting at home and in education, that so ill-prepares them for the world we expect them to accept.

Modern communications have exposed a lot of raw nerves and sores to our closer view and it is no longer easy for a man with any conscience to be truly happy and comfortable with his world, near or far.

Oases do occur in the worried landscape though. Substantial ones and small ones, which nevertheless could be expanded if thoughtfully tended.

Such a small "island in the sun" was the National Youth Orchestra concert last Wednesday night.

Here were more than 100 dedicated youngsters who have a creed, a purpose, a channel for their abundent energies, a broad means of expression.

●

Conductor Brian Priestman underlined another significance when he pointed out that this is "a truly national orchestra."

A run-down of the personnel reflects French and English Canada about equally. Eight out of the 10 provinces are represented with many names that track the ethnic origins of this country.

All God's children are not treated alike, and musical talent of quality is conferred on a relative few. More unfortunately, musical responsiveness is lacking also in many people.

So those among the educators, the controllers of public funds, the civic leaders, the politicians, to whom music is meaningless or unimportant, stay away from events like the NYO concert.

●

It's a pity because they could learn something from it — not about music because you only learn what you really want to learn.

But they could learn that the means of combating the boredom of youth are under their hands; that Canada is not too big for east-to-west communion at the grass roots; that it is possible to put young native talent and craftsmanship to work to build a consolidated nation.

What was done in the beginning and what has been accomplished in six years through bringing together in the National Youth Orchestra, musicians from all over the country, could be done in other fields.

Why not a National Youth Theatre with six weeks of workshop under bilingual instructors and two weeks of touring?

Or a National Young Artists League at which in a seasonal gathering teen-age artists and crafts people could get together for instruction and interchange of ideas?

●

An important part of the value of such sessions would be that they were held in different parts of Canada each year, alternating most desirably, the western and eastern provinces.

I think the nub of the whole issue was summed up by Jean Angers. After three years as concert master of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, upon departure to return to his native Quebec, speaking warmly of his sojourn here he said with feeling:

"I came to British Columbia a French Canadian. I return to Quebec — a Canadian."

LINDA
. . . highly praised

Auditions Set For Operatic's Fall Production

A decision to combine a fall production and a Christmas special has been made by Victoria Operatic Society executive.

Auditions will be held, starting Sept. 6, for The Stingiest Man in Town, a musical based on Charles Dickens' ever popular story, A Christmas Carol.

There are 35 speaking and singing parts in the three-act show and a fairly large chorus.

A family audience type musical with many catchy tunes in the score, it will be staged at the McPherson Playhouse from Nov. 28 to Dec. 2.

Musical director will be Howard Denike and stage director Stuart Baker.

Information on pieces for audition may be obtained by phoning assistant secretary, Kathy Mannix at 479-2485.

LES SYLPHIDES FEATURED WORK

Rising Ballerina Stars in Show

The vital young Canadian Opera Company has contributed to this year's tour of the Banff Festival Ballet, through the conductor of the ballet's 15-piece orchestra, Dr. George Brough.

Dr. Brough, who normally conducts the Canadian Opera orchestra on the company's tours, is a member of the music faculty of the Banff School of Fine Arts Music Division.

The ensemble of talented young dancers from across Canada and the United States will appear at the McPherson Playhouse for one performance next Tuesday night.

Stars include Linda di Bona, a rising American ballerina who has been highly praised by noted dance critic, Walter Terry, Canada's outstanding Russian-trained male dancer, Bill Martin-Viscount, Banff dance faculty member Eva von Gencsy, Eric Hampton, Juilliard Dancer Ensemble lead, and Richard Jones, also of the Banff faculty.

Les Sylphides will be the principal classical ballet on the program. Eric Hampton and Linda di Bona will be the lead dancers in the production which has been choreographed and mounted by Meriel Evans.

Miss Evans is this year's guest instructor at the school and is a teacher and major examiner at the Royal Academy of Dancing in London.

James Clouser, ballet master and principal dancer with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and now recognized in all major North American dance centres as an inventive choreographer as well as a fine dancer, has created a new dramatic work for the company, entitled Underworld.

He has also choreographed a delightfully light comic work set to music from Gilbert and Sullivan operas which will also form part of the program to be danced here.

Tickets for the Banff Festival Ballet performance are now on sale at McPherson Playhouse box office.

Curtain time will be 8:30.

FOCUS

By BRAD NUGENT

Currently negotiating with London records on the release of a single is an up-Island group, The Look Band.

The band visited Victoria a few weeks back, at which time they played a dance at the Club Tango.

They were so well received by our younger crowd that they have set local promoters searching Duncan, Nanaimo, and Campbell River for other hot up-Island groups for Victoria dances.

The band, with Bob Warden on lead, Dave Boucher on rhythm, Barry Warden on bass and drummer Jack Wilander recorded, a month ago, two originals "In A Whirl" and "The Truth" both penned by Bob and Barry Warden.

As soon as a few problems with London are remedied, the record will be cut and distributed across the continent. If reaction is as strong as their show's response in Victoria, it shouldn't take too long before they are leaving the Island and venturing into the show biz bright lights as very few Island groups have done before.

Recently, to save on transportation and accomodation when they play out-of-town gigs, the boys bought an old school bus and refinished it with a few coats of purple paint, a new engine and interior.

The hope it will carry them at least a few hundred miles before it has to be classed as scrap metal.

Anyway, they'll be back in Victoria soon with their first single under their belt. So don't miss this time.

About that light show a couple of weekends back.

It was a great show. So great, I mentioned it last week in this column but those psychedelic lights must have been a bit much for my eyes.

Somehow I got the idea that the Blues by Five and the Cry for Justice had provided the sounds.

Well, at least I got the Blues by Five on the right stage, but the Cry for Justice were set-up far from the White Eagle Hall in Nanaimo, they tell me.

Oh well, I've been informed by a very reliable source, namely the City of Drawers' manager, that his group and not the Cry for Justice was on that show with the Blues by Five.

O.K., everybody happy?

By the way, I'm billing the Cry for Justice for the publicity.

BEBE EVERSFIELD

Bebe, choreographer, designer and director of the Butchart Gardens' sparkling stage revue "JUST FOR FUN," playing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, hails from New Zealand and spent her theatrical career in London, England. Studying classical ballet under many of the great teachers of Europe, at the age of fourteen she became ballerina of the Kyoshi Russian Ballet until a foot injury resulted in a change to less demanding musical comedy. Two years in leading roles in productions at His Majesty's Theatre, London, were followed by film work. Bebe has had wide teaching and lecturing experience across Canada. Since opening the Victoria School of Theatrical Arts and being acclaimed Victoria's own choreographer, she decided to make this city her home. Bebe has been associated with the Butchart Gardens Sunset Shows for the past five years.

"I'll have Italian dressing rather than French," said the old Colonel to our waitress.

Our Maitre d', Leslie, overheard. He said, "But Colonel, you always have the French."

"Not since de Gaulle was here," said the Colonel.

"That's best forgotten," said Leslie.

"It's better to think about the French-speaking students who were visiting here from Quebec and how refreshing they were. And how much our students enjoyed the hospitality shown them when they went to Quebec."

The old Colonel said, "You should have been a diplomat." He ordered the French dressing. And he was so pleased with Leslie he let him show him our new addition—the reception areas and meeting rooms. Nothing makes Leslie happier.

Victorians in Bay City Ballet

Two young Victoria dancers, Tina Bacon and Cheryl Moore, both of the Wynne Shaw Dance Studio, will appear in the corps de ballet when San Francisco's Ballet Celeste appears at the McPherson Playhouse for two performances, next Friday and Saturday.

Merriem Lanova, artistic director of the troupe, first met Wynne Shaw several years ago when Miss Lanova was acting as adjudicator at the Spring Festival of the Arts in Spokane.

At that time many top honors were won by the Victoria students.

Dancing the lead in Giselle, in which the two local dancers will appear, is a promising young ballerina, Anita Paciotti. She will be partnered by Ronn Guidi of Germany's Nuremberg Opera Ballet.

Giselle will be the featured work on Friday night, with Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf.

On Saturday night the second act of Swan Lake, Pleasures of Paris with music by Offenbach, and Chinese Cinderella, a ballet that preserves the style of the Oriental theatre, will be seen.

Both performances begin at 8:30. Tickets are now available at the McPherson box office.

CLIMAX TO SUMMER WORKSHOP

Absorbing Piece of Theatrical Entertainment

An amble through University of Victoria's Phoenix Theatre backstage this week raises curiosity about the production to be premiered there Monday night to fever pitch.

The play is The Caucasion Chalk Circle by Bertolt Brecht, and it will crown an exceptionally interesting and productive summer workshop program on the campus.

Directed by one of Britain's leading young professional directors, Martin Jenkins, it will illustrate all the aspects of theatre that the 30-odd students have been absorbing during the past six weeks.

This is its basic business, its raison d'etre. But apart from that fact — which does not directly concern the average theatre goer — the production promises to be an absorbing piece of theatrical entertainment.

Fantastic work has been done on properties and furniture under the supervision of Wolfgang Baba and designer Bill West, and something close to 150 costumes and accessories have been executed with Seattle costume designer Alan Grandstrom directing operations.

Cradles, carts, chairs, desks, utensils, a furry grey rabbit and a corpse are among the articles, all beautifully constructed, many having a certain kookiness that fits into the episodes of wry-faced humor with which the play is laced.

Seeing a play come to life, with the crew setting the stage and the cast arraying themselves in their costumes can be a fascinating experience and this framework as originally set forth by the author has been adhered to by Mr. Jenkins.

For those who seek the deeper significances of the play, its theme deals with survival of an elementary sense of justice in the midst of social chaos.

With the entire student enrolment and three of the instructors — Mr. Grandstrom, Mr. Baba and Mr. West — taking the 87 roles and bit parts, The Chalk Circle is a total involvement project that has everyone working at an enthusiastic white heat.

The production will run nightly through Aug. 19. Tickets are reservable at the Phoenix box office, phone 477-4821.

ADMONISHING the Governor (Warren Larsen) to look to his past, the Storyteller (Jonathan Raitt) points symbolically as the Ironshirts (Peter McKinnon, left, and Blair Mann) look on. # Winnipeg Gets the Best Because People Demand It

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — The best English-speaking theatre in Canada is being produced not in Toronto or Vancouver but by Winnipeg, says Regina Marsh, secreary of the capital's Canadian Festival of the Arts.

She attributes the success of Winnipeg's Manitoba Theatre Centre to its founder, John Hirsch, now working in New York and Stratford, and its enthusiastic board and Winnipeg audiences.

"They don't realize it, but people in Winnipeg have become one of the most demanding audiences in the country. Their taste has developed through consistently high standards of production."

A brunette, brown-eyed mother of three girls and grandmother of five, Mrs. Marsh has lived throughout Canada and Europe with her husband, a former armed forces dentist. "We moved 19 times in 21 years."

On one of the postings, Mrs. Marsh worked with a French-speaking theatre group in St. Boniface, Man., and set up the western section of Association Canadien de Theatre Amateur aided by her "very dear friend" Gratien Gelinas.

She headed the Manitoba and Western Ontario section of the Dominion Drama Festival from 1961 to 1964 and founded the Manitoba Theatre Centre's women's committee, serving as its president from 1962 to 1964. She now is a vice-president of the centre.

MOTHER WROTE PLAYS

Mrs. Marsh's interest in the theatre was nurtured by her mother, who in 1934 wrote an English play and a French play for the Dominion Drama Festival. They competed against each other in regional competition, and the French play made it to the finals.

"My mother was a dilettante but I took the theatre as my religion," says Mrs. Marsh.

The Canadian Festival of the Arts, of which she is secretary, planned the Centennial Year performing arts program for the national capital area. It also played a part in planning the National Arts Centre, to open here in 1969 with two theatres and a concert hall.

To date, theatre in Ottawa has been — putting it kindly — amateur.

"The public here seems satisfied with non-theatrical theatre. I've been to some appalling amateur productions here, and heard people in the audience saying to each other "Wasn't it good?'

"But as it is now, large professional companies can't come because there aren't the facilities. When we get the arts centre, we'll be able to have the Comedie Francaise and Sir Laurence Olivier."

The CFA will plan the proposed seasonal festival for the centre, when companies from around the world will perform there.

"I think Ottawa is ready, judging from the success of concert series and touring plays. They're always sold out."

'Desperado' Misses Village Obscurity

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Steve McQueen is a high school dropout who now can ask and get $750,000 a picture and a big handful of the profits.

"I only made the ninth grade," said Steve, who subsequently got his higher education in the well-known school of hard knocks.

During those years he worked as a tanker deck hand, a lumberman, a farm hand, a carnival barker, a ballpoint-pen salesman, a television repairman. He also did a hitch in the U.S. Marines and became a top-ranked racing driver.

"Although I'm a city boy at heart, I like farm life," he said. "Working with animals gives you a great feeling of right and wrong. Farmers are dead-shot honest people.

"You can learn a lot of odd things on a farm, too. For example, I learned that pigs like to eat coal. Just why I don't know. But they'll eat all the coal you carry to them."

It was while drifting from job to job in Greenwich Village that Steve became interested in acting.

WORK WAS SCARCE

That was in 1950. Steve lived in a $19-a-month walkup apartment and earned — when he could find work — $1.15 an hour repairing television sets.

"There was a cook in a little restaurant who would trust me for up to $30 worth of veal cutlets and beer. He gave me a nickname — 'desperado.'

"It wasn't too hard a life, but all I really miss from those Greenwich Village days is the obscurity I enjoyed then. These are the good old days for me.

EVEN MR. GUN WAS GROWLING

'Curse' of the Turtle on Us

Former Victoria Times reporter John Manning and his wife Pat are currently on a 12,000-mile "Centennial Cruise" aboard their tiny sailing ship Powindah. The pair started in England and hope to end their cruise in the Inner Harbor. This is the 37th in a series on their adventures.

By JOHN MANNING

Harpooning the turtle was a mistake. For in the hour after it died the wind picked up from the southwest and held there like a curse come to plague us. The reptile's shell was left on the foredeck to dry, the pencil round hole in the centre of it glaring aft, bearing on the helmsman like a cyclop's eye.

A week prior we had cast off our moorings from Balboa and run with an out going tide down the big ship channel into the sword-flat calm of Panama Bay. The ship's log held clearance papers for the Galapagos Islands and Tahiti. A British Admiralty publication Ocean Passages for The World did not forecast an easy voyage.

Baffling Winds

"Bound in any direction from Panama," it said, "the chief difficulty is the passage out of Panama Bay, for light and baffling winds or calms are met here at all seasons."

As to southbound sailing vessels it reported that: "These passages are all slow and difficult for a sailing vessel, on account of the contrary coastal current, running to the northward through the year and the equally contrary light, but persistent southerly winds."

In spite of these predictions we hoped to make the Galapagos Islands within three weeks. The distance to be covered, allowing for counter-currents and head winds amounted to 1,000 miles. The pilot chart indicated a zero percentage of gales in the area.

Wild With Fish

The turtle was sighted near Cabo Malo (the Bad Cape) a promontory of Panama some 100 miles northwest of the Canal. It provided fresh meat for three days. The whole area was wild with fish: tuna, bonito, and the ever patrolling sharks. We virtually lived off the sea.

Perhaps the killing of the turtle had no bearing on the matter but for the next 14 days we averaged no more than 19 miles of southing in each 24 hour period. On the day of our supposed arrival in the Galapagos we were little more than half-way there. The ship's company was utterly demoralized. Even the parrot, Mr. Gun, was growing cantankerous and refused to do more than peck at his favorite meal of boiled potatoes.

Choppy Seas

We attempted motor-sailing against the current but as soon as we began to make ground the wind would pick up and choppy seas would almost stop the boat dead in her tracks. I began to think wild thought of heading about and making direct for the Hawaiian Islands, some 5,000 miles away. And one night, on watch between 12 and 3, I seriously considered the nonsensical plan of sailing direct for British Columbia, which would have meant following the wind almost to Hawaii and then standing back to the coast of North America. This idea evaporated with the dawn. We had come too far to miss the South Pacific Islands.

Alternatives

There were other alternatives: we could give up our battle with the Humbolt Current and sail due west for the Marquesan Islands near Tahiti. This would mean that by the time we arrived there we would have been at least 60 days at sea; although we had more than enough stores for such a passage neither the mate nor myself relished the idea. As we were equidistant from both Balboa and the South American coast we could also turn back for port. However, I had no detailed chart of the South American coast and only a pilot book for description of the ports.

It was filled mention of hidden reefs and low coastline. Yet it seemed a disastrous idea to head back to Panama, giving up all the hard earned miles we had won, and having to start all over again once we had rested. We stood in toward the coast of South America.

Felt Better

The night following this decision I crept up on deck and threw the turtle shell overboard. In a flash it was gone. I felt better. It would not do to tempt fate when trying to make port on an unknown coast.

Both of us were sound asleep below deck but a few hours later. The dawn had just broken and the ship was sailing herself, a full press of sail aloft. Suddenly a berrific blast, like an explosion, rent the peace of the morning, I shot on deck like a man out of a circus cannon. There, not 300 yards distant was a deep sea freighter. The noise had been its whistle.

She was the M.V. Saltillo, under the Mexican flag, bound from Guayaquil for Mazatlan, Mexico, and had stopped to inquire if we were in need of assistance.

"No, thank you," I shouted back, "but we could do with a position check."

Weather Report

This was given us, as well as a weather report covering the whole Pacific Ocean. Once again the captain asked if we needed anything. We shook our heads. He was wearing a checked shirt and kept his arms folded across the bridge rail like a man talking to a friend across a table.

He was in complete command of the situation, as though he met small boats at sea every day. He did not even change his unperturbed look when the captain of the Powindah flopped excitedly overboard to retrieve a message can.

The Saltillo circled us twice, her crew shouting words of encouragement, then headed north. Within half an hour she was hull down on the horizon. We were alone again. And yet, we felt a surge of exhileration and happiness. Seeing other human beings after 26 days at sea seemed to make port and refuge just that much closer. The turtle had lifted its curse.

'Live Like a Lord' With Your Own Guide

LONDON (Reuters) — Tourists in Britain searching for out-of-the-way experiences now can dine with a duchess or live like lords and ladies in a Scottish castle.

These are part of the services offered by a new type of travel agency catering for visitors who want to get away from organized sightseeing tours.

The agencies employ students, both young men and women, to show visitors around Britain.

Fred Pearson, head of Tak-A-Guide, one of the pioneers in the field, says visitors like to take their time looking around.

"They certainly seem to prefer well-informed students to the more conventional type of guide," he said in an interview.

More than 80,000 tourists have used Take-A-Guide since it started 11 years ago.

The most popular tour is a day's drive round London. The guide collects the visitor at his hotel and drives round the city, visiting places of interest and explaining their history.

Recently Take-A-Guide introduced a new service, by which visitors can stay in English stately homes as guests of their owners. The homes are divided into three categories — country houses, castles of above-average comfort and historic interest, and a handful of three-star luxury castles.

When Capt. Cook discovered the South Pacific in 1770, it took courage. With P&O, all it takes is $22 a day.

We'll be sailing out of Vancouver December 12 on the 42,000-ton Oriana.

Come aboard and spend a month and a half exploring the South Pacific with us, on a P&O Captain Cook Holiday.

After stopovers in San Francisco and Los Angeles, we'll head for Honolulu and a day of sightseeing.

Then across the Equator and on to Suva in the Fijis. (When Capt. Cook landed there, the natives were cannibals. Today, they're some of the friendliest people in the world.)

Ever celebrate Christmas at sea? We will. With a Christmas Eve dance, parties, carols, toasts and old-fashioned English pudding.

After Suva, we head for New Zealand and Australia. While you're exploring the outback country—escorted, of course—we'll transfer your baggage to another great P&O ship, the Iberia, for the return home.

All in all, a first-class P&O vacation aboard two of the "biggest bloomin' ships sailing the seven seas."

With free deck chairs, cinema, deck space galore, swimming pools, duty-free shops and some of the finest restaurants on sea—or land, for that matter.

The service is first class, too. There's a crewman for every two passengers. And we'll bring you breakfast in bed everyday if you like.

The price? From $1254 for first-class passage. And that includes all shore excursions.

If we haven't answered all your questions, there's a travel agent near you who can. He'll give you a free illustrated brochure. Or you can send for it by mailing the coupon below.

Either way, we hope to see you on board our ship December 12.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Daily Volume High for Year

By DOUGLAS ADAMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices moved slightly lower on Canadian Stock Exchanges this week with active trading among speculative mining issues accounting for most of the uncommonly heavy volume.

The average daily volume of 5,400,000 shares was the highest of the year to date.

Mining explorations activity is moving at an unprecedented pace with important projects in The Yukon and Northwest Territories and all the provinces except Prince Edward Island.

Can Mines rose 1 cent to 1.01 on 1,198,013 shares, Con Negus 27 cents to 1.07 on 1,276,170 shares and PCE Explorations 9 cents to 2.09 on 915,306 shares.

CGE LOSES

In the industrial list, Canadian General Electric, a seldom traded stock, lost 3¼ to 40 after reporting a 48-per-cent profit decline for the first six months of 1967 compared with the same period last year. The drop was attributed to softening markets for consumer goods and construction products and two strikes earlier in the year.

Jefferson Lake dropped ⅝ to 48¾. The company reported earnings of 82 cents a share for the six-month period ended June 30 compared with 68 cents a share for the same period last year.

Slater Steel rose ⅝ to 11⅞ and Salada Foods ⅛ to 10⅞. Slater's offer to buy 250,000 common shares of Salada was oversubscribed. Slater now owns 50 per cent of the outstanding common shares of Salada.

Westcoast Transmission lost 1¼ to 27½. The U.S. Federal Power Commission has authorized El Paso Natural Gas to increase its imports of Canadian natural gas but has asked El Paso to submit for approval a contract with Westcoast providing a lower price for the gas than the one to which the companies had agreed.

Among western oils, Hudson's Bay and Banff slipped ½ each to 36½ and 17¼, Dome 2 to 59, Central-Del Rio ¾ to 19⅜ and Scurry-Rainbow 3½ to 46.

TRADING STOPPED

Trading in Scurry was stopped at the opening Thursday pending release of an exploration report on its Otter Lake property in northeastern Saskatchewan. The company announced Friday it had nothing to add to a statement issued June 28 when it announced that tests on the Otter Lake copper-nickel prospect had failed to establish the existence of a commercially exploitable orebody.

Inco, the world's largest nickel producer, was off 4¼ to 110 after reporting lower profits for the first six months of the year. Chairman H. S. Wingate said improved metal prices could not offset the rise in production costs and the low deliveries of company-produced metals.

In other base metals, Rio Algom slipped ½ to 34¾, Denison 1¼ to 72¾ and Noranda ⅛ to 56⅛. Falconbridge rose ¾ to 92¾ and Preston ¼ to 21½.

Golds made small advances with Kerr-Addison up ½ to 16, Campbell Red Lake ¾ to 21 and Giant Yellowknife 20 cents to 8. Dome was off 3 to 52½.

On index, industrials lost .95 to 171.45 and western oils .46 to 196.98. Golds rose .44 to 175.13 and base metals .65 to 102.62. Volume was 21,794,000 shares compared with 23,709,000 traded last week.

At Montreal, utilities gained .07 to 149.19. Industrials dipped .50 to 172.15, banks 1.58 to 130.65 and papers .03 to 110.93. Volume was 7,018,000 shares compared with 6,302,000 traded last week.

SIU Vote Returns Back Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — The Seafarers International Union said Friday that half the returns in a strike vote among Great Lakes seamen indicate 97.1 per cent of eligible SIU members support a walkout next Thursday.

The union tabulated ballots collected from SIU members in Halifax where the vote was 95 per cent in favor of a strike and 3½ per cent against. Other ballots were spoiled.

In a similar vote in Quebec City, 99.4 per cent approved strike action. Earlier in the week Montreal seamen members voted 97 per cent in favor.

About half of the 5,400 SIU members eligible to vote now have done so. They are voting in a dispute with 32 shipping companies which handle 82 per cent of the cargo transported on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

The remaining voting will be held at Thorold, Ont., Monday, Toronto Tuesday and Port Arthur and Fort William, Ont., Wednesday.

A two-thirds vote in favor of a strike would tie up the bulk of inland Canadian shipping within five days after the walkout starts at noon Aug. 17.

Merger Endorsed

SASKATOON (CP)—A special meeting of shareholders endorsed a directors' recommendation that Security Life Insurance of Saskatoon merge with North West Life Assurance of Vancouver.

Security Life chairman Earle Bowman said that terms of the agreement provide for the issuance of one share of North West stock for every 6.8 shares of Securty.

LATEST MODEL Boeing jetliner, the long-body version of the 737 short-range aircraft, is shown on its maiden flight in Seattle this week. The twin-jet is six feet longer than the standard 737 and can carry 117 passengers in an all-tourist arrangement. It is 100 feet long and can carry a payload of 32,000 pounds. Maiden flight lasted about 30 minutes. (AP Wirephoto.)

WEEK IN BUSINESS

U.S. Signs Encouraging

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. economy produced encouraging signs this week of the start of a climb from the doldrums in which business wallowed during most of the first half of this year.

They were:

—Employment in July rose to the highest level in history.

—Total construction activity advanced in June to the highest rate in 13 months.

—Inventory liquidation in July showed a marked improvement.

—Retail sales increased in June to a record total.

These developments and other factors prompted Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler to say that the danger of recession now is past and the outlook is for economic expansion.

The only difference of opinion, he said, is whether that expansion will be moderate or "highly boomy."

SUPPORTS SURCHARGE

Fowler supported President Johnson's proposal of a 10-per-cent surcharge added to the income tax, saying its enactment would be consistent with a healthy, growing economy.

The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York predicted that the economy will complete a "model adjustment" by the end of the year, if consumer spending continues at its present high level.

"Consumer incomes are still rising," the bank said. "Surveys show that the mood of consumers is one of growing optimism."

The labor department reported that 76,200,000 Americans held jobs in July, up 1,600,000 from a year earlier. The unemployment rate dipped to 3,9 per cent of the labor force last month from 4 per cent in June.

New construction put in place in June totalled $6,900,000,000, up 9 per cent from May and up 1 per cent from June, 1966, the commerce department reported.

The National Association of Purchasing Ages said 35 per cent of its members reported their inventories were down in July. This compared with 32 per cent reporting a decline in June and 31 per cent in April and May.

Recent heavy trading volume forced the New York and American Stock Exchanges and several regional exchanges to shorten their daily trading sessions by 90 minutes, starting last Tuesday. The aim was to give brokers extra time in which to handle paper work that has overtaxed their clerical staffs.

Production of 1968 model cars was stepped up this week with output estimated at 33,300 units, compared with 22,622 last week and 8,500 a year earlier.

Production in the 1967 model year totalled 7,656,000 passenger cars, compared with 8,606,049 in 1966, and was the lowest since 1963, when 7,340,140 autos were turned out.

Brokerage Firm Declared Bankrupt

TORONTO (CP) — A petition declaring the brokerage firm of Waite, Reid and Co. Ltd. bankrupt was signed by the registrar in bankruptcy at Osgoode Hall today.

Under the Bankruptcy Act, a creditors' meeting must be called within 21 days and steps taken to wind up the company.

Dunwoodco Ltd. of Toronto, which has been interim receiver since July 31, was appointed trustee in bankruptcy to handle the wind-up of the company.

GPA Leases Jetliner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines announced Friday it will lease a Boeing 707 jetliner from Standard Airways, Inc., of Seattle, pending delivery of four DC-8-63 jet aircraft.

Delivery of the 199-passenger Spacemasters was to start this summer from the McDonnel-Douglas Corp., but has been delayed three times.

The first of the $11,000,000 aircraft is expected to be delivered early next year.

Towboat Built In Novel Fashion

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Kent

Many a passerby has done a double take on seeing a full-fledged towboat rising from amid stacked lumber behind a Government Street machine shop.

The story is interesting because it illustrates how an unconventional approach can produce a finished work of good quality at competitive price.

Product of United Engineering Ltd. at Government and Pembroke, the 32-foot Albern is a steel-hulled, diesel-powered workhorse built in a storage yard more than a block from the waterfront.

It is due for launching Monday at Esquimalt graving Dock, where it will be transported by semi-trailer.

The stubby little ship's 100-ton weight will be jacked up inch by inch enabling the trailer to cradle it.

If this sounds pretty prosaic so far it is only because tug boats are no novelty here. But wait:

- United Engineering never built a ship before this one;
- The actual work is largely that of only two men;
- The propulsion system — a Corlett nozzle—is believed the first to be built and used in B.C.;
- No compound bending was used in the forming of hull plates.

Company president Earl Hastings — who started in the shop 34 years ago as a machinist assistant — won't say how much the contract was worth. But it is believed to represent a substantial saving over conventional ship construction.

He will say he has had inquiries from other tug operators to build larger ships for them, but he is saying no more about that until Albern is safely launched.

★ ★ ★

Built for up-Island towing interests to become part of a four-tug fleet, Albern is a design of Vancouver naval architect Al McIlwaine and has the approval of Lloyd's of London.

Instead of having curved plates of large dimensions, the new tug is welded together almost in jigsaw fashion using irregularly cut plates which individually are quite flat.

The principle is something like that evolved for making a geodesic dome, as in the U.S. pavilion at Expo.

Forming the Corlett nozzle — which was built under licence from the British owners, Corlett and Burns Co. — was one of the most exacting and difficult parts of the project.

This necessitated a compound curve being pressed out of sections of plate to form a large sleeve around the ship's big bronze screw.

The job was done to within less that one-sixteenth of an inch accuracy, leaving a net three-eights-inch clearance for the propellor blades.

Like the German Kort nozzle already proven in these waters, the Corlett gives a ship more thrust and manoeuvrability.

★ ★ ★

Albern is powered by a 335 h.p. Caterpillar, supercharged, with hydraulic pumps to operate the towing gear.

There is three-station, hydraulic power steering, and electronic gear half fills the aluminum wheelhouse.

Radar, depth-finder, marine band and FM radio are of the latest design and placed within arm's reach of the wheel.

Hastings is pleased with the job, although it took longer than expected, having started last December.

Don't be surprised to see another one rising from his back yard some day soon.

BUILT in novel fashion in yard of United Engineering Ltd. this 32-foot steel-hulled tug will be transported Monday to Esquimalt graving dock for launching ceremony.

Chrysler Faces UAW Strike Vote

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers disclosed Friday it has authorized a strike vote among its members employed by Chrysler Corp.

The union previously authorized strike votes by its members at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. plants the week of Aug. 20.

Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler director, said Chrysler local union leaders were advised at a meeting in Detroit earlier this week to take strike votes and report the results by Aug. 25.

Fraser said he thinks some of the Chrysler locals will be voting as early as next week.

Negotiations on new labor contracts with the Big Three began July 10. Current three-year contracts expire Sept. 6.

Thus far both sides of the negotiating tables say little has been accomplished. The UAW has accused General Motors of bargaining in bad faith and has asked the National Labor Relations Board for a ruling on its claim.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has called the union demands the longest and most ambitious list of goals in the union's history.

Wheat Crop Estimate Well Down

WINNIPEG (CP) — The National Grain Company Ltd. estimates total wheat production in western Canada this year will be 424,800,000 bushels compared with 1966's record 824,000,000 bushels.

The company based its prediction on reports from more than 300 agents across the prairies. The total would be below the five-year average of 656,000,000 bushels but well ahead of the 1961 crop of 260,000,000 bushels.

In a crop report the company said wheat yields in drought areas will range from eight to 15 bushels an acre.

In Manitoba, northwestern Saskatchewan and the northern half of Alberta, the crops are better than average and wheat yields are expected to range from 20 to 30 bushels an acre, the report said.

Production of barley is estimated at 171,500,000 bushels, less than the 279,000,000 bushels last year despite an increase in seeded acreage.

Oats production is expected to be about 197,000,000 bushels.

The report also estimates a reduction in yields of flax and rapeseed.

State Ferry System Operates at Deficit

OLYMPIA (AP) — The state ferry system ended the fiscal year with an operating profit of $120,886, the state toll bridge authority has announced.

However, the ferries did not take in enough money to cover debt service on outstanding bonds of capital costs. The entire system showed a net loss of $578,391 during the fiscal year, counting all costs.

ALUMINUM EXPANSION IN INDIA

OTTAWA (CP) — An export credits insurance loan was signed Friday to provide $5,500,000 for expansion of aluminum production in India.

The loan to Indian Aluminum Co. Ltd., Calcutta, as part of Canada's contribution to a World Bank consortium aiding Indian development, will be used to buy Canadian materials and services procured by Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd.

Favorable Trade Balance

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a favorable trade balance of $148,400,000 in the first six months of 1967, more than seven times higher than the $20,700,000 export balance in the first half of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The bureau said exports to the end of June totalled $5,625,500,000, a shade more than half the government's export goal of $11,250,000,000 for the whole of 1967. Exports in the first six months were 16.8 per cent higher than $4,815,000,000 exported in the same period last year.

Commodity imports in June were 3.9 per cent higher than last year at $935,900,000, and exports increased 18.6 per cent from June last year to $1,033,900,000.

Imports from the United States rose 4.4 per cent in June to $689,300,000, bringing the six-months total up 15 per cent to $4,067,800,000. Exports to the U.S. in June were 15.5 per cent higher at $632,300,000 bringing the cumulative total up 19.4 per cent to $3,524,100,000.

Imports from the United Kingdom were 28.4 per cent higher in June this year at $62,800,000, raising the cumulative total 9.1 per cent to $345,700,000. Exports to the U.K. rose 18.3 per cent in June, raising the six-months figure seven per cent to $594,000,000.

Trade Minister Winters hailed the six months figures in a statement saying the $11,250,000,000 export target for Centennial Year was ambitious and meant a $1,000,000,000 increase in the year.

Talks Break Down

CALGARY (CP) — Talks between striking chemical workers and officials of Cominco Ltd. at a fertilizer plant here broke down in "complete failure" Thursday after three days, a union spokesman said.

Court Hearing Set in BIF Case

TORONTO (CP) — The petition of three Toronto men removed July 28 from the board of British International Finance Canada Ltd. for a court ruling to void the election of directors will be heard Aug. 24 in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Notice of motion was filed this week at Osgoode Hall on behalf of William J. Mollard, Andrew M. Wofford and Dr. Peter Charlebois.

The three also asked the court for an injunction restraining those elected at the annual meeting from holding a meeting as directors of the comany, voting BIF shares in any of its subsidiaries, including the Bank of Western Canada, and interfering with the board as it existed before July 28.

Damages are asked from two defendants, Marc Masson Bienvenue of Montreal, president of BIF, and his financial adviser, Jacques Melancon.

Juicier Cut Aim Of Meat Cutters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The problem of the butchers who want a juicier cut is likely to go before a conciliation board.

George Johnston, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters, said Friday this course has been recommended by a conciliation officer.

The butchers, who work in the meat sections of retail stores, want a four-day, 36-hour week and a pay hike of $1.45 an hour.

They are working a 40-hour week and earning $3.10 an hour.

About 800 men are involved in negotiations with six supermarket chains, and the dispute is expected to affect 500 more men who work for other employers.

Last-Hole Heroics Put Canucks in Happy Spot

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The bluebloods of Canadian amateur golf are much too old to believe in fairy godmothers.

But somebody must like 'em. How else do you explain Friday's storybook finish that astonishingly transformed Canada's six-man golf team from mere mortals into princely contenders for the Commonwealth championship?

On this, the windup day of the first Commonwealth tournament ever played in Canada, the hosts started out in the proverbial driver's seat.

"Beat Britain!" was their cry, and that was all they had to do to give Canada an unexpected Centennial year prize.

Stepping onto the Victoria Golf Club course this morning, Canada and South Africa shared the lead with four points. Britian and New Zealand were next with three, and Australia was "down under" with two points.

The South Africans declared their innings Friday. They stopped the British, 5½ matches to 3½, and that also was a result that benefited Canada. The South Africans were idle today while the Kiwis, still with a chance, faced Australia.

Even a half with Britain would be good enough for Canada — providing the New Zealanders win no more than six of their nine matches with Australia.

The Canucks took their envied spot Friday by defeating the Kiwis 5½-3½.

How they did it is the story of the day.

OPTIMISTS UNDER COVER

It started, as usual, with the foursomes. The Kiwis won two and halved the third and it was almost an impossibility to find a Canadian optimist at the lunch break.

It ended, perspiringly, with the singles. Canada won five, lost one!

It was an astounding finish that jangled nerves, weakened hearts and perhaps, because of considerable sweat, found an answer to Greater Victoria's water shortage.

Four of the six singles went down to the last hole. One ended on the 17th and only cagy Nick Weslock, beating Boris Vezich of New Zealand 5 and 4, enjoyed a breeze.

Wayne Vollmer defeated Stuart Jones on the 18th.

Ditto John Johnston, over John Durry.

Ditto Doug Silverberg, over Geoff Clarke.

For Gary Cowan of Kitchener, it was a 3-1 margin over Bruce Stevens.

Only Ross Murray, a stocky 34-year-old, could stem Canada's afternoon charge. He defeated Calgary's Keith Alexander, 1 up.

The Canadian cruise wasn't quite as successful in the morning. Silverberg and Vollmer continued to find compatibility in the foursomes and earned a half with Durry and Murray. Otherwise, Jones and Stevens clipped Weslock and Johnston 6 and 5, and the Vezich-Clarke pairing dropped Cowan and Alexander, 2 and 1.

To get their half, Silverberg and Vollmer had to combine for a two-under-par 68.

DRAMA COMMENCED

Early in the afternoon, the Canadian players made it apparent they intended to overcome the morning deficit. Before the turn, word came from here and there that Canadians were leading, or at least even, in most of their matches. The drama began to unfold.

One exception to the early-lead report was Johnston. The 40-year-old Vancouver belter was three down after only five holes. By the ninth, he drew even, and perspiration began to roll.

Putting strongly, Johnny won 13 and 14 to go two up. He lost 17 to a birdie four, then rolled in a knee-knocking four-footer on 18 to clinch his victory.

The heart-thumping worked in reverse, too. Weslock, Vollmer and Silverberg all were reported three or four up at various early stages. Then Vollmer was only one up . . . and Silverberg was all square . . . Alexander and Cowan also were running in tight ones. . . .

Vollmer had vaulted into a four-up lead by the 8th. He lost the 9th to a par, making the turn in two-under 31 figures. He also lost the 10th and 11th to find himself only one up.

A six-foot putt for a birdie two on 13 put Vollmer two up again, and he protected the lead to the end. With everyone but Silverberg already in, Vollmer's clinching putt on 18 assured Canada of no worse than a split on the day's matches.

SAND SHOTS HELPED

Silverberg was another who charged into a big early lead, lost it, then recovered in the late stages. He was three up after six, but lost the three "point" holes (7-8-9) to fall even. He went one up again on the 12th only to have Clarke square the match again on the 14th.

The husky Calgarian got a big break on 15 when Clarke three-putted for a bogey five and a half. Also helping Silverberg was a fine shot out of a trap.

After going one up on the 16th, Silverberg had to count on another great shot out of a trap to wrap up his and the Canadian team's victory. The pair halved the 17th, and Silverberg led off the 18th tee by dropping his drive into a trap.

But he belted an iron in the trap and sent the ball to winin about 15 feet of the pin. From there, he easily managed the required two putts.

Although Cowan's margin over Stevens was the Canadians' second-greatest of the afternoon, Gary wasn't able to get away from the tenacious New Zealander until he unleashed a late birdie binge. Cowan birdied four of his last six holes — the 12th, 14th, 16th and 17th — to finally shake Stevens. Cowan, one up after nine, was approximately three under par for the 17 holes played.

Lions' Revenge Bid Ends in Humiliation

REGINA (CP)—British Columbia Lions' hope for revenge turned to humiliation Friday night with a 36-13 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders, the Lions' second defeat by the Saskatchewan club this season.

With 19,016 Saskatchewan fans proclaiming loudly their Roughrider support, B.C. quarterback Bernie Faloney had trouble connecting with his intended pass receivers.

Lions tried 24 and completed 13, to Saskatchewan's 14 for 18.

Roughrider quarterback Ron Lancaster, who piloted Saskatchewan to a Grey Cup last year, and fullback George Reed, were the cornerstones of the victory.

Lancaster hit his pass receivers with precision and Reed went over the B.C. goal line for three touchdowns. Punter Jack Abendschan missed on two converts but made up for lost points with a field goal and three converts later.

MAKE LATE COMEBACK

Saskatchewan was able to maul the Lions in the first three quarters and pile up a score, despite a late comeback by B.C., that outstripped the Roughriders' 24-16 victory Monday in Vancouver.

Saskatchewan's first hometown show of the season held B.C. scoreless until the middle of the third quarter, when offensive end George Burleson caught a 15-yard pass from Faloney, Te Gerela's convert failed.

The only other B.C. scoring came with 37 seconds left in the game when Craig Murray tabbed a pass from replacement quarterback Pete Ohler. Gerela's convert made it 13 for B.C.

The Roughriders opened with a first - quarter touchdown by Hugh Campbell on a pass from Lancaster. Reed added two more with plunges from the one- and two-yard lines respectively. Abendschan missed on his first two convert tries but added a field goal and a convert in the second quarter, giving the Riders a 22-0 half-time lead.

SCORES IN THIRD

Reed went over again in the third quarter, at 6:24, on a one-yard rush. Abendschan's convert made it 29-0, before B.C.'s late third quarter drive that made it 29-6.

Saskatchewan stemmed a Lions push in the final quarter. End Gord Barwell caught a pass from Lancaster 58 yards out for the final Roughriders touchdown. Abendschan's kick made it 36-6 mid-way through the final quarter.

A determined B.C. drive in the closing minutes gave Murray his touchdown on a pass 24 yards out.

The victory put Saskatchewan in a first-place tie in the Western Football Conference with Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Each have won two out of two games.

Saskatchewan was vastly superior to Lions in the air and on the ground, chalking up 20 first downs to B.C.'s 11.

While the Roughriders picked up 245 yards rushing and 227 passing, B.C. managed only 123 on the ground and passed for 186 yards. Each club intercepted one pass.

B.C. was ahead in two departments: The club recovered one of two fumbles and Saskatchewan lost both theirs; and B.C. averaged 47 yards on four punts while Roughriders made 37.8 in four. Lions lost 40 yards on three penalties; Saskatchewan lost 25 yards on five.

IN 14-7 VICTORY

Safety Touch Helped Argos

TORONTO (CP)—An early touchdown provided the margin Friday as Toronto Argonauts opened their 1967 Eastern Football conference season with a dull 14-7 victory over Montreal Alouettes.

The Argos showed little of their pre-season form as they skittered through the middle stages and appeared ready to fold when Montreal defensive back Larry Fairholm made a questionable decision late in the game.

Fairholm ran into his end zone after fielding a punt inside his 10 with less than three minutes remaining. The two points left Argos ahead 13-7, but Fairholm neglected a year-old rule that the defensive team must kick from its own 25 after conceding a safety in the final five minutes.

Bill Symons rammed six yards for the Toronto touchdown and John Vilunas converted and added a 19-yard field goal and a 21-yard single. Dave Mann hoofed a 71-yard single in the final minutes.

Montreal's only touchdown came on a 24-yard strike from Carroll Williams to flanker Roger Murphy in the second quarter. Dave Lewis kicked a 60-yard single in the fourth quarter for the other Alouette point.

The Argos led 8-0 after the first quarter and 11-6 at half-time. The third quarter was scoreless.

The Argos managed 16 first downs, 12 in the first half when quarterback Wally Gabler was a standout. Gabler sagged in the second half and the Argo offence deteriorated.

DISTAFF DIVOTS

Fry, Pumfrey Meet In Gorge Vale Final

Margaret Fry and Gert Pumfrey will clash Sunday at 11 a.m. for the women's championship at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Flight finals will follow the championship match with Vi Sinclair facing Eva Cann, Mary Wakelin against Joan Scott, Trudy Panteluk, against Kay Clairmonte, Chris Holland against Norma Spandier, Lee Robertson against Jennie Harlan, Irene Callan against Jackie Doherty and Alice Mitchell against Hilda Warawa.

Gorge swingers have chalked up some pleasing victories in recent competitions. Flora Clark and Agnes Castle finally ended the reign as button holders of Daphne Dagg and Edna Hay by defeating the Glen Meadows pair.

* * *

Kay Clairmonte took low gross honors in a successful junior "field day" at Cedar Hill. Other winners in the event were Sue North, Lynn Ricketts, Jo-Ann Criddle, Jill Boyd and Rosalind Napier.

Next field day for the juniors will be at Glen Meadows Monday.

* * *

These things have also happened around Victoria area courses:

Mary McKay defeated Marjorie Campbell in the final of the Gregarah championship, in which flight winners were Birdie Duprau, Edith Noel, and Marjorie Hunt . . . Mrs. McKay took two other events in the past week at Gregarah, winning a "pin" contest and a par competition . . . at Glen Meadows, Daphne Dagg won a medal round and Marg Robertson teamed with Marg Sutton to defend the club buttons . . . Evelyn Jackson and Florence Corbett shared "A" division honors in a medal round at Colwood, where Virginia Gaston topped a hidden-hole contest.

At Cedar Hill, Mary Gidden and Helen Storrs lost a button battle to Lillian Gornall and Irene Bowe on the 19th and Anne Larson topped a weekly medal round.

Moe Norman Out in Front At Calgary

CALGARY — Moe Norman, the happy-go-lucky guy of Canadian professional golf, was all smiles today.

The Ontario pro held the lead going into the third and final round of the $1,500 Willow Park Open golf tournament. His 66-72—138 put him one stroke ahead of Stan Leonard of Vancouver, 68-71—139.

Victoria's Bill Wakeham stood a good chance of making the money with a 70-73—143 total, while fellow-townsman Vaughan Trapp had 72-80—152.

O'KEEFES INVITE . . . . . . YOUNG PLAYERS

Soccer Labor Starting

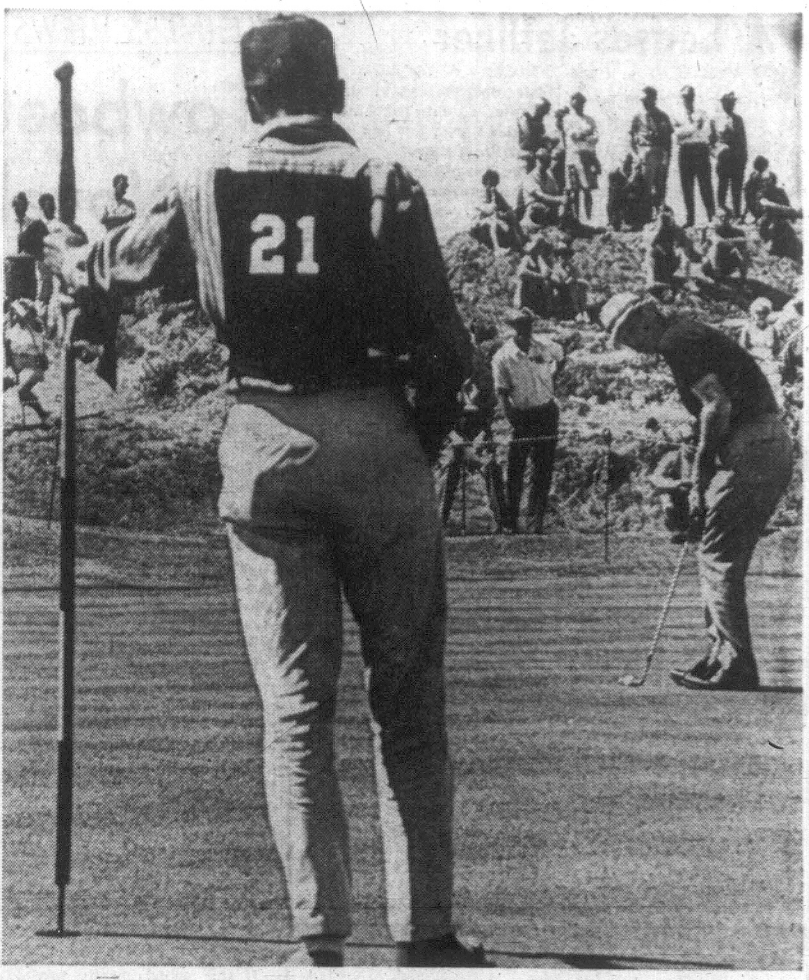
Victoria O'Keefes start preparing for the upcoming Pacific Coast Soccer League season Tuesday at Topaz Park at 7 p.m.

All interested players are asked to attend, especially younger players, including members of last year's Victoria junior team.

O'Keefes will continue to practice at Topaz Tuesday and Thursday nights until the end of September.

Other soccer squads are also starting early labor and have scheduled the following workouts this week:

- Sunday, University of Victoria Vikings and Norsemen of the Victoria and District Soccer League work out at 11 a.m. at the University under coach Wally Milligan.
- Monday and Wednesday, Red Lions of the district league's first division will practice at 6:45 p.m. at Bullen Park.
- Tuesday, Gorge Molsons first division district club will hold a practice session at 6:30 p.m. at Hampton Park. Gorge will work out regularly Tuesday and Thursday nights at Hampton.



START OF COMEBACK THAT FAILED

Rocks around Oak Bay links made good viewing points Friday as Canada tripped New Zealand and moved into tie for lead in fourth Commonwealth golf tournament. Fairway fans behind ninth hole are watching New Zealand's Stuart Jones start comeback in clash with Wayne Vollmer. Jones won this hole with par, also won next two holes but eventually lost on 18th green to young Canadian. (Times photo by Bill Halkett)

Five-Run Surge Carries Whalley Into B.C. Final

All other opposition swept aside, it will be Whalley against East Trail tonight in the sudden-death playoff for the B.C. Little League baseball championship.

Whalley, punching out its ticket by scoring five times in the second inning, rode into tonight's final Friday by clipping West Vancouver 6-4.

East Trail claimed its berth Thursday.

Tonight's playoff, starting at 6 p.m., will be played at Hampton Park.

FIRST TIME IN FINAL

Whalley reached the provincial final for the first time despite the fact the team was out-hit, 10-7, in Friday's semi-final. Winning pitcher Bruce Burroughs survived a four-run, Vancouver outburst in the fifth.

In a consolation game Friday afternoon, Vancouver East nipped Hampton's All-Stars, 2-1.

NANAIMO'S TITLE HOPES CRUSHED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Clearfield, Utah, downed Nanaimo, B.C., 6-2, Friday night to eliminate the Canadians from the Little League Senior Division Western Regional Tournament.

Nanaimo, with a 1-2 record, will play Carmichael, Cailf., eliminated with two straight defeats, today in a consolation game.

Toronto Rifles Sign Eagle Day

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League Friday announced Herman Sidney (Eagle) Day has signed to quarterback the club.

The 34-year-old veteran was cut from the roster of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference

Greaves Display Pitching Power

Even before the Senior Amateur Baseball League season started, their pitching assembly was expected to create a great deal of noise for Greaves Movers.

That strength was emphasized in the semi-final round as Greaves bumped King's Hotel in straight games in a best-of-five series.

Al Hurst took care of the clinching chores Friday at Royal Athletic Park. He shut out King's 8-0 on seven hits, stranding 10 runners in the process.

Transport Workers and Rawlings moved out today to decide the other finalists. Tied 1-1, they met this afternoon and were to tangle again this evening, starting at 6 p.m.

Police Chief Worried About Fight Reaction

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Police Commissioner Howard F. Leary protested Friday the holding of the world lightweight boxing title match between Carlos Ortiz and Ismael Laguna of Panama in Shea Stadium next Wednesday.

Leary wrote Edwin Dooley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission: "I find it difficult to understand why these bouts have been authorized by the commission for this summer date."

His letter was in response to a letter from Dooley asking extra police protection for the fight because "the history of Laguna's followers indicates that sometimes they invoke a violent reaction" among fans.

In the last 21 months, three riots have been staged at the indoor Madison Square Garden after Puerto Rican fighters lost decisions.

RAPID SUPPORTERS

Thousands of New York's Puerto Rican residents are expected to turn out for the fight to cheer Ortiz, the lightweight champion, and Frankie Narvaez, who fights in a preliminary contest on the card in outdoor Shea Stadium.

Elliott Upsets California Ace In Tennis Semi

SOUTH COWICHAN — Robin Elliott of Vancouver was to meet Gene Cantim of Berkeley, Calif., today in the men's singles final of the Vancouver Island Open tennis tournament.

Elliott upset Corky Meinhardt of Berkeley, 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, in semi-final play Friday. Cantim downed Bob Moffat of Vancouver, 6-3, 6-2.

In the women's singles final today, it will be Pam Austin of Los Angeles against Betty Houseman of Portland. Miss Austin downed Asta Lawry of Vancouver, 6-1, 6-1, and Houseman defeated Pam Hunter of Vancouver, 9-7, 6-4.

Mounties Regain Tie for Top Spot

Vancouver Mounties scored three runs in the second inning against Seattle Friday night, all that was needed for a 4-2 win.

It helped boost the Mounties back into a share of the Pacific Coast Baseball League western division lead.

Vancouver shares top billing with Spokane and Tacoma, both losers Friday. Spokane was beaten by eastern division leader San Diego 14-5 and Tacoma bowed to Portland 5-3.

Greatest Amateur Field

"The greatest field in the history of amateur golf . . ."

That's what Louis du Plessis, a rather innocent bystander, thinks of the lineup that starts chasing the Canadian Amateur title at Royal Colwood on Monday.

A total of 161 golfers, all with handicaps of two or better and representing seven countries, will play 18-hole qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday. The low 64 step into match play on Wednesday.

Combined with the Amateur's qualifying round will be the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches. The four-man teams, representing all 10 provinces but with New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island combined to form one squad, turn in their scores for both events.

Du Plessis is the past-president of the South African Golf Union and the Springboks' manager in the Commonwealth matches that wound up at Victoria Golf Club today.

It's easy to see he's impressed with the entry list.

"Why, I don't think there's ever been another field like this one," he said. "Look . . . you have the reigning or defending champions of England (Ronnie Shade), Scotland (Shade), South Africa (Derek Kemp), Brazil (Comrie du Toit), the United States (Gary Cowan), Australia (Bill Britten), New Zealand (Stuart Jones) and your own Canadian boy (Nick Weslock). . . .

"It has to be the greatest."

No attempt was made to name the past champs from here or there, but it most certainly has to rate as the greatest amateur field ever assembled in Canada.

Players are entered from England, South Africa, the U.S., Australia, New Zealand, Scotland and Canada. The standout U.S. entries represent five states — California, Maryland, Washington, Arizona and Ohio.

California has the greatest entry, 17, followed by Washington's 13.

The qualifying-round draw, showing both Monday's and Tuesday's starting times, is printed on the left.

MARYLEBONE'S VISIT CITY CRICKET'S TREAT

The highlight of the Victoria cricket season will be presented at the Beacon Hill Park pitch Sunday.

That's when the touring Marylebone club meets Victoria Reps in a match scheduled to get under way at 11:30 a.m.

Continuing to overpower opposition Friday, the tourists scored 215 for six declared, with Donald Bennett hitting 117 not out, and then dismissed a B.C. team for 82 in a match at Vancouver.

Saanichton Shot Tops Cadet Event

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—A 38-year-old army sergeant who has been a competitive shooter only three years took the honors Friday in one of the toughest matches at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot on Connaught Ranges.

Staff Sgt. Ray Latour of 3rd Brigade Service Battalion at Gagetown, N.B., scored 178 of a possible 200 in a competition designed to simulate battle conditions.

Competitors begin shooting at 600 yards, then run all the way to the 100-yard marker, stopping to fire every 100 yards. They use the military C1A1 rifle and 7.62-millimetre NATO ammunition.

The 100-yard sprints and the rapid shooting required make the competition one of the toughest in shooting.

ISLAND WINNERS

Cadet G. R. Allan of Saanichton won the shootoff in the Green 200-yard prone position match for cadets shooting for the first time at Connaught Range on Thursday.

Pte. D. I. Moffat of PPCLI, Victoria placed fourth in the rapid fire match and Sgt. E. Zwolak of the same regiment was 10th in the Bytown 600-yard prone position match.

Moffat and Zwolak also helped an eight-man Princess Pat team defeat a Quebec team in the Dundonald match. Other members of the team were: Capt. R. G. Wilkes, Sgt. R. W. Ellis, Sgt. A. C. Meyers, Cpl. J. W. Matthews, Cpl. Barry Toomer and Pte. D. J. Mattheis.

Flt.-Lt. D. A. Ireland from Comox was eighth in the Gagetown 300-yard prone position match.

Latour won the Gen. Sir Arthur Currie match, limited to members of the permanent armed forces, in his third appearance at Connaught. A stiff breeze blowing across the range Friday made the run-and-shoot match even tougher than usual.

Pte. N. S. Bekessy of Pierrefonds, Que., and Flt.-Lt. M. D. Phoenix of Summerside, P.E.I., won Queen's medals Friday in the same event.

Bekessy got 151 of a possible 200 to top all militia riflemen and Phoenix shot 144 to take the medal for the highest score by a reserve air force man.

There were 124 competitors in the event.

LORNA VINDEN TAKES FOUR GOLD MEDALS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lorna Vinden of Victoria grabbed four gold medals for Canada but the United States made off with 12 in the first 20 track and field events at the Pan-American paraplegic games Friday.

Miss Vinden, competing in the women's B category, won the shot put, javelin, discus and club throws.

The Canadian gold medal total was raised to seven when Allan Nordal of Winnipeg won the men's C class 1,500-metre race. Bill Wasnock took the B class 1,500-metres and Jan Godfrey the B division women's club throw.

CENTURY LEADS

Pilon Again Carries Load

Things haven't changed.

Ferd Pilon has been carrying the big load for Century Inn all season, and that was the story Friday in the third game of the Stuffy McGinnis Softball League final series.

Pilon checked King's on six hits and Century moved to a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. Fourth game will be played Sunday at Heywood Avenue Park.

Barrington Aids English Recovery

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—England made slow progress Friday on a drying pitch against Pakistan on the second day of the second cricket test at Trent Bridge here.

By the close, England, replying to Pakistan's 140, was 119 for four wickets. A total of 2½ hours was lost during the day.

The Pakistani attack grew steadier as they became more used to the conditions, but their bowlers failed to take advantage of the damp turf.

Anchor of England's innings was Ken Barrington, who has so far been in two hours and 38 minutes for 34 not out. Brian Close was 16 not out at the end.

At 92 for four England were still 48 runs behind Pakistan's total.

Friday's other results:

Yorkshire beat Kent by seven wickets. Kent 223; Yorkshire 225.

Worcestershire 159; Nottinghamshire 270. Match abandoned.

Northamptonshire 364 for eight declared, Essex 179.

Derbyshire 288; Surrey 298. Match drawn.

Warwickshire beat Glamorgan by seven wickets. Glamorgan 127; Warwickshire 131.

Comerset 333; Sussex 194.

Leicestershire 262, Middlesex 255. Match drawn.

Ottawa Backfielder Playing Out Option

OTTAWA (CP)—Halfback Don Gilbert is the lone player on the Ottawa Rough Riders roster without a signed contract this season and general-manager Red O'Quinn says he assumes the three-year veteran from Buffalo University is playing out his option.

Junior Shamrocks Hold Series Lead

Victoria's junior Shamrocks will carry a 1-0 lead into Nanaimo tonight in the second game in the best-of-three Vancouver Island junior lacrosse final.

The 'Rocks, with Jindy Johl and Dennis Somner each firing three goals, clipped Nanaimo 18-6 at Memorial Arena Thursday.

Canadians Hit Trouble In National Net Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadians fared badly as they went down to defeat in the men's singles and men's doubles teams events at the Canadian Open tennis championships Friday.

The only Canadian victories during Friday's action came in the women's singles competition where Vicki Berner of Vancouver and Claire Lovett, another Vancouver entry, posted wins.

Two Canadians who made it to the quarter-finals of the men's singles competition were beaten in Friday's play.

Sixth-seeded Mike Belkin of Montreal was taken out in a three-hour thriller by third-seeded Ronnie Barnes of Brazil and John Sharpe of Toronto was outlasted by fifth-seeded Torben Ulrich of Denmark.

FIGHT 39 GAMES

Barnes defeated Belkin 6-2, 7-5, 1-6, 3-6, 6-2, in a match which saw some deep, hard shots with sometimes up to 30 in a rally while Ulrich and Sharpe, both left-handers, fought 39 games before Ulrich clinched the match 10-8, 7-5, 6-3.

At first, it appeared that Barnes would have an easy time repeating his victory over Belkin from last week's competition at the Ontario Open.

But the Montrealer came back strongly to take two sets and the last set was tied at two games apiece before Barnes forged ahead.

Luis Garcia of Mexico also put up a struggle before being eliminated by top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia in the quarter-finals.

In third-round doubles play, the third-seeded Carpenters from Montreal, Mike and Keith, were beaten in an upset by Ray Keldie and Ian Russell of Australia. The Australians posted a 10-8, 8-6 score.

Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto, fifth-seeded, were taken out in quarter-final doubles by the second-seeded team of Bill Hoogs, Berkeley, Calif., and Barnes. Hoogs and Barnes won 6-3, 6-4.

In an earlier third-round doubles match, Hoogs and Barnes defeated Don McCormick and Tony Bardsley of Vancouver 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Berner, seeded third, took out sixth-seeded Pat Montano of Mexico in quarter-final play with a 6-3, 6-4 score.

In a senior women's semifinal match, Miss Lovett, first-seed, defeated fourth-seeded Dorothy Tinline of Toronto 7-5, 11-13, 6-4.

Bucs Speeded Farewell But Bob Rescued Mets

(By Associated Press)

Pittsburgh Pirates got to Danny Frisella 20 minutes before the California Air National Guard did, but Don Shaw's pre-induction celebration saved the day for New York Mets.

Frisella had to catch a plane at 11:30 Friday night in order to attend a guard meeting near his home in San Mateo. Allowing for a quick change and speedy trip to the airport, the Mets figured he'd have to leave the mound at Shea Stadium no later than 10:15.

The Pirates speeded up the timetable a bit, however, and when they got their second run off Frisella at 9:55, Shaw came in to mop up in the 3-2 Mets' victory.

Shaw leaves for six months of active duty with the Army Reserve Sunday and made what might be his last appearance a good one.

In other National League action, St. Louis Cardinals shaded San Francisco Giants 2-1, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Cincinnati Reds 5-0, Atlanta Braves downed Houston Astros 6-5 in 16 innings and Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Dennis Ribant, an ex-Met was the Pirate loser.

Orlando Cepeda returned to the St. Louis lineup after a two-day suspension for arguing with an umpire and hit a two-run homer for the Cards' victory margin. Nelson Briles, with relief help from Joe Hoerner, was the winning pitcher.

Jim Brewer gave up four hits in the seven innings he pitched and Jim Lefebvre had three hits and scored twice for the Dodgers. Lou Johnson hit a two-run homer, his sixth, in the sixth inning.

Joe Torre's 17th homer ended the marathon in Atlanta, the longest game in the stadium's history.

Bill White drove in Johnny Briggs with his third straight hit, a sixth-inning single, leading the Phillies to their ninth victory in 10 games. Jim Bunning won his 13th game.

Mickey Lolich, a 14-game winner for Detroit last year, finally ended a 10-game personal losing streak Friday night when he pitched a five-hitter and beat Baltimore 5-2.

He finally ended the dry spell with an eight-strikeout performance that gave the Tigers a split in their doubleheader with the Orioles. Baltimore took the opener 5-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, first place Chicago dropped a 3-2 decision to Minnesota, Kansas City trimmed Washington 3-2 in 19 innings, New York swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 5-3 and 4-1 and California shut out Boston 1-0.

Baxter Retains Lead But Palmer Charging

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Rex Baxter Jr. wriggled free from disaster twice Friday and fired a second straight sub-par round to retain the lead in the $100,000 American Golf Classic.

The 31-year-old Texan, who has only one tournament victory in 10 years as a pro, shot a 31-37—68 Friday for a two-day total of 134, six strokes under the demanding par of 35-35—70 at the Firestone Country Club.

DOUBLE BOGEYS

Picking up six birdies to go with two holes on which he went two over par, Baxter found himself two strokes ahead of Jack McGowan and three in front of fast-coming Arnold Palmer.

McGowan whipped up a 35-32—67 to go with his opening 69 and Palmer, who settled for a par 70 Thursday, scrambled to a 35-32—67 and 137.

OTHERS UNDER PAR

U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, South African Allan Henning and Bobby Nichols were the only other golfers under par after 36 holes in the 72-hole tournament which ends Sunday.

Nicklaus shot a 35-34—69 for 139, Henning came up with a brilliant 34-32—66 and 139 and Nichols had 36-33—69, also for 139.

Canuck Crews In Five Finals

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Canadian crews have reached the Grand Finals in five events of the first North American rowing championships.

Canada qualified crews for Sunday's finals in the eights, the fours with and without cox and the pairs with cox during the first two days of the championships which started here Thursday.

Doug Clark and Leif Gotfredsen, both of Toronto, will also compete in the championship finals of the double sculls. Heats were not held in this event because only four other countries—the U.S., Czechoslovakia, Mexico and Switzerland—were entered.

Crews failing to qualify for the finals during the opening-day heats and the repechages Friday were dropped into the consolation finals, which get under way at 2:30 p.m. today.

ALL FROM UBC

The Canadian eight is made up of Bruce Noble, Brian Johnson, Donald Krekoski, William Chapman, Fredrick Chapman, John Richardson, Eric McAvity, stroke Brian McDaniel and cox Herbert Crawley, all of the University of British Columbia.

Canada's fours without cox are Rich Fearn, Andy Netupsky, Phil Webber, and stroke Bruce Clark, also from the University of British Columbia. They were the only Canadian crew to win an opening-day heat covering the 2,000-metre course in seven minutes, 11.78 seconds.

Robert Stubbs, with Terrance Shaw as stroke and Richard Wright as cox, Friday. Stubbs and Shaw are from Burnaby, B.C., while Wright lives in Victoria.

Canada's fours with cox is made up of John Ross, Geoffrey Wright, Henry Guy, stroke Neil Campbell and cox Joel Finlay, all of St. Catharines.

Canada failed to qualify in the single sculls and pairs without cox.

Polo Match Sunday

Tacoma's Dr. Clinton Piper will captain Centenaires against Lampers in the second annual Jack Robertson Memorial Trophy polo match Sunday at the Island View Road field. The match starts at 2:45 p.m.

Two-Year Term For Burglar

A man who fled when caught robbing a house last week was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary Friday.

Lyle Bert Henry, 36, of no fixed address pleaded guilty to breaking into a dwelling with intent to commit an indictable offence.

At the same time he admitted trying to break into a Broad Street barber shop July 29.

Henry and a companion, William Andrews, were surprised by the owner as they were rifling a house at 832 North Park last Sunday.

Henry fled. Andrews was caught and sentenced to four months jail in a court appearance earlier this week. Henry was caught by Esquimalt police Friday morning.

Both men had been drinking, court was told.

Henry's criminal record includes convictions for assault, break and enter, theft, attempted theft and carrying a concealed weapon.

Four teen-agers are scheduled to appear in juvenile court after a Saanich police investigation into a series of thefts involving copper wire.

In two of the three cases climbing irons and wire cutters were used to snip abandoned power lines.

Police say the insulation was then burned from the wire and it was sold for scrap.

"It's a wonder they weren't electrocuted," said one officer of the culprits. He added that other thefts are still under investigation.

In a similar case, four car radiators and three batteries were stolen from auto wrecks and later sold for scrap.

* * *

A teen-ager who admitted looting half a dozen cars last weekend was handed a suspended sentence Friday.

Murray Wiggins, 18, of 2549 Forbes, had been held in jail since his arrest by city juvenile squad officers Sunday.

In a second court appearance this week he admitted stealing two pistols and $50 cash from another car last month.

"You came close to spending your 19th birthday in jail," Magistrate Ostler told Wiggins Friday. "If you carry on this way you're liable to spend a lot of your birthdays in jail"

The accused was ordered to sign a $250 bond guaranteeing his good behaviour over the next year.

Self Control Sprang Fang From Jug

Fang, the now famous hampster, has squeezed himself out of the milk bottle.

And it took him 20 minutes hard work using a rubber mat for traction.

Fang gained notoriety Thursday when he was found trapped in the bottle after being missing two months.

He is the pet of five-year-old Brock McLeod, 3014 Craigowan.

No one knows how long he had been in the bottle in which he survived by eating the leaves, grass and bugs which it contained.

However, while inside, he ate so much he wasn't able to return through the opening.

Thursday night Mr. McLeod slipped the mat inside, Fang spat out his pouchload of grasshoppers and eased himself out.

Inquest Jury Ignores Coroner By Clearing Brothers in Fire

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—An inquest jury Friday ignored a suggestion from coroner Dean Macdonald that John and George Prudhomme, co-owners of Prudhomme's Garden Centre, be held responsible for any deaths during a fire at the lavish tourist complex June 23.

It ruled that watchman John Healey, 60, of Hamilton, whose body was found in the ruins several days later, died in the fire of reasons unknown. It attached no blame in the death.

The jury also ignored a suggestion from the coroner that they should find that the fire, which destroyed a major portion of the centre, causing about $3,500,000 damage, was deliberately set.

Almost 500 guests and customers were forced to flee when the fire broke out in the well-known Prudhomme's complex, which included a restaurant, hotel, curling rink, theatre, bowling alley, lounges, and other entertainment facilities beside the Queen Elizabeth Way at nearby Vineland.

LASTED THREE DAYS

As the three-day inquest approached its close Friday Dr. Macdonald said in his charge to the jury that the Prudhomme brothers should be "held personally responsible for all who might have died in the fire."

He accused the owners of ignoring the building laws of Louth Township and said the employees and the owners themselves "ran around like chickens with their heads cut off" during the fire.

"We should have some law that would make them pay—they should make them pay for being so arrogant," Dr. Macdonald said.

During Friday's testimony a Prudhomme's desk clerk testified that he thought Healey was searching for an arsonist when he disappeared in the fire.

Dr. Macdonald told the jury the evidence showed the fire did not start by itself.

RETIRES SIX HOURS

The jury retired for six hours and returned Friday night with 18 recommendations, among them a suggestion that the Hotel Fire Safety Act be amended to require builders to construct proper fire safety walls between each unit.

Ten of the recommendations were aimed at hotels already built before the act went into effect in August, 1966. The act applies only to construction of new motels, or older motels which require liquor licence board approval for renovation.

The jury called on government agencies, such as the department of tourism and information, which license public accommodation buildings that do not serve liquor, to start at once to force hotel and motel owners to:

—install five hoses and other fire-fighting equipment in strategic locations in all buildings;

—arrange for power sources or independent water systems for areas not served by municipal water systems;

—install fire alarm systems in all buildings;

—see that employees are drilled in sounding fire alarms, evacuating guests and using and maintaining fire-fighting equipment.

In other suggestions, it asked that hotels and motels be prohibited from converting areas under staircases into storage areas and that smoke barrier screens and doors be installed at intervals of 200 feet or less in long corridors and passageways.

Chief Douglas MacNich of the Louth Township volunteer fire department testified Friday that the centre lacked sufficient fire protection and the owners had been told so before the fire.

He said he had warned the Prudhomme brothers that there were no proper fire stops in the curling rink-theatre section where the fire apparently started.

E J. Beauchamp of the Ontario fire marshal's office testified that construction of the complex was not up to standards and there were not enough fire exits and fire alarms.

NO FIRE WALLS

John Prudhomme, who with his brother planned and designed the centre, testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act. He said the centre had no fire walls, fire doors or enclosed fireproof stairways.

A desk clerk at Prudhomme's, John Rempel, said Healey might have been searching for an arsonist when he disappeared in the fire.

He said Healey told him after the fire started: "I know who did it . . . I am going to get him."

The owners, neither of whom had any architectural training, started Prudhomme's Garden Centre in 1948 as a 15-room motel. It continued to grow in size and reputation until, at the time of the fire, the guests who filled its 200 rooms were just a part of the daily visitors who crowded a zoo, a nearby nine-hole golf course and the centre's other facilities.

UNITY, NOT UNIFORMITY, ROBLIN RECIPE FOR CANADA

VICTORIAVILLE, Que. (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba Friday night urged national unity of French and English-speaking Canadians through a renaissance and reconstruction of federalism.

In the first major address of his campaign to become national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Mr. Roblin said in a speech delivered in French that his top priority is national unity.

ROBLIN
. . . touring Quebec

"Not any sort of unity, not unity of the melting-pot but the only unity which is compatible with human dignity, unity without uniformity."

Mr. Roblin spoke in this community of 22,000 about 100 miles northeast of Montreal following a 175-mile road trip beginning in Quebec City, with a luncheon stop at Trois-Rivieres and civic receptions at Drummondville and the city hall here.

Introduced at least twice as the "future prime minister of Canada" and hailed everywhere he went for leading the campaign to permit teaching in French in Manitoba's school system, the 50-year-old Winnipegger said:

"The Progressive Conservative party presided over the birth of Canadian Confederation. It will preside over its renaissance."

He concludes his first of three trips to Quebec today by whistle-stopping through five centres in the Eastern Townships, starting at Sherbrooke and ending at Granby, home of his strongest party support in Quebec.

Mayor of Granby is Paul O. Trepanier, president of Quebec's federal Conservative association, who introduced Mr. Roblin to Quebecers as the future prime minister of Canada.

Mr. Trepanier said he hopes he will be able to deliver for Mr. Roblin 300 of Quebec's 535 votes in the nine-way leadership race.

Premier Roblin tackled the tricky "two nations" concept of Canada at a press conference in Quebec City and in his speech here, saying Canada can be considered as two nations culturally but one nation politically.

"If in your idea and definition of 'nation' you consider that the state is the decisive factor, there is one nation in Canada because there is only one Canadian state politically in the political sense of the federal form."

Mr. Roblin said that as premier of Manitoba, he did his part to restore the status of French in Manitoba's schools, making it possible for French-Canadians there to live as "full-fledged citizens with complete equality." The Manitoba legislature unanimously passed a bill recently amending Manitoba's public school act to permit teaching in French in public schools. Previously teaching was permitted only in the English language.

Coal Mine Filming Once in a Lifetime Experience for Crew

"If hell is anything like a coal mine — then I wouldn't be caught dead there!"

This is how a CBC film crew member jokingly summed up his recent four-day experience of on-location shooting 1,700 feet beneath the earth's surface and more than four miles out under the Atlantic ocean.

VIEWERS are taken some 1,700 feet below earth's surface and more than four miles out under Atlantic Ocean during CBC special on Canadian coal mining Sunday afternoon at 5:30 on Channel 2.

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER Walter Brennan and young newcomer Dack Rambo will join forces as Will and Jeff Sonnett in new adventure series to be seen on ABC network premiering in September.

The five-man team and producer Jack O'Neill, of Halifax, were assigned to film coal miners under actual working conditions at Glace Bay — the heart of coal mining in Nova Scotia.

The film they shot will be included in "A Century Underground," a portrait of 100 years in Canadian coal mining and of the men who wrestle the prized black rock from the unwilling pockets of the earth. The show will be telecast on CBC-TV's Centennial documentary series 20-20, Sunday afternoon at 5:30 on Channel 2.

The crew rode several different underground vehicles through miles of low-ceiling tunnels and shafts to reach the area where the coal is being worked.

The actual journey to the coal face takes one-and-a-half-hours — not recommended for the weak at heart—and 20-20 loses little authenticity as it takes viewers into the black depths.

One startling experience for the crew was the mine bumps. This is when pressure shifts on roof supports are accompanied by thunderous sound effects.

Producing A Century Underground represented problems quite unique to 20-20. It was difficult enough working for extended periods unable to stand up (working areas are less than four-feet in height), but the crew was filming in conditions where the element of danger remained constant.

Because of the explosive nature of coal mines, extreme caution had to be exercised. Fear of electric sparks striking off flash fires and explosions, meant the cameras, sound and lighting equipment, normally powered conventionally by electricity, could not be used.

The technical problems were resolved however with the use of hand-cranked tape recorders and cameras. Lighting was obtained from miners' safety lamps.

Mercy Killing

On what basis is "mercy-killing" advocated? On what grounds is it opposed? How would it be done? Is a doctor ever justified in withholding life preserving treatment?

King-TV's public service series, "At Issue" explores the questions surrounding mercy-killing in a program Sunday afternoon at 5 on Channel 5.

Participants on this program include Dr. Robert W. Simpson, internal medicine specialist in Seattle, Henry E. Kastner an attorney and Cahplain Richard Johson of Swedish Hospital. Dr. Ernest Miller of the Graduate School of Public Affairs at the University of Washington serves continuing moderator.

At Issue brings together a doctor, lawyer, and clergyman to discuss current social issues. The series is produced through the co-operation of the King County Medical Society, the Seattle King County Bar Association, and the Religious Broadcasting Commission.

Meet the Press

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and one of the major civil rights leaders, will be the guest on Meet the Press Sunday afternoon at 1 on Channel 5 originating live from Washington.

Interviewing Dr. King will be Haynes Johnson, of the Washington Star Syndicate; Simeon Booker, of Ebony Magazine; Wallace Westfeld, of NBC news, and Lawrence E. Spivak, producer and permanent panel member of the show.

'Book of Hate'

Book of Hate, a two-part series dealing with the workings of racial and religions hatred, will be presented on Lamp Unto My Feet Sunday, and Aug. 20 at 8 a.m. on Channel 12.

Part 1 on Sunday is titled Barbarous Encounters and is concerned with prejudice through the ages. It is performed in vignette form.

The vignettes are acted by John Heffernan, David Hurst, Leonard Hicks, Lincoln Kilpatrick and Fern Sloand.

Part 2 on Aug. 20 is titled Who Among Us. This dramatic play, set in modern U.S. suburbia, has as its theme the subtle workings of prejudice in a time of crisis.

The cast includes Fred Scollay, John Beal, Ruth Klinger, Peter Turgeon, Roxanne Smith, Conrad Bain and Eugene Smith. The writer is Jan Hartman.

Sullivan Show

Carroll Baker, Sergio Franchi, Allan Sherman, the Four Tops, the Kessler Twins, Jerry Stiller, Anne Meara and special guest star Eddie Albert perform on The Ed Sullivan Show Sunday night at 8 p.m. on Channels 2, 6, 7, 12.

Other performers will be comic Pat Cooper and the Suzuki Violins, 10 violin-playing children from Japan.

Carroll Baker presents two tunes from the musical Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, in which she appeared last year in Summer Stock.

Eddie Albert, co-star of the Green Acres comedy series, recites The Ballad of William Sycamore, a poem by Stephen Vincent Benet.

Italy's Sergio Franchi and Germany's Alice and Ellen Kessler team to sing The Shadow of Your Smile. Franchi offers an Italian solo, and the Kesslers present "When in Rome."

Allan Sherman sings Smog Gets in Your Eyes and Lessons, for which as usual he composed his own lyrics; the Four Tops sing their record hit Reach Out, I'll Be There, and the husband-and-wife comedy team of Stiller and Meara appear in a sketch.

ASK RITHET'S

Q. A friend of mine recently had some golf clubs stolen from the storage building at his golf club and found that he had no insurance against this loss. I would like to know if a Homeowner's Policy would have covered this loss.

A. Yes. In a Homeowner's Policy the theft coverage which provides insurance on personal property temporarily removed from permanent residence of the Insured would cover this loss. For those who are not eligible for a Homeowner's Policy theft protection for golf clubs and equipment can be obtained by taking out a Golfer's Equipment Policy.

New Comedy Series Pleases Star

Kay Ballard radiated joy.

"I'm doing what I always wanted to do," she beamed. "I know I will reach the masses as far as the character Kaye Buell, is concerned. She is the kind of person I grew up with and know best. I'm first generation Italian-American.

I hope to capture and interpret what I understand and know of the immigrant tradition which is still part of first generation Americans of any nationality, before these feelings completely disappear."

Kaye's remarks concerned the new comedy series, "The Mothers-in-Law," in which she portrays Kaye Buell, the young man's mother, on the NBC television network Sundays, starting September 10.

"I feel I can accomplish more doing this series than if I did a Broadway show," said Kaye. "I can express all the things that seemed to bother me when I was growing up and that I can now appreaciate. I can see the humor now."

Kaye is the daughter of Vincent and Lena Balotta of Cleveland, Ohio.

"I'm not making fun of anyone," she said. "I'm going to have the character behave exactly the way my mother acted, and I love my mother. But I can see the humor in this. For instance, mother is an emotional woman. In a heated argument when she knew she would lose, she would faint."

Kaye recalls a particular touching moment involving her father.

"I've always wanted to mention this one day," said Kaye. "My father, who is now retired, was a cement mixer. Show business was something that was remote from anything he knew. When I informed him that I wanted to go into show business, he just said, "If that's what you want to do, fine.' Then he went and bought me a perfume atomizer. It symbolized his gift to me, it was his idia of something special and luxurious, like the world of show business."

GET ALONG WELL

Kaye is delighted to be playing opposite Eve Arden, who portrays the girl's mother, Eve Hubbard, in the series.

"Eve's upbringing was the exact antithesis of mine," said Kaye. "She tells me she used to read two books an hour. I couldn't concentrate on fiction or anything that wasn't real. All I was interested in was biographies, life stories. Eve and I get along well. She has a real affinity for Italians. She always goes to Italy for her vacations."

Dieppe Documentary

Thursday Special On CBC to Explore Great Controversy

A quarter century has passed since the Dieppe raid during the Second World War (August 19, 1942), where Canadian troops fought one of the bloodiest losing battles of their military history.

Dieppe is indelibly marked in the memories of the veterans who survived those black nine hours on the lethal beaches of that French seaside resort—as a CBC-TV film special, Dieppe: An Answer for the Dead, reveals.

The documentary to be telecast Thursday night at 10 on Channel 2 explores the controversy that still surrounds the event that is now history.

Was Dieppe worth the price? Did the Canadians walk into a well-prepared trap (as some veterans of the action seem to believe)? Could the lessons of Dieppe that later contributed to the success of the Normandy landings have not been learned any other way?

Veterans of the Dieppe raid, some of whom gathered recently at a Dieppe prisoner-of-war reunion in Toronto, attempt to answer these still-burning questions and contribute their reminiscences to the film special.

Interviews with Canadians who were there, on the beaches of Dieppe 25 years ago, are counterpointed by filmed interviews with their German foes on that fateful day. One German intelligence officer at Dieppe claims he passed false plans of the German defences through the underground to England prior to the raid. An aide de camp to the commander of the German forces at Dieppe is also among the interviewees on the CBC-TV special.

The program contains as well some of the best footage from a 1962 special for Closeup (prepared by George Ronald) on Dieppe—interviews with since-deceased Canadian military planners, Major-General J. H. Roberts, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, and Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton. Some of this earlier material includes interviews with the Earl Mountbatten of Burma and Viscount Montgomery.

Violinist Appears

In 1958, 13-year-old Itzhak Perlman was brought to the U.S. as the winner in the serious music division of a talent competition held in his native Israel in search of youthful performers.

Perlman, now 22 years old, will be featured as the guest soloist in An Evening at Tanglewood, a two-hour telecast of a summer evening concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Erich Leinsdorf, in color on Channel 5 Thursday night at 7. He will play Saint-Saens' introduction and Rondo Capticcioso on the program.

The young violin virtuoso's first music studies were in the Tel Aviv Academy of Music. He not only gave recitals in and around Tel Aviv, where he was born, but also played on the state radio, both in recital and with orchestra.

Shortly after his arrival in the U.S., the Zionist Organizations of America arranged a tour of more than 20 concerts in the U.S. and Canada for him and put him in touch with the preparatory division of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. After five years as a scholarship student, he entered the regular division, and during summers he attended the Meadowmount School of Music.

In addition to five appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show, young Perlman has given recitals in a number of cities in the U.S. and has appeared widely in Canada. He was featured twice with orchestra at Carnegie Hall in New York City, and also appeared with the Philharmonic Symphony of Westchester in Mount Vernon, N.Y.

In April, 1964, he entered the Leventritt Memorial Award international competition in New York City for young violinists, the most prestigious U.S. musical contest. From a fielf of 19 contestants, he was awarded first prize by a jury including Isaac Stern, George Szell, William Steinberg, Joseph Fuchs and Leopold Mannes.

'The Bold Men'

A 60-minute television special, The Bold Men, will examine why and how daredevils risk their lives on Something Different, Monday night at 7 on Channel 5.

The program, narrated by Van Heflin, probes courage and how man overcomes fear. Highlight of the program is Rod Pack's 14,600 foot aerial jump without a parachute.

Additional Bold Men to be seen are El Cordobes, Spain's most exciting bullfighter, who stands closer than anyone to the lethal horns; Carlos Roman, who dives several times daily from a 136-foot cliff into 10 feet of water in Acapulco, and Col. John Craig, who rides the back of a 40-foot whale shark off Baja Californa.

LEGENDARY FIGURE of George Armstrong Custer will come to life again this fall in ABC-TV's new color series "Custer". Starring in show will be newcomer Wayne Maunder in title role.

Also shown are Chet Juszyk, who trains lions fresh from the jungle before they are sent to circus tamers; snake trapper Alan Tarlton, who milks enough venom from a viper to kill 20,000 people, and Don Wilson, a steelworker who daily walks the "high iron"—the skeleton work of skyscrapers under construction—and whose job is so dangerous no company will insure his life.

'Knowing to Learn'

There are schools with no grades, no report cards, no exams.

In some schools, children learn with the help of computers, a step towards a completely computerized education system.

On Wednesday night at 9:30 on Channel 2 television will present a film documentary on the new look in education that is bound to astound many viewers, especially those who believe in the system as it stands today.

The program, produced by the National Film Board, is called "Knowing to Learn," and was directed and written by noted Canadian film-maker Claude Jutra, with the collaboration of Jean Le Moyne.

Hunt for Goat

A high mountain hunting expedition for a trophy goat in the Canadian Coastal Range is featured on Exploration Northwest, Monday night at 7 on Channel 4.

Barney's Goats is an account of a hunting party after big game, namely a trophy mountain goat, in the beautiful Canadian coastal range. Photographer Barney Furseth went with the hunting party on this adventure. Equipped with cameras, Barney made the long journey into the mountains to record all that goes on during a big game hunting expedition.

By seaplane the party rendezvous with the pack train that had set out earlier to the base camp at Render Lake. Then by horseback they travel to the high ridges. Forced up to such heights by the pressures of man, the goats survive under extreme conditions. The hunters climb the shale and slab rock slopes for two entire days with no sign of the elusive goat. On the third day of the hunt, the searchers find a goat bed, but no occupants.

Red China Report

The first broadcast filmed inside Communist China by a U.S. news organization, will be presented Tuesday night from 10 to 11 on Channels 7 and 12.

CBS news correspondent Morley Safer, television's most honored news broadcaster for his reporting in Vietnam, has just returned from 21 days inside Communist China, and his report on that journey will be seen on the special report.

Safer, a Canadian, and CBS news cameraman John Baxter Peters, a British subject, flew from Moscow to Peking on tourist visas, subsequently, they toured Shanghai, Canton and the seldom visited cities of Sian and Yenan.

During the entire time Safer and Peters were inside Red China, they were under the most intense pressure. They were required to give the appearance of leisurely tourists while performing as journalists and filmmakers under the constant scrutiny of Red Chinese guides and officials. They brought their raw film out of China uncensored.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENERS

Uneven Water Supply Can Cause Problems

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

Success with tomatoes depends a lot on the type of soil and the location of the garden. Tomatoes like a warm soil, which means the lighter, well-drained soils in which very little top growth is made compared with the quantity of fruit produced.

On heavier soils the tendency is to make considerable foliage at the expense of fruit trusses, especially when the soil is fertilized before setting out the plants.

With night temperatures definitely on the cool side for tomatoes, even a mulch around the root area of the plants can delay ripening by three to four weeks.

Gardens located near the waterfront are notably cold for tomatoes while those located from two to three miles inland will produce fruit ripened on the vines by the end of July.

Tomato varieties are important to success, far more important than the average home gardener realizes. We need the hybrids with medium sized fruits that have been bred for the short northern season. These we can ripen well in our cooler, but longer frost-free growing period.

Preparation of the soil also has quite a bearing on the quality and condition of the fruits that are produced.

Contrary to popular belief, the tomato plant does not need large quantities of water, but it does need a steady small amount that it can draw on at any time.

Heavy drenchings cool the soil, damage the roots and cause the leaves to fold in the same way they fold when cool nights follow hot days.

To provide a reserve of moisture for the plant's requirements it is essential that the soil contain quantities of humus, or compost, the chunky pieces of which act as sponges to hold moisture in the root area.

Sponges

When there are enough of these sponges present in the soil there will be no periods of flood and drought and the difference in plant growth and general health is readily apparent even to the novice.

Most tomato troubles we experience in the home garden are directly related to an uneven supply of water.

Such troubles are termed 'environmental" because they are caused by environment in which the plants are growing. They are not diseases, nor are they due to insect damage, therefore the use of sprays only does more damage.

The first disorder to be noticed, and one which has already caused alarm to many home gardeners, is blossom-end rot.

In the early stages it appears as a circular pale yellowish area on the bottom or blossom end of the fruit, and later turns brownish black like a piece of leather.

This condition is not caused by any bacteria or fungus, but by uneven moisture at the roots. It does not appear when the plants are grown in a soil heavy with humur that is kept just moist and never flooded or allowed to dry out.

Disorder

The fruits are edible when the black portion has been removed.

The second disorder the gardener notices will probably be blotchy ripening, indicated by portions of the fruits turning red while other parts remain yellow and hard.

This is due to a short period of dryness at the roots which allowed some of the cells in the forming fruits to harden, followed by copious watering which gave normal growth to cells formed later. An even moisture supply prevents this condition.

As the season progresses a third disorder may be noticed, this time badly shaped fruits that bulge in some areas and seem restricted in others.

The cause is the same as blotchy ripening, excepting that the roots have been lacking moisture for longer periods at a time when ripening was well advanced.

The shortage of moisture caused the outer cells on the fruits to harden and cease growing, but later watering permitted the inner cells to continue normal growth. Since the outer cells could not expand to accommodate the new growth the pressure ruptured them and pushed through to make the bulges.

The last of these environmental disorders is sun scald, indicated by a patch, or a complete cap, at the stem end of the fruits which remains almost white when the rest of the fruit is red.

Exposure

This is caused, as the name suggests, from the exposure of the fruits to hot sunshine, and to hot sun striking the fruits in the morning before the condensed moisture, due to a cool night, has had time to evaporate.

In England it is necessary to remove the leaves that cover the fruits in order to ripen a crop in the climate that prevails there, but it only leads to trouble when leaves are removed in local gardens.

Here, on the west coast of Canada, the light intensity is considerably stronger than in England, in fact, the greatest light intensity in the world is at Hollywood, California, and that is why the film industry located there.

Only in a very dul, and cool season can we judiciously remove a leaf or two to hasten ripening of the fruit.

There is one wilt, and there are two blights which affect the tomato. The wilt is present in some soils, but the blights are seldom encountered in our dry summers, and even in wet summers we can usually harvest sufficient undamaged fruits for home use.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q. I am pulling onions now and using them but my neighbor tells me they should be left in the ground until they ripen. When is an onion ripe? Puzzled, Victoria.

A. Onions will ripen some time during August if the bulbs were fully exposed as they grew. Only the roots should be in the soil. Feeding and watering is maintained during June and July while the onions grow to size.

From the end of July, no more water should be given; the leaves will gradually become limp and yellow, and the outer coats of the bulbs will dry.

At some time during August, the onions will be ready to lift from the ground. They will have ripened in dryness and warmth.

Should a rainstorm occur after the ripening process starts, it is necessary to lift the bulbs to prevent their starting again into growth since they would then be of no use for keeping.

•

THE WEEK'S WORK

Plant colchicums now for blooms by end of month. Also sternbergia and fall crocus must be in the ground at once if they are to bloom this fall.

Seed of indoor cyclamens for flowering at Christmas 1968 is sown now in a fine mixture of leafmould, compost and sand.

Choose a few of the largest bulbs of narcissi on hand and pot them for early blooming indoors. Use three bulbs of one variety to a six or seven inch pot. Six to eight weeks in a cool, dark and slightly moist place is needed for rooting.

This summer's compost heap should have all discarded leaves and plants added to it. The spring heap may now be turned sides into the middle and restacked.

Wallflower plants should now be growing nicely in vacant rows in vegetalbe garden, where they receive regular watering and an occasional light feeding.

Pinch out the growing tip of each vine of squash and cucumber, leaving one set of leaves beyond the last fruit. You will be amazed at the rapid growth of the fruits after pinching.

Candle Ignites Mattress, Then House

Fire caused about $1,000 damage to an outside wall of the house at 2421 Chambers early Friday.

Firemen said the blaze started when a mattress left leaning against the house flared up again after catching fire earlier.

A candle had started the mattress burning and the chilcren of Mrs. Sally Murphy doused it under a tap. The mattress broke into flame again during the night, touching off the wall of the house.

Park Users Restricted

Swimmers and picnickers at Thetis Lake Park are restricted to the main beach area because of the high fire hazard in the tinder-dry bush.

Deputy city Fire Chief Carl Coates called for public co-operation Friday in asking people using the park to stay out of its more remote areas.

Four retired firemen are patrolling the park but have been unable to cope with the large crowds, he said.

INSTEAD of using valuable shelf space, necessary for books, the pictures utilize cupboard doors, space which otherwise would remain plain.

PICTURES HUNG ON DOORS USEFUL, GOOD CONTRAST

By PAULINE GRAVES

When a storage unit and bookshelves fill a complete wall, it does reduce the available space in which to display pictures. Here is an idea that shows the pictures to best advantage and makes use of them as well.

Centred in the built-ins is a 30-inch wide cupboard with double doors which, when closed, look like a solid panel, a nice contrast to the open areas on each side.

To enhance this illusion, three 17-inch by 21-inch framed pictures are bolted to the left-hand door. When the doors are closed, the pictures are exactly in the centre of the panel, hiding the break between the doors.

The bolts come through the door from the back and into the frames, top and bottom, holding them securely, so that the pictures can function as door pulls. They are given extra prominence because this centre cupboard juts out 3 inches beyond the 12-inch deep shelves on each side.

Part of the total design is the television set which occupies a 17-inch deep box, 32 inches wide and 26 inches high.

Neither the box nor the set extends back to the wall in order to achieve ventilation, and a large hole cut in the bottom helps also. Note that the flower post stand on the box, not on the television.

For additional design interest, double doors, with 1-inch by 2-inch frames and small, chicken wire centres, cover the shelves top and centre.

Appeal Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — An arbitrator has rejected an appeal by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers seeking a pay benefit for about 2,500 postal clerks who lost out on the Dominion Day public holiday Monday, July 3.

At the Movies With Norman Cribbens

THE SPY WITH A COLD NOSE

Victoria Premiere
Fox Cinema

This is just about the end in spy dramas—a radio transmitter concealed in the tooth of a bag-jowled British bulldog named Disraeli.

The bugged bulldog is presented to the Soviet premier and the premier takes him everywhere—even to cabinet meetings.

The consequences are fairly obvious: the British government gets verbatim reports from its canine agent and shapes its policies accordingly.

Obviously, the bulldog's radio-active tooth is saving the world for democracy!

★ ★ ★

On the human side, we have Lionel Jeffries, a member of the British counter-intelligence service who finds life rather dull with a family of difficult children and a wife who doesn't appreciate him. (Where have we heard this before?)

He does many routine jobs and is bored with them all until he comes up with the sparkling idea of a radio-active gem in a bulldog-s tooth.

Now we are off to the races. The puzzled Reds send glamorous red-haired Dahlia Levi to London to find out where the British are getting their information.

She does—and offers to forget the whole thing for a few hundred thousand. But, when the bulldog gets distemper, the British are worried he will be X-rayed and the transmitter discovered.

So they send Lionel Jeffries and Laurence Harvey to Moscow to try and lure the bulldog away with an attractive bullbitch.

The whimsy is flimsy, but the bulldog idea persists to the point where you wonder if everyone is mad. Which, of course, they are.

Nineties Comedy Will Open St. Luke Season

Harry Lukey was elected president of St. Luke's Players at the recent annual meeting.

Fred Horner, vice-president, Noel Hayden, treasurer, and Helen Brens, secretary, were others elected.

A "gay nineties" comedy, Love Rides the Rails, will open St. Luke's 1967-68 season in November.

Reading and casting will take place later this month and in early September. A season of three productions is planned.

WATER RESTRICTIONS

A state of emergency exists in Greater Victoria's Water Supply, and in accordance with Section 60, Greater Victoria Water Act the following regulations are instituted, and effective 12:01 a.m. Saturday, August 12th, 1967 sprinkling and garden irrigation will be allowed one day only in each of the areas listed. These regulations apply to all customers, whether individuals, corporations or government bodies.

Arthur Mayse

We have so many problems kicking around unsolved these days that I hate to bring up another. But when may we expect our provincial government to do something about two highways that are no longer capable of handling the traffic load imposed on them?

The first of these is the Island Highway itself, a heavily-travelled artery which by modern standards must be considered obsolete.

The second is the Patricia Bay "Highway," a country road apparently laid down in the naive belief that change would never come to the Saanich Peninsula.

Well, change has come, and unless the population prognosticators are very badly off the mark, we have but seen the beginning of it.

Through much of their length, both links are two-laners. They are cut into and across at frequent intervals. Posted speeds on each range to a 60-mile top, which is exceeded as a matter of course. This is especially true of the Island Highway: drive it at 60 and you are passed with monotonous regularity. (This in the stretches where traffic is not slowed to a jog by summer caravans of trailers.)

We need multi-lane divided highways to replace this overgrown pair, and it is not to the credit of Mr. Bennett's government that we lack them.

While it's no secret that adult education has gone over big it is still startling to learn that evening class takers now out-number high school day students in Greater Victoria.

Authority for this statement is adult classes co-ordinator Reg Mylrea, who tells me that the evening total for 1966-67 was 7,817 . . . a record which will almost certainly be shattered this fall.

Well over 300 general, vocational-technical and academic courses will be offered, and the evening division people stand ready to add more at the drop of an idea.

With this in mind, I'm asked to let you know that new course suggestions and bids from instructors competent to teach them will get a ready hearing. (Phone 385-1411, local 258.)

Sifting through the prospectus, which the Times will offer as a supplement later this month, I'm amazed as always by the variety of skills practiced and taught in this area.

Here's "Foil Fencing," to be given for the first time, and a page or two over, "Gardening and Landscaping," a course 19 years old and still popular as ever.

In between, you'll find everything from doll doctoring to do-it-yourself home repairs and Lannie King Yee's courses in Chinese cooking.

My wife has her eye on those last, and as an eager hand with the chopsticks, I couldn't be more delighted!

★

A couple of days back, I noted the problem of finding a present for the friends we'll be staying with in Montreal. The suggestions have been tumbling in.

"If they have children," urges one kind reader, "be sure you take them some shells. Not fancy ones, but the kind we pick up on our own Vancouver Island beaches. Take my word for it, children who live inland love them."

Next caller suggested an authentic West Coast Indian basket, and hoped we would steer clear of made-in-Japan souvenirs.

Then, a matter of minutes later, another chum wondered if we had considered tucking in a bottle or two of local wine. "Better than they make in California," said he, "or Niagara either!"

Since then, we have added to our list dogwood china, Victoria-made pottery, and a painting of an arbutus tree . . . all notions of merit.

That's the problem; any or all would make nice presents; and our thanks to those who thought of them.

Home now, wondering when the big tap in the sky will open, and remembering an axiom given me by a good gardener in an earlier drouth: "If you can't water your flowers, do the next best thing. Get in and cultivate 'em."

Come on to the Square To Hear the Oom-Pa-Pa

By PETER LOUDON

Victoria was getting like any other city on a shopping night.

Tired people dashing downtown, parking in store lots, dashing into the fray and dashing home.

And the only people who ever took a look at the town in its summer beauty were the tourists who could take time to stand and gawk.

But the summer entertainment program in Centennial Square has changed all that. You can almost close your eyes and dream yourself back into the restful summer nights of years gone by . . .

You hear the drums first. Then you notice everyone's walking in the same direction —toward Centennial Square and the music.

The air cooled by the fountain and the beat of the band tempts you to stretch out on the steps. People who have stopped by before often have a folded lawn chair along.

You become aware of the crowd, elderly people often, but bare-footed kids too, pretending to be hippies, but most of them just taking an evening vacation from reality.

BEST PLACE

There are shop clerks and shoppers, folks who were just driving by, downtown wanderers who have nothing else to do. And they've just found the best place to do it.

The program could be anything. Since May 6 there have been a couple of dozen bands, choirs, dancers, sunset ceremonies. Sundays it's the Salvation Army's hymn sing-out.

Some of the events are unscheduled, like the 97-voice Toronto boys' songster group which arrived Friday afternoon. But if it matters to you, there's a sign in the window of the Victoria Centennial Society, 14 Centennial Square, saying what's next. It doesn't seem to matter to most people.

INSTANT AUDIENCE

They hear the music and they appear It's an instant audience, a whim thing, and it's a great success. It costs money, but it has all come out of centennial funds (taxes?) and there isn't even a silver collection.

Folks are hoping it will all continue after Centennial year ends. They say they are sitting down and enjoying the built-in pleasures of downtown Victoria without commercial influence for the first time in years.

It's almost like the good old days when people made their own fun.

TWO BOYS INJURED IN FALL OUT OF CAR

Two boys about 12 years old were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital shortly before noon when they tumbled backwards out of an accelerating convertible.

Colwood RCMP officers, who are still investigating the mishap, said the youngsters were sitting atop the back of their father's car as traffic was dispersing following the Luxton Fall Fair parade.

When an officer waved traffic on, the father accelerated and the boys lost their balance, falling backward out of the moving car.

'Not Guilty' In Drug Case

A teenager charged last week with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking pleaded not guilty in his second court appearance Friday.

Ricky Gregory Kardera, 18, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, elected trial by magistrate.

A trial date of Sept. 18 was agreed upon. Bail of $3,000 continues.

Ask The Times

Q. Are Gypsy Rose Lee and Arlene Frances sisters? W.R.R.

A. No. The sister of Gypsy Rose Lee is June Havoc.

Q. Is Robert W. Service dead and if so where is he buried? H.K.

A. Robert Service died in France in 1958 and requested to be buried there. However there is a commemorative stone seat erected in his honor in the Cowichan Valley where he was well known.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

CO-OP HOUSING STUDIED

Co-operative housing for male University of Victoria students may be available in September.

An Alma Mater Society committee chaired by fourth year arts student Garry Curtis has researched methods of financing, organizing and initiating a system of co-op housing.

The idea, Mr. Curtis said, involves a number of students living communally. They would make decisions concerning the administration of all the household affairs.

A letter from the committee outlining the plan has been sent to all male out-of-town students registered at the university last term.

A similar system for female students could also be established if sufficient interest was shown.

AID OFFERED

The AMS would not officially set up the house but would provide the necessary help to any interested group in overcoming legal, purchasing, furnishing and structural problems involved in such a project.

"The committee originally started with the idea the AMS would buy a house and inaugurate the plan. Further research proved this concept could be fatal," said Mr. Curtis.

"We then decided to let co-opers organize their own system with help from us."

Co-op housing is used at the University of Western Ontario, University of Toronto and Saint Francis Xavier.

Water Ban Expected To Last Six Weeks

Need Inch of Rain To Fill Reservoirs

Lifting of water restrictions before the end of September is unlikely.

Water Commissioner Ron Upward today said any earlier date is a remote hope.

Lawn and garden watering limitation to one day a week will remain in effect "until we get at least an inch of rain," he said.

Any less, he said, would only settle the dust.

Unless there is an unusual downpour, the normal September precipitation is about one inch.

The drain on Greater Victoria's dwindling water reserves increased by 15 per cent Friday.

This was blamed on gardeners rushing to soak lawns before the restrictions became effective at midnight Friday—not midnight tonight as reported in Friday's Times.

CLOUDBURST?

It will require five or six inches of rain to swell the creeks, fill the reservoirs and make the area once again a land of unrestricted water supply.

Until then, consumption must be kept down to between 18,000,000 and 19,000,000 gallons a day, the amount usually recorded after a "decent" rainfall.

Consumption would probably reach the 30,000,000 gallon mark on free watering days and this would mean an average daily consumption of about 22,500,000 gallons.

This average must be maintained, suntanned lawns notwithstanding, for the next 80 days to cover the anticipated dry spell.

Even then rain might not wash away the need for restrictions altogether.

October is the critical month, Mr. Upward said.

Even if there is a reasonable amount of rain and restrictions are lifted, there's always a danger that gardeners will take advantage of the freedom to really soak gardens and this might again deplete the supply to restriction level.

Meantime special permits are available to permit sprinkling of lawns seeded within the past three weeks.

But for other gardeners, sprinkling may only be done in Victoria, Esquimalt, and Oak Bay south of Lansdowne on Thursdays.

Oak Bay north of Landsowne, Saanich, View Royal, Langford, Colwood, Metchosin, Saseenos and Sooke Harbour are restricted to Monday sprinkling.

The restrictions do not mean there is cause for panic, Mayor Hugh Stephen told the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday.

He said the ban was merely a measure to help conserve what water there is.

A special meeting of the water board has been called for Monday for discussion of the water shortage and its cause.

TOW-AWAY FOR STUDENTS

University of Victoria students may have their cars towed away in September if they park illegally on the campus.

This will normally result from repeated parking offenses.

But the tow-away law may also apply on a first offence at the discretion of the superintendent of buildings and grounds.

A new regulation also permits a $1 reduction in the $2 parking fine if paid within 48 hours.

Man Supplied Beer to Minors

Ronald Thorpe, 21, of Franklin River was fined $50 today when he pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to minors.

Police found him with a supply of beer in an abandoned shack on Cordova Bay Road June 25, court was told. The three boys and a girl with him were all under 21.

Fire Crews Seek Firebug In Saanich

Saanich fire department suspects a firebug lit three brush fires which broke out within a space of nine minutes Friday afternoon.

First call came in at 1:02 p.m. and crews from Shelbourne station were rushed to Blenkinsop and Lohbrunner where a grass fire was burning.

While attacking this blaze firemen noticed another fire 100 yards away.

At 1:11 p.m. another call came in and, with two Shelbourne trucks at Blenkinsop, headquarters trucks were sent to the foot of Mount Douglas at Cedar Hill Road where a grass fire eventually burned three acres.

Oak Bay gave assistance under the "mutual aid" plan.

SUSPICIOUS

It would have been easy for someone to have started the Blenkinsop fire then gone to the Cedar Hill Road site and started another in that space of time, a Saanich fire department spokesman said today.

Deputy Chief Glen Robbins said Friday he thought the three fires were the work of a firebug. The Cedar Hill fire started on the roadside and the wind swept it up into the brush.

Water was relayed 1,500 feet from a hydrant to a pumper truck and youngsters in the vicinity were called upon to haul hose while firemen went up the hillside to stop the fire from spreading.

A farm tractor took a 1,000-gallon tank up into the fire spread and sprayed the flames.

At Blenkinsop, firemen were able to get ahead of the fire which could easily have spread over the mountainside.

KAROL JOHN LYNNE PAT

TWO ARE UNDERAGE, but which two? That's the problem facing beer parlor waiters, not necessarily with these young people, but with thousands of others. Guess wrong, serve a minor and the waiter may be fined, the hotel could be closed. Many youngsters tender false proof of age, but that doesn't let the waiter off the hook. Would you have guessed that Karol is 20, Lynne is 22, John is 23 and Pat 17? The legal age for entering a beer parlor is 21. In the past hotels have refused service to under-21s and have asked them to leave. Now they plan to lay charges immediately.

UNDER-21 DRINKING

Illegal Tippling by Youth Ignored by B.C. Government

By PETE LOUDON

This final instalment of a three-part series considers a simple method of curtailing illegal drinking by teen-agers—a mandatory, government-issued ID card, bearing a picture of the applicant.

The British Columbia government is apparently ignoring the problem of teen-age drinking.

Speeches are made in the legislature, resolutions are forwarded by community groups, prosecutions increase and liquor laws are ridiculed. But nothing changes.

●

The British Columbia Parent-Teacher Association as far back as February, 1965, complained in convention at the "moral, social and legal frustration" of B.C. youth.

The PTA said it is impossible for the present laws governing sales to minors to be enforced and vendors find it impossible to stay within the law.

Court costs and social welfare costs arising from illicit drinking by youths are continually rising.

The PTA stopped short of recommending the age limit for drinking be lowered. But it demanded a study of the act to see if changes where it concerns youth, could make it more effective.

The president of the Alcoholism Foundation of B.C., E. D. McRae of Vancouver, went a step farther.

He said it's a safe assumption that 70 per cent of the 18 to 21-year-olds in B.C. are drinking and the government should give attention to this.

●

"If a law is being continually flouted, someone should take a long look at it. To deny these young people the right to drink until they are 21, is unrealistic," he said.

He doesn't condone drinking, warns that alcohol is a drug which can cause addiction, but would prefer young people to be drinking in other than clandestine circumstances.

If the legal age were lowered, then enforcement of the law should be stepped up, said Mr. McRae. And he proposed how this might be done—adopt the identification card system now used in Washington and many other states.

Visitors to Washington know that grocery stores sell beer and wine. Taverns dot every downtown area. But there is never any doubt about the age of a customer.

●

In Washington, and in many other states, a youth who attains his 21st birthday and who wishes to be served alcoholic beverages goes to a liquor store or government agency.

He fills out an application for an identification card, presents his birth certificate or three other suitable documents proving his age. He also provides a small photograph of himself.

In due course he receives a card bearing his likeness. Any person selling beer or spirits to a person who is not obviously over 21 must ask to see the card. No card, no sale.

●

Infringement of the law can result in the seller being charged with a felony or at the least, a licence suspension is in order. The system covers sales of beer in grocery stores.

The system would be an effective curb if the present legal age of 21 were preserved. Or it could be effective if the age limit were dropped to 18 or 19 as many of the authorities in this series suggest.

TO OPEN SHIP

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will cross to Vancouver on Monday, where he will officially open the specially-designed fair ship MV Sakura Maru. He will also be attending the reception following the opening. Cmdr. J. Roberts will be the aide-de-camp in attendance.

Visit in City

Recent visitors to Victoria were well-known musicians, cellist Miss Sharon McKinley, of Kelowna, and Mr. P. Peter Thomas, concert violinist from Exeter, England. While here, they were guests of Miss McKinley's aunt, Mrs. Gordon Daniels, Lansdowne Road, and her family, Elaine, Terry and Ronnie. The visitors have now left to stay in Kelowna.

Co-Hostesses

Gardenias en corsage were given to bride-elect Miss Nancy Janes when she was entertained at a shower by Mrs. Bob Alger and Miss Dianne McMaster in the latter's Union Road home. Mother of the honor guest, Mrs. S. Janes, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. R. Tracy, received white carnations. Guests included Mrs. J. Sammut, Mrs. D. Beaton, Mrs. G. V. Bishop, the Misses Dianne Tindell, Irene Palmer, Cathie Bishop, Marilyn and Joannie Dodsworth, Janice and Donna Janes.

Set Date

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred L. Demers, 594 Tait Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their elder daughter, Judy Elinor Diane, to Mr. Robert James Siberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Siberry of Toronto. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 26 at 7 p.m. in St. Paul's Anglican Church. Rev. J. A. Roberts will officiate.

Attend Ceremony

A number of Vancouver guests travelled to Victoria to attend the White-Dawson wedding this afternoon. They included Mr. and Mrs. J. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. J. Greig, Miss Tany Kosovich, Mr. and Mrs. D. McEachern, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Mviet, Mr. and Mrs. D. Robinson, Miss Alison Rice, Mr. and Mrs. M. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. William White. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. Attwood, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bootsveld, Mr. and Mrs. D. Claydon, Mr. and Mrs. L. Harper, Mr. Steven Osborne, Dr. and Mrs. H. Saita, Miss Joanne Steer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilcock, and Mrs. A. Wilcock, all of North Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. David Bahr of Chilliwack; Mr. and Mrs. David Dawson of Rossland; Mr. and Mrs. R. Forster of Nanaimo; Miss Lois Golby, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Richards of New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. K. Y. Spencer of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wolverton of Hopkin's Landing; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson F. White of London, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wood of Prince George.

AND NOT FOR WOMEN WITH FAMILY HISTORY OF DISEASE

Warn Against Pill for Breast Cancer Victims

BOSTON (AP) — The chief surgeon of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital says women who have had breast cancer or have a family history of breast cancer should be advised against using oral contraceptive pills.

Dr. Francis D. Moore reported in the New England Journal of Medicine Thursday on a study he and three other doctors conducted.

He said the study of contraceptive pills did not "establish any clear association with breast cancer itself."

But he said the pills contain hormones which will stimulate an existing cancer to spread and "have an impact on breast physiology and anatomy."

Therefore, he said, "in a patient who has had a cancer of the breast removed" further use of contraceptive pills should be ruled out.

He said studies show that women stand a greater chance of getting breast cancer whose mother, sister or daughter have had the disease.

Stepping smartly into a new season . . .

One look at the new Bandolino shoes for fall at Munday's this week . . . and our powers of resistence broke down to the point that we bought a pair on the spot! . . . So now we're in a position to tell you that these lovely new shoes from Italy . . . made by the makers of Amalfis . . . are not only smart to look at . . . but fit like a glove and are light and wonderfully comfortable to walk in . . . New styles include "Susina". . . a T-strap with shirred elasticized strap over the instep, rounded toe and small stacked heel . . . in either hazel (dark brown) or black buffalo grain calf . . . "Nu" has a buckled strap and cutout high over the instep . . . small covered heel pinched slightly at the sides for a lighter look . . . very fine brown or black calf . . . "Ursula" is a dressy suede shoe in brown or a pretty shade of red . . . tying at the instep with a grosgrain bow . . . moreover, with this shoe you get two bows of different shades so you can change the shoe's appearance when the spirit moves you! . . . "Dalia," in brown, navy and black calf, has a sling back and slender strap riding high over the instep . . . All these Bandolino shoes are very, very new looking . . . with the rounded toes and low heels that spell autumn 1967 chic . . . $21.95 at . . . Munday's, 1203 Douglas St., 383-2211.

The up-and-coming new fashion house of Torrente in Paris featured the "old look" of little short shifts with loose waists.

Smart new dresses at Wilson's . . .

The good old summer time . . . and what a glorious one it's been up to now . . . will soon be on its way out . . . and truth to tell, so will those little linen and cotton frocks most of us have been beating the heat in . . . What we all need now is a new dress with the autumn 1967 look . . . to span the transition period by itself, and team up happily with a coat later on . . . New fall dresses are arriving thick and fast at Wilson's . . . scarcely a day goes by that we don't spy tempting new models . . . mostly lightweight wools or knits . . . There are tailored dresses of Liberty wool challis in paisley designs . . . perfect for travelling and day-in-day-out wear . . . carved knits by Louis Feraud . . . subtly cut, starkly simple . . . with long sleeves and wide round necklines . . . in deep, glowing colors . . . Textured knit dresses with tailored jackets which have the suit look when worn together . . . you'll notice quite a few jacket dresses . . . and love them of their versatility . . . There's purple and black diagonally striped wool with turtle neck . . . blue, pink and white fine wool, knits mingled with silvery lurex . . . to brighten up the cocktail hour . . . Some lovely printed wools in delectable colors . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

Pockets are "in." You'll see them low on the skirt, twined on skirt and bodice, or balancing a one-sided closing.

Warm jackets great for school or campus . . .

Just dandy for back-to-school wear . . . for university campus . . . for chauffeuring the kids hither and yon . . . are the smart blanket cloth jackets now at the Madam and Eve Shop . . . They're in subtle plaids . . . greens and browns . . . and three different styles . . . the short one, called the bunny jacket, is hooded, has zipped front, warm quilted lining, and is trimmed with white fur . . . Costs but $25 . . . Next is a ¾-length style (which would probably be full length on the short gal) . . . this one's double-breasted with gold twist buttons, and has a snuggly detachable fur collar . . . pile lining . . . $40 . . . Third style is a real car-coat type with belt . . . It, too, is ¾-length, has a cosy lining, and is tagged at $30 . . . All three styles are lovely and warm, and very good-looking We saw a couple of smart pant suits at M & E . . . two-piece with double-breasted jackets, high neckline . . . They're in corduroy . . . an emerald green, size 10, and a fuchsia, size 12 . . . $33 . . . The 3-piece pant suits we told you about recently proved so popular that there isn't a single one left . . . but more are on order, and should be here just in time for school opening. . . . Watch for them . . . Madam and Eve Shop, Trounce Alley, 383-7177.

Fall favors classics—plaids, checks, tartans, pinstripes and regimentals.

Choice offerings from Italy . . .

"Can't you just imagine yourself back in Venice?" we overheard an American lady ask her husband when we were in Sydney Reynolds the other day . . . It's a reaction we get too . . . and right now the Continental Room is literally sparkling with choice wares from Venice and Florence . . . where fine craftsmen abound . . . Among recent arrivals are a couple of delightful table centrepieces in green, aqua and amber shaded crystal . . . One is two herons, the other two fishes . . . perched on the crest of a wave . . . We can imagine how striking one of these would look centering a beautifully-set table . . . with candlelight . . . (there are tall matching crystal candleholders) . . . flickering around them . . . New, too, are the sets of etched crystal glasses . . . goblets, clarets, wines, champagnes, brandy snifters and old-fashioneds . . . banded with 24k gold . . . Very elegant indeed! . . . and to match them, a martini mixer with muddler and six stemmed cocktail glasses . . . From the city on the Arno comes a new shipment of those much admired Florentine trays with their subtle colorings laced with antique gold leaf . . . various sizes, from tea service size to little ones for holding a couple of glasses . . . Impervious to stains, you'll be happy to know . . . And a big display of Florentine boxes that could hold anything from cigaretes to jewellery . . . Nice for gifting! . . . Sydney Reynolds Ltd., 807 Government St., 383-3931.

Need a long table for entertaining buffet style? Tie or fasten together the legs of two or three card tables.

Hawaiian Cruise Holiday . . .

Maybe you've been hearing how scarce hotel accommodation is in Hawaii and how one must book months and months ahead . . . which is all perfectly true . . . but here's a marvellous Hawaiian holiday which you can take this very month . . . and right through November . . . It's a package deal by Matson lines . . . either travelling to Honolulu by jet and returning on the SS. Lurline . . . or vice-versa . . . total of 11 fun-packed days . . . 5 of them at sea . . . the rest in beautiful Waikiki, housed in the luxurious Holiday Isle Hotel . . . and all for as low as $395 (U.S.) from San Francisco or Los Angeles . . . There are five gala parties . . . one each night on the Lurline . . . sightseeing tours around Honolulu and Mt. Tantalus . . . Pearl Harbor cruise aboard the "Kaimanu". . . an authentic Hawaiian Luau at the Royal Hawaiian or Hawaiian Village Hotel . . . traditional lei greetings . . . plus all sorts of other goodies . . . all included in the one price. Accomodation is first class all down the line . . . and the holiday fare and entertainment planned for you aboard ship must be seen to be believed! . . . Paulin's have colorful brochures telling all about these grand Hawaii Holiday Cruises . . . and they will book you on any of the scheduled departures between Aug. 20 and Nov. 28 . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., 382-9168.

Wax the chrome on your kitchen chairs to prevent any danger of rust.

Campaigner's chest model for handsome furniture . . .

The Gallery at Home Furniture is more of a treat than ever these days . . . and if you love beautiful things for your home, take our advice and go do some browsing in this treasure trove . . . Last week we oh'd and ah'd over a beautiful Chippendale camel-back sofa with solid carved mahogany frame . . . covered with a rich gold and beige brocade . . . and its teammate, a graceful wing-back chair upholstered in brocade of the same design and harmonizing colors (nowadays people are getting away from the old idea of having everything exactly matching . . . blending is the watchword!) . . . If you're lucky enough to have a large living room or den in your home, you'll be interested in the new Campaign grouping just arrived at the Gallery . . . There are two or three long coffee tables . . . a cube chest . . . lamp tables, commode, etc. . . . each piece of which is reminiscent of the chests for clothes and personal possessions army officers took with them when going off to battle during the U.S. Civil War . . . This is truly handsome furniture . . . beautifully grained mahogany, adorned with antique brass corners and recessed handles . . . and every piece has drawers or compartments or both . . . Casters, too, so they can be moved around with the greatest of ease! . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

Long colored stockings, chain belts, giant bracelets and architectural earrings are among the dominant accessory trends.

New fabrics now at Saba's . . .

We have occasion to meet a fair number of tourists these days . . . and a shopping question that's frequently asked is where one can go for really good and different woollen fabrics . . . Our answer, of course, is Saba Bros. . . . whose range and choice of fine fabrics of every description is so well-known to Victorians . . . Latest arrivals in Saba's fabric department are mix-and-match Irish tweeds, 100% pure wool . . . checks, zig-zag patterns, tweedy mixtures and plains are designed to be used alone or in combination . . . One we particularly like is hot pink and hyacinth . . . would make a lovely dress and coat ensemble . . . Other colors include greens, blues, grape, mustard, etc. . . . 54" wide and $9 a yard . . . There are some handsome new wool coatings in check designs . . . gold and black . . . blue, black and green . . . $11 a yard . . . and a tangerine and brown novelty plaid priced at $15 would make up into a very smart fall coat . . . For forthcoming weddings and formal clothes . . . the new brocades and peau de soies are magnificent . . . Most of them are combinations of silk or rayon with wool . . . which gives them good body and rich texture . . . Washable printed challis are also among the new fall fabrics on display at . . . Saba Bros. Limited, 1130 Douglas St., 384-0561.

Sebastian knits black and white ripples around the tunic jacket and long top beneath in this swinging translation of the fall costume. The jacket fastens with no sign of its little buttons and only the rounded collar stands up above the waves. A wonderful wool travel-mate set against the backdrop of the Los Angeles Music Centre.

White-Dawson Vows Today

Following their wedding this afternoon in Oak Bay United Church, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Wayne John White will travel on honeymoon to Honolulu.

Rev. Alexander Calder heard vows which united the former Barbara Jean Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Stuart Dawson, 1034 St. David Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Frederick White of London, Ont. Standards of white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service, and organist was R. W. Kroeger. Mr. Dawson gave his daughter in marriage.

A floor-length sheath gown of norganza was worn by the bride. Appliques of tiny flowers highlighted the sheer bodice and sleeves were wrist-length. A full train enhanced the slim lines of the gown, and her hand-rolled veil of silk illusion net misted from a floral headpiece studded with seed pearls. She carried pale pink Verona roses and stephanotis in her colonial bouquet.

The bride's two attendants wore matching dresses in shocking pink, styled on A-lines of chiffon over delustred satin. Featuring sheer yokes and wrist-length sleeves, the dresses had chiffon panels. Their headpieces were of satin and tulle en tone, and they carried colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations and white roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John A. Greig, and Miss Lois Golby was bridesmaid.

William F. White was best man for his brother, and David Bahr and Steven Osborne ushered the guests.

G. Chaston proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

For travelling, the bride donned a coat and dress ensemble in shocking pink, which she complemented with bone accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple will be making their home in Trail.

Co-Ordinates and Color Are Fall Style Story

LOS ANGELES — The California Fashion Creators are knee-deep in preparation for the fashion press showings at the Century Plaza Hotel in October. I spent a day at the exciting new Music Centre of Los Angeles where a number of the fashion pictures are being taken.

Damaske

Small wonder that current fashions from California reflect architectural influence. Squared necklines, trapezoidal silhouettes, vertical or arched seaming, and squared-off sleeves cut close to the shoulder, are clues to the affinity fashion has for structural engineering.

The Music Centre, a three-building complex for the performing arts, is dedicated as a "Living Memorial to Peace."

The Dorothy Chandler Pavilion completed in 1964 is breathtakingly beautiful. The magnificent crystal chandeliers are more exquisite than those I saw in the Vienna Opera House.

Madeline Sark, my hostess for luncheon, is employed by the Bank of California, one of the many companies who made a generous donation during the fund-raising campaign. "The Pavilion" dining room is situated on an upper level and from our table we could look out onto the Mark Taper Forum, a 750-seat circular theatre rising out of a reflecting pool, and the largest theatre-auditorium (2,100 seats) completed in the United States in the last quarter-century, the Ahmanson Theatre.

"The Pavilion" dining room is the meeting place of many well-known celebrities. Hermione Gingold who is here from New York to appear on the popular daily TV program "Hollywood Squares" came in for lunch just as we had been seated. She was wearing a simply-cut black and white silk print dress and a stunning large-brimmed chalk white summer felt hat in this season's favorite Gaucho shape.

We toured backstage and enjoyed seeing the stage set of "Walking Happy," which is the current production of the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Company and came direct from the London stage.

"The Man of La Mancha" with Jose Ferrer is playing to standing room only at the Ahmansan Theatre.

In the magnificent Founders' Room there is a life-size portrait of Dorothy Chandler, who spearheaded the fund-raising campaign, and is the wife of the chairman of the board of the Los Angeles Times.

Curious to see more of the coming season's designs, I took a tour of the downtown California Mart building with Marjorie Carne, executive director of the California Fashion Creators. The colorful showrooms of all the well-known California fashion manufacturers are located in the Fashion Mart and it would take at least a week to make a tour of all companies.

The big news for fall 1968 will be the story of co-ordinates . . . as many as 15 pieces in the same fabric and color combinations will give the purchaser an unending choice of costumes.

Dark gold combined with navy is well up in front of the color race with curry and green coming on strong. The popular tangerine kick of summer carries over into fall in slightly deeper tones.

The popular trouser suit seems in danger of being replaced by the pant dress. There are pant dresses for everyone . . . flirty mini-styles for the go-go girls and knee-length controlled pant skirts for the more mature woman who is actively interested in being comfortably chic. It looks like a most exciting season and it was fun to have a sneak preview.

Soothing Beauty Aids To Help Freshen Feet

By PENNY SAVER

During the summer months the most neglected feet must suddenly go on show. At the beach, in the garden, barefoot or in sandals, suddenly they're exposed after being locked up in shoes all winter. Some people have no problems — our neighbor's daughter paints candy-stripes, polka dots, and zany 'op art' patterns on her toes, all in color schemes to match her mini-costumes. For the majority of us though, just revealing winter feet in the summer sun creates some embarressment—ragged nails and hardened skin refuse to appear elegant.

There is a great product, a cream that is 'specially designed to help under-exposed feet become glamorous. After washing and drying your feet, making sure they are free from any oils. apply this cream to any rough spots and rub it in thoroughly. After the cream has been absorbed, rough and dead skin can be rubbed away.

Not only is this a beauty aid for feet, but it will also help remove dead skin from knees, hands, elbows, and can whisk away ground-in dirt. This cream comes in 1¾ and four-ounce sizes, priced at $1.25 and $1.98 respectively.

Much as the Saver household would like to, we find that we can't go barefoot all the time. Summer warmth causes perspiration though, and problems can arise when shoes are worn on warm, sticky feet. To protect both feet and shoes, there is a new product on the market that freshens socks and shoes, and will guard against bacteria growth. You can spray this on the interior of shoes, and treat socks, and hosiery after washing. A large tin of this freshener is priced at 98 cents.

If you have time after an exhausting shopping trip or a day at the office, you'll perk up all over in a hurry if you relieve aching feet. Try giving them a creamy pink masque treatment that I found in one store. Or, if you're in a hurry, but just can't cook dinner until your feet stop hurting, moisten a large pad of cotton, saturate it with icy cold skin freshener, and apply briskly . . . it'll make you feel like a million.

The masque is priced at $2.75, and an astrigent freshener is priced at $2 for five ounces.

If you'd like to know where I found these items, please give me a call at 382-3131.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Plan Changes — Proposed bylaw amendments and changes were discussed when executive members and committee chairmen of the Victoria Credit Women's Breakfast Club gathered at the Mill Bay home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ellis for a business meeting and salmon barbecue. These will be brought before the club at the next meeting on Tuesday. Plans were also arranged for the annual rummage sale in September. At the last regular meeting, parliamentarian Miss Audrey Harness held a discussion on purposes of Credit Women International and the club bylaws.

Dainty Ensemble of Silk Crepe Worn by Bride Linda Sinclair

An exquisite street-length dress of white silk crepe, fashioned with an overdress of nylon net, was worn by Linda May Barber, Friday evening, when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Gary Wayne Sinclair.

The overdress featured sleeves ending in lily points, and the back opening was daintily scalloped. White satin petals formed the coronet which held her short veil and she carried a cluster of red roses in her bouquet.

As a jewelry complement to the ensemble she wore the groom's gift of a strand of pearls and matching earrings.

Arrangements of gladioli in yellow and white tones decorated Gordon Head United Church when Rev. L. Wallwork heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Barber, 2929 Mt. Baker View Road, and son of Mrs. Helen Sinclair, 2886 Ilene Terrace, and Robert W. Sinclair, 634 Beaver Lake Road. Mr. Barber gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Linda Monteski who wore a dress of pale blue crystal charm, fashioned with a slightly belled skirt. The dress was topped with an overblouse of lace. Her whimsie headpiece was en tone and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, nestled in white carnations.

Best man was Tom Monteski and ushering the guests was David Dand.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, where arrangements of pink roses with white candles decorated the lace-covered head table. John W. Cox proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will be making their home at 2310 Lee Avenue when they return from a honeymoon trip up-Island to Parksville.

The new Mrs. Sinclair donned a two-piece suit of coral linen for travelling, and chose white accessories and gardenias en corsage to complete the outfit.

Vancouver guests who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Barber and Mr. and Mrs. W. Duff with their

TOURNAMENT DUO

The Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club will be host to two golfing tournaments next week, the Willingdon Cup on Monday and Tuesday, and the Canadian Amateur from Wednesday to Saturday. It won't be all competition, though, for a number of social events have been planned for competing golfers, their wives, and friends.

Many of the players have already arrived and will be entertained at a welcoming dance in the clubhouse this evening. Irving Lozier's orchestra will provide music for dancing.

A flag-raising ceremony and official reception will be held for the visiting players and their wives on Sunday at 5:30 p.m. in the clubhouse.

The Willingdon Cup dinner will be given in the clubhouse lounge on Tuesday evening for members and their guests.

Also on Tuesday evening the Queenswood Drive home of Mrs. R. Eldridge will be the setting for a no-host cocktail party for the wives of visitors and golf club members.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'Snookie-Poo' Should Know You Know

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently a "thank you" letter came in the mail for my husband of 39 years. Perhaps I shouldn't have opened it, as it was addressed to him alone, but I'm so used to opening all the mail that comes to the house, I never gave it a second thought.

It was from a high school girl graduate, thanking "Dear Snookie-Poo" for the portable TV set!

Now I would say that's a rather expensive gift for a high school girl to get from a man whose wife has never even heard of her, wouldn't you? It was signed with lots of love and a whole string "X's." And then her name.

Should I ring up the girl's mother and ask her if she knows that her daughter has a 64-year-old admirer by the name of "Snookie-Poo?"

SNOOKIE-POO'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Don't ring up anybody. Confront "Snookie-Poo" with the evidence and ask him to explain his generosity and also his interest in a high school girl. If he doesn't make sense to you, look into the situation with a doctor on one side and a lawyer on the other. He may need the counsel of both.

DEAR ABBY: My wife works just to have something to do. I get home from my job about an hour before she does, so I do the marketing and get the dinner started.

We eat together, but she is always in such a rush to get through and clear the table. I am constantly getting up to retrieve a spoon, or the sugar or cream pitcher. Before I've finished my coffee, she's yelling from the kitchen, "Want another cup," meaning she wants to wash the coffee pot.

The object of all this rushing is so she can stretch out and spend the evening on the living room couch.

Will you break a rule and give me clearance to belt her?

MARRIED 20 YEARS

DEAR MARRIED: First tell her you'd like the pleasure of her company for a leisurely dinner. If she still insists on giving you the rush act, ask Old Speedy to please leave everything on the table, and the coffee pot intact, but don't belt her. She's apt to belt you back.

HILARY WHITLOW MARRIED

A dainty floor-length gown of georgette over crepe was worn by Hilary Whitlow when she became the bride of Grant Edward Shirreff in Christ Church Cathedral this afternoon.

Styled on empire lines, the bodice of the gown was of Guipire lace, and similar lace formed the tiny puffed sleeves. Her pillbox headpiece of the same lace held a full cathedral train edged with matching lace accents. Her two-tier illusion blush veil misted softly to the shoulders. She carried a bouquet of light pink glamelias in an ivy garland.

Parents of the principals are Dean and Mrs. Brian Whitlow, 930 Burdett Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Shirreff of Kelowna, B.C. Dean Whitlow officiated at the ceremony, and gave his daughter in marriage. The benediction was pronounced by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia.

As the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, the processional, Purcell's "Trumpet Air in D" was played by organist Richard Proudman. Jeffrey Finch, a cathedral choirboy, sang Handel's "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. As the wedding party left the church Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" was played.

The bride's attendants, Miss Sherry Fahey, bridesmaid, and bridesmatron Mrs. Simon Whitlow, the bride's sister-in-law, were gowned alike in apple green peau d'elegance, styled on empire lines. Peau d'elegance fabric roses formed their headpieces which held short tulle veils that misted to shoulder-length. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white marguerites in ivy garlands.

Mark Shirreff acted as best man for his brother, and Simon Whitlow, the bride's brother, and Hugh Jones ushered guests.

A garden reception was held in the Deanery following the service. A three-tier wedding cake centred the head table. Dr. J. F. K. English proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon down the Oregon coast, the new Mrs. Shirreff chose a two-piece dress and jacket ensemble fashioned from an imported pink basket-weave wool. A pink draped hat and beige accessories accented the costume, and pale pink sweetheart roses en corsage completed the picture.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Naylor, 1733 Foul Bay Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their younger daughter, Shirley Margaret, to Mr. Martin deLeeuw, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. deLeeuw of Edmonton, Alta. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 26, in Ebenezer United Church, Edmonton. Rev. Barry Moore, United Church Chaplin at the University of Alberta, will officiate.

Commons Recommendation To Stop Unwanted Babies

LONDON (AP) — An all-party House of Commons committee recommended today that Britain's wayward girls be given more advice about sex.

While agreeing conditionally, Dr. I. G. W. Pickering, director of prison medical services, warned the committee that sexual enlightenment should be done only after careful consideration.

"It involves too many people, people with religious scruples and so on," he added. "One cannot give blunderbuss instructions about sex."

In offering more sexual advice to girls convicted of law violations. the committee said the main objective was preventing the birth of unwanted children.

In Britain, convicted offenders between the ages of 15 and 21 are sent to institutions for detention and reform and do not come into contact with older criminals.

Celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary on Monday will be Mr. and Mrs. Eric B. Humphries, Ste. 20, 30 Douglas Street. The couple was married on August 14, 1907, in Sherbrooke, P.Q., and for many years made their home in the prairie provinces where Mr. Humphries was employed in the petroleum industry. He formerly was with the United States Cavalry and served, among other postings, in the Philippines. The couple came to Victoria in 1944 when Mr. Humphries retired. They have one son, G. W. Humphries, who with his wife Margaret, makes his home in Edmonton. Their two grandsons are Brian, a staff-member at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, and David, a student at the University of Saskatchewan. Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will be "at home" to their friends on Monday from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Historic Christening Robe

An historic robe will be worn by Cheryl Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Richards, when she is christened in St. Dunstan's Anglican Church Saturday by Archdeacon A. E. Hendy.

It was worn by her father, her grandmother, and her godmother, Miss Katherine Wilton, who will fly out from England for the ceremony.

The names embroidered on the dress show that it has been used at the christening of every descendant of Charles Turner Wilton, who was vicar of Foy, Herefordshire, England, from 1868 to 1919.

His ancestry is said to be in direct line from Edward I, King of England from 1272 to 1307.

On her mother's side, Cheryl will be represented by four generations: her great-grandmother, Mrs. Alex Gillespie; her grandmother, Mrs. G. B. Barnes; her mother, Mrs. Peter Richards, and herself.

In addition to Miss Katherine Wilton, her two other godparents will be Kenneth Barnes and Miss Rosanna Hammond.

SOLOIST in First United Church Sunday at 11 a.m. will be Victoria soprano Beverley Glenday. At the 7 p.m. worship she will sing a duet with Robert Husband. William McNeil is guest organist for the day.

Whose God Is Alive? Cleric's Topic

Whose God Is Alive?

The subject will be discussed in Emmanuel Baptist Church Sunday morning by Rev. Percy E. Wills of the Shantymen's Christian Mission.

His evening subject will be Which Church Will Survive?

'Isolation of a Driver Brings Out His Rudeness'

Grant me, O Lord, a steady hand and watchful eye

That no one shall be hurt when I pass by . . .

This is the beginning of a prayer for motorists offered by Dean Brian Whitlow, DD, in the Sunday leaflet at Christ Church Cathedral.

"In all our dealings with other people," says the Dean "the conduct of Christians should be governed by courtesy since our Master told us that we meet Him in every other human being.

"This applies when we are driving our car just as much as at any other time.

★

"There seems to be something about the isolation and anonymity of the driver in his car which brings out a latent rudeness and self-assertion in many people.

"The impatient honking of the horn at a moment's delay, the rude thrusting of oneself ahead of someone else, the lack of proper care, are all symptoms of man's sinful nature expressing itself in this particular situation.

"Church people," says the Dean, "should rise above this kind of behavior and should drive with Christian courtesy at all times."

IVORY TOWER APPROACH AVOIDED

'Theologo' to Speak To Man in the Street

TORONTO (CP) — more than 4,000 Roman Catholic priests and laymen and interested non-Catholics are expected to attend or hear "Theologo," a giant theological conference with 44 speakers Aug. 20 to 24 in Toronto.

The theme is the theology of renewal in the Roman Catholic Church, one of the main interests at the second Vatican conference in Rome.

The Toronto congress is the centennial project of the Canadian Catholic Bishops, who decided on it in 1964.

Organization was handed over to the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, at the University of Toronto, where Rev. Lawrence K. Shook took charge as congress chairman.

"From the beginning we have tried to avoid an ivory tower approach," he says, and he hopes the eminent scholars and churchmen, coming from 15 countries and including five cardinals, will be speaking to the man-in-the-street as never before.

Membership of the congress is already about filled, with 1,800 members in Convocation Hall, the university's biggest hall, and 200 more watching closed-circuit television nearby. But there is room for 2,500 more in St. Michael's College high school auditorium to see the same TV broadcasts of addresses and debates, and this is open to the public at a dollar a day.

Because, except for plenary sessions of all registered congress members, five papers will be delivered at a time in five auditoriums the choice of which to put on television indicates which the organizers think are the most important.

They range from the opening address of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal through philosophical, theological and pastoral matters to the final speech, by Franz Cardinal Koenig of Vienna, on the theology of communications.

Fifteen of the addresses are in French and the remainder in English but there will be simultaneous translation into the other language at every meeting. Each conference member is issued with his own radio translation receiver at registration.

Of the 44 speakers, 29 are Catholic priests or members of religious orders and five are laymen or women. There are two Jewish rabbis, seven Protestants of various denominations and one Eastern Orthodox priest on the list.

Eight of the speakers are Canadian. They include Rabbi Stuart E. Rosenberg of Toronto, Rev. Bernard J. F. Lonergan of Toronto, Prof. Fernand Dumont of Laval University and Rev. J. M. R. Tillard, president of the Societe Canadienne de Theologie. There are several woman speakers, two of them Catholic laywomen — G. E. M. Anscombe of Oxford University and Dr. Christine Mohrmann of Amsterdam.

A congress spokesman suggested most of the speakers would be on the liberal side in Catholic politics but there would be few rebels and radicals. But questions such as birth control and atheism are on the agenda — and one of the Canadians, Dr. Arthur Gibson of St. Michael's College, Toronto, is an expert on the latter.

The conference members were expected to be about 45 per cent priests, nearly all Catholic, 30 per cent laymen and 20 per cent nuns and monks. The Michaelmas Conference, a club of elite Canadian Catholic laymen, is attending the congress in strength instead of holding its annual retreat at St. Michael's College.

The Pontifical Institute, where the congress is being organized, was founded in 1929 by Etienne Gilson now recognized as the world's foremost expert on medieval philosophy. Pope Pius XII granted it a papal charter 10 years later and it now is a world centre of Catholic studies.

PRINGLE HAS ROOM FOR MORE CAMPERS

There is room for a few more campers at George Pringle United Church Memorial Camp, Shawnigan Lake, during the week of Aug. 19-26.

Interested persons should phone Mrs. E. N. Roberts at 384-2695 as soon as possible.

The camp is for junior girls in Grades 4, 5 and 6 and is open to girls from churches of any denomination. The fee is $20 for the week including transportation from Victoria.

'REVIVAL SWEEPING NEW GUINEA'

Natives Abandoning Witchcraft

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Church Editor

New Guinea is the land that time forgot but God remembered.

That is the story brought to Vancouver Island by Rev. and Mrs. Mason Hughes, who have ministered for 10 years among the most primitive peoples on earth.

"Many have never seen soap—they have never seen any kind of metal," Mr. Hughes said, "and they tend their gardens with rough stick branches torn from trees. Their ignorance of the world outside is unbelievable.

"Yet, by a miracle of God, we have been able to teach them the Bible."

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, with their five children, are now on a tour of Vancouver Island's Foursquare Gospel churches. They will speak at Courtenay Sunday morning and at Campbell River the same evening.

Thursday night they addressed a crowded meeting in the Gospel church at 891 Esquimalt Road at the invitation of the pastor, Rev. J. Wesley Wray.

Is it dangerous for missionaries to enter New Guinea?

"The Australian government assumes responsibility for missionaries and tries to prepare the way for them. But there is always the risk the natives will panic.

"When we first went there we were naturally very nervous for ourselves and our children. But we believe our faith in God and the power of the Gospel has brought us through unharmed."

Mr. Hughes is confident that great numbers of New Guinea natives are turning from witchcraft to Christ.

"We have seen that the power of Christ is triumphant over all other forces and revival is sweeping from one village to another."

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have established many Christian churches in New Guinea and conduct a day school which has an average attendance of 180 students.

They have also established training stations for native pastors and Bible schools where the Scriptures are taught to men and women of all ages.

How do they overcome the language barrier?

"It is a slow process," Mr. Hughes said, "but with all the visual and audio equipment we have today great things can be accomplished."

Before going to New Guinea, Mr. Hughes was the resident pastor of the Foursquare Gospel Church at Durham, Ont.

He and his family will attend the Gospel camp at Crescent Beach, near Vancouver, from Aug. 21 to 31. Church members from many parts of the province will attend.

. . . UNDER-21 DRINIKNG

Proponents of the ID card say B.C. could well afford to adopt the scheme. They cost about 35 cents each to produce. But total sale of beer and liquor in this province—by the province—was $141,139,853 last year.

Profit to the province was $41,683,955.

Would beer parlor operators make the cards a necessity when young drinkers appeared?

Les Ingraham, speaking for the hotelmen's associaton and for his own popular beer parlor, says emphatically yes.

"It's a big problem," he said when asked about underage drinkers. "How they get in I don't know."

Told about the Washington system, he said, "This is the way it should be."

Without exception, all of the sources quoted in this series of articles, favored the photo-carrying cards.

There was not the same unanimity on the proposal to reduce the legal drinking age in beer parlors. This would after all, be breaking new ground in Canada, where all provinces except Quebec make 21 the legal age. In Quebec the age is 20.

Minimum age in the U.S.A. for purchase of alcoholic beverages is 21 in all states except Hawaii where it is 20, Louisiana 18, New York 18, as the law applies to hard liquor.

U.S. RULES

Beer, the strength varying, may be bought in Colorado (3.2 beer at 18), District of Columbia (light wine and beer at 18), Idaho (beer at 20), Kansas (3.2 beer at 18), Mississippi (beer less than 4 per cent at 18), North Carolina (light wine and beer at 18), Ohio (3.2 beer at 18), Oklahoma (3.2 beer for males at 21 but females at 18), South Carolina (beer and wine at 18), South Dakota (3.2 beer at 19), Virginia and West Virginia (3.2 beer at 18) and Wisconsin (beer at 18).

The phrase "3.2 beer" means beer with a 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. Beer in British Columbia has an alcoholic content of about 8 per cent and is equivalent to the level of most U.S. beer.

The varying requirements in the United States have caused some furor according to the Licenced Beverage Industries of the U.S. and investigations by New York state.

Fourteen states including Washington and Oregon now use ID cards issued by the government. But there are still problems because as one official says, "No card has ever been invented that a teenager can't alter."

CHEATERS

There are mail order houses which advertise they can make duplicates of any card with your choice of name and age inscribed beside your picture, sealed in plastic.

Some states report bartenders do not ask for the cards. Some say the fact that the card is available makes it a must for many youths who might not otherwise drink. Some say the necessity of a card discriminates against one age group.

(Surely the law itself does this, with reason.)

About 19 states make the driver's licence do the job, issuing different color cards to minors and adults and often having a photograph on the licence. This is a good system except where the drinker doesn't drive a car.

A DETERRENT

Washington authorities say their system is effective and has been a deterrent. Oregon says the same but notes that somehow, sales to minors have not measureably declined.

However, control over beer and liquor outlets in British Columbia is generally so much tighter than in many states that proponents believe the card system would be effective here.

Misguided adults would still be able to buy for minors at liquor stores, but the system should be foolproof in beer parlors, they believe.

The question of reducing the age for drinking might not be so easily settled. New York's legal age of 18 has been in effect for more than a century. But it is still being disputed.

A study released in 1965 shows results of four years of hearings on proposals that the age be made 21. Main support for this came from adjoining states.

Youngsters in neighboring states where the legal age is 21, swarm into New York every evening. The highway travel involved has been blamed for uncounted accidents.

The lower age limit has also been blamed for crime, deliquency and early alcoholism. Records of the hearings also include learned denials of all these things. Noted educators, researchists, doctors and lawyers are quoted by both sides.

The decision in B.C. can only be reached intelligently after a full study of B.C. circumstances. But to date, no study has been undertaken. The province, like many parents, is apparently turning a blind eye on the problem of teen-age drinking.

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle regrets that the province has not even gone so far as to finance public education about the use of alcohol — except for an annual grant to the Alcoholic Foundation.

He favors a law requiring breweries and distilleries to spend as much money advertising the evils of drink as they do advertising their products.

At this point there seems as much hope for Mr. Tisdalle's plan as for a solid review of existing liquor laws.

Fatal Injuries Described At Inquest

Russell Hurst, 35, of 4546 Rocky Point Rd., Metchosin, died of fractures and chest injuries, a corner's jury heard Friday night.

The bus driver and father of two was fatally injured in a two-car crash at Metchosin and Sooke Roads early Thursday. He was the 14th road death in the Greater Victoria area this year.

The inquest Friday heard only medical and identification witnesses before adjourning to next Friday. It will continue the, starting at 7:30 p.m., in the Law Courts Building.

'Mastermind' In Gold Theft

LONDON (Reuters)—A 40-year-old unemployed Briton, described as the mastermind behind a $2,000,000 gold theft in May, became the sixth person charged in connection with the bullion haul.

Ronald Stafford was charged with conspiracy to steal the gold and ordered held without bail until a court hearing scheduled for Aug. 21.

The bullion was stolen from a Rothchild Bank armored truck by a gang of 15 men. Some of the gold has been recovered.

Police said Stafford denied he had anything to do with the theft.

EXTENSIVE INJURIES

Two Motorcyclists Hurt In Collisions With Cars

Two motorcyclists were taken to hospital Friday after collisions with cars in separate accidents.

David Edmondson of 2141 Denman is in "fairly good" condition after suffering a broken leg and wrist.

He was headed east on Tolmie shortly after noon when he collided with an oncoming car turning onto Rose Street and driven by Eileen Mary Foster of 1660 Earlston.

Reginald King, 22, of HMCS Saskatchewan, suffered back injuries in an accident at Fairfield and Memorial Crescent.

Driver of the car involved was Roy Denis of Calgary. King was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital and later released.

'Why Lose It All Now By Sitting on Our Hands?'

The writer of this article, Henry Makow, is an Ottawa high school student who, some years ago, wrote a widely-syndicated newspaper youth advice column, Ask Henry. He's now embarked on a trans-Canada hitch-hiking tour to find out what Canadian youth thinks about Centennial Year and about Confederation generally.

BY HENRY MAKOW

WINNIPEG—A week spent meeting people and seeing things around Winnipeg has helped us consolidate some important ideas about our country which are held by a growing number of young Canadians.

First, we seek to make our country an embodiment of our ideals, and as young Canadians, we resent the extent of American influence in Canadian affairs.

Secondly, we question some of the mores of our society—materialism and lack of love, for examples.

Thirdly, we recognize that our future lies in international co-operation and believe that Canada is in a unique position to play a decisive role.

Young Canadians who have high ideals for their country are disillusioned to find that our domestic and foreign policies are greatly influenced by the United States.

Michael, 19, an economics major at the University of Manitoba, used Vietnam as an example. "Canada is on record as supporting the American aims in Vietnam," he said.

•

"We couldn't disagree if we wanted to. Defence production has been integrated; we do sixty per cent of our trade with the U.S. and Americans control vital sectors of our economy (i.e. fifty-nine per cent of our manufacturing industries)." Michael knew of many schemes for a recovery of control—they required sacrifices on the part of Canadians.

I asked a half dozen young counsellors at a camp we visited if they would be willing to give up a quarter of their living standard for 25 years to ensure Canadian control. I took the figures out of the air in order to gauge their feelings. Five of them said they would be willing. "Personal loss is what has made Canada," said George, 18, "why lose it all now by sitting on our hands?"

Many young people are prepared to make material sacrifices for less tangible things like principles. Unlike our parents who grew up in the depression, we were raised in plenty and are able to see material possessions in perspective. We see that they don't make up for things like an honest pride in country, love, integrity, beauty, or in general, a harmony with life. "If living means appreciating life," one hippie told us, "then North America has the lowest standard of living in the world."

A teacher-friend posed this question to us: "Which would seem more peculiar? A man running up and down the street yelling 'I hate you!' or a man yelling 'I love you!'" The former was our reply. "Why is this?" my teacher-friend theorized, "why is our society conditioned to fear and hate?"

Peter and I are in contact with this fear on the road every day. For every car that stops to give us a ride, there are at least thirty which pretend not to see us. We never get stranded for more than a few hours, but the bitterness at being shunned is intense. Canadian hitchhikers back from North Africa say that everyone who has room there stops, and if there's no room, they stop anyway to talk.

•

Brotherhood on an international level is more difficult to achieve. Canadians are slowly realizing that our security ultimately depends on the welfare of all mankind. Reduction of American influence would enable Canada to be more effective in her role as an international mediator. This is a role which all Canadians are proud of and one for which we are especially suited.

Our stay in Winnipeg underlined this point. We spent a night at the home of G. N. Vogel, who is a commissioner with the Canadian Wheat Board, deals directly with the Russians and Chinese. "Through our unique trading relationship, we have a special dialogue with the Communist countries," he told us.

Even more important is that Canada herself is international in character. Just spend some time in Winnipeg and this becomes obvious. There are Polish newspapers, churches which look like the Kremlin, Hutterites in traditional dress, Ukrainian meeting halls and across the Red River, there is the French speaking twin city of St. Boniface. There is no melting pot pressure to assimilate—yet, you can't beat the patriotism of a man who chose Canada.

The noisiest Canuck in the stands at a Canada vs Cubs soccer game we saw was a Polish immigrant who sat beside me. Every time Cuba got a penalty, he would blare out in his accent "Go tell that to Castro." Needless to say, Canada won the game 2-1.

Today, we push on to Regina, and then north to Edmonton where we'll try our hand at hitching a planeride up north. If we have no luck, we'll contemplate the pros and cons of 1,500 miles of Alaska highway.

My deadline next week could be anywhere from Resolute Bay, N.W.T., to Vancouver, B.C. That is the romance of the road.

POPE ISSUES DECREE

Rome Curia Posts Ordered for Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul decreed today that bishops chosen from dioceses around the world would be assigned posts in the Rome Curia to give the Vatican wider international representation.

The decree put into effect a recommendation of the 1962-65 Vatican ecumenical council.

It is part of the developing process of reforming the traditional conservative Curia, a process recommended by the council and promised by the Pope.

Pope Paul declared that appointment of the diocesan bishops—ordinarily seven for each Curia congregation—would be up to him.

He said that to avoid excessive interference with their diocesan duties, the bishops would normally come to Rome only for an annual plenary meeting of the congregation to which they are assigned.

FULL RIGHTS

But the bishops will have full membership rights along with the Curia cardinals resident in Rome who are assigned full time to the Curia, the central offices of the Roman Catholic Church.

This marks a major step forward for the bishops in the over-all running of the church's affairs.

Bishops long have complained about the power concentrated in the hands of the so-called Curia bureaucrats.

At the ecumenical council the bishops and the Pope together worked to give the various national episcopal conferences more autonomy from Rome plus a larger voice in the Vatican.

Next month for the first time in history bishops will convene here for a synod to help advise the Pope.

Liquor Offence Brings $50 Fine

A man who admitted buying a case of beer while on the liquor interdict list was fined $50 in central court Friday.

Joseph Pelkey, of Saanichton, told court he was unaware he was still prohibited from possessing liquor after being placed on the list last year.

Police stopped the accused when he was seen arguing with a woman outside the Government Street liquor store on Thursday.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our grateful thanks to all who cared for my father, Mr. William Ventham, during his illness — especially to Mrs. Reynolds and the staff of the Sandringham Private Hospital, also to Dr. Penn and Dr. Critchley.

Critchley. — Elizabeth Witter, Ted Witter and family.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors, the Rev. C. Whitmore and McCall Bros., for their messages of sympathy, floral tributes, cards and letters of condolances, also to express our thanks, and sincere appreciation, to Dr. James A. Fowler and staff, the nurses and personnel of St. Joseph's and Gorge Road hospitals, for the kind and loving care given our mother and grandmother (Mrs. Pansy Norris), during her long sojourn with them. — Mrs. Thelma Dean and Family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DRENNAN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John Drennan, who passed away Aug. 13, 1965.

Though God has you in a peaceful sleep
Your memory we will always keep.

—Ever remembered by his wife Laura, and family.

HEDLEY In loving memory of a very dear mother, Sarah Jane Hedley, who passed away August 13, 1966.

—Lovingly remembered by her son John and wife May and daughter Jennie and their families.

HOGG—In loving memory of Gilbert C. Hogg, who passed away peacefully August 12, 1966.

—Myrtle's sister, Dorothy M. Wilson.

CRUICKSHANK—Ronald George Cruickshank who passed away, Aug. 8, 1967.

SENSE OF SIGHT

This world of death! How formless now,
A void within the mind;
For what is death but sense of sight,
That each of us must find!

Yes, each of us must find that death,
Forgiving us our pain;
Shows suffering a way of life,
Bereavement not in vain!

This world of death! Not distant, no,
When all be said and done;
For what is death but sense of sight,
Uniting us, each one!

—A. L. Greig.

PATTERSON — In loving memory of our beloved son and grandson, David Laurie, who was taken from us so suddenly on August 11, 1966.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all;
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.

—Sadly missed by Mum and Dad.

RICKINSON—In loving memory of my dear husband Thomas R. Rickinson who passed away on Sunday August 11, 1957.

One of the best whom God could lend.

—Always remembered by his loving wife Agnes and family.

ROE — In loving memory of our daughter Phyllis, who passed away Aug. 12, 1950.

Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps her near.

—Ever remembered by her mom, dad and sisters, Judy and Linda.

SAMUELSON — In memory of Charles Swan, who passed away Aug. 12, 1961.

The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said, "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home.

—Ever remembered by his wife, Mary and families.

STEVENS — In loving memory of my beloved wife, Beatrice, who passed away Aug. 12, 1966.

Her loving face I hope to see again,
Though the days have passed away;
Sleep on, dear wife, and take your rest,
They miss you most who loved you best.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all;
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear of you.

—Sadly missed by her loving husband, Will, children, Kathleen and Ted, daughter-in-law, Carroll and grandchildren.

WEBSTER — In loving memory of John (Jock) Webster, who passed away suddenly on August 12th, 1956.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Jean Webster, and family.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

North's jump to four hearts was designed to show just what he held. A minimum opening bid with very good hearts. South was interested in seven but was happy to settle for the small slam when his partner showed only one king.

Opening lead—♠ J

When South saw the dummy he was rather unhappy about his contract. Not that it wasn't a good one but rather that he had the choice between several good lines of play.

He started by winning the spade lead in his own hand. Two rounds of trumps took care of that suit and he played his ace of diamonds. Then he entered dummy with the ace of spades and finessed a diamond. West was in with the queen.

If West had had a diamond to lead back South would have been set but West had to lead a club away from his king or a spade to give South a chance to ruff in dummy and discard his losing club.

North didn't like South's play. He suggested that it would have been better to play ace-king and another diamond in case the queen failed to drop on the second lead.

West felt that South should have left diamonds alone and played ace and another club.

All three lines of play are reasonable and all three would have worked the way the cards lie. At the risk of getting into a lot of trouble we will state that South did adopt the best line and leave you readers to study the problem if you wish.

is a subdivision that does not look like a subdivision and you can still buy a good 3-bedroom home, built to your own design, cheaper than anywhere else in town. We have sold over 50 homes since we started 2 years ago, so why don't you, too, take advantage of our low taxes, paved roads, treed lots and close to all facilities. Let Hucker Const. put you in a brand-new home of your choice. We only have 12 lots left, so come out soon. Entrance via Ridley Drive. Phone H. Blake, 478-1272.

WHICH IS DIFFERENT?
THIS IS IT !!

I have just listed EXCLUSIVELY, a family home in one of the nicest parts of GORDON HEAD. It is close to the University and its spacious 1470 sq. ft. contains 8 rooms. The 20'x14' living room with red brick fireplace overlooks a huge, naturally beautiful treed lot with the ocean as a back-ground. There are 4 bedrooms, 1 extra large; and 2 average, the large one being used at present as a T.V. room and lounge. Both large rooms are eminently suitable for this use as each has a large fireplace and view of the sea. There is a drive-in garage into the basement, from which a few steps take you to the central hall, where the tiled floor extends into the modern 4-piece and 2-piece bathrooms and the large electric kitchen and dining area. The heating is automatic oil. This home is priced to sell at $21,900 and will be shown by appointment only. EXCLUSIVE WITH HIGH ON A HILL!

OVER THE OCEAN!
EXECUTIVE HOME!
ONE-HALF ACRE!

A gorgeous home — only two years old — built in a natural setting of arbutu. and dogwood. A spacious entrance hall has slate floors and louvred doors — beautiful living room with an unusual white fireplace that forms part of the wall in the guest-size dining room — a lovely kitchen with mahogany cabinets and breakfast area. There is a full basement planned for a rumpus room with fireplace, den, guest bedroom, bathroom. This residence qualifies for VLA or can be purchased for $31,000 with terms. It will be my pleasure and yours when you see the breath-taking views from the sundeck which encircles three walls of this fabulous home.

To All Past Customers of HARRY FOSTER LIMITED . . .

We sincerely THANK YOU for having given us the opportunity to help you and act as YOUR REALTOR in the sale or purchase of your home.

We have always tried our very best to act in your best interest and at the same time to uphold the good name of "HARRY FOSTER" as a RELIABLE VICTORIA REALTOR.

We now find ourselves seriously short of listings of houses to sell . .

If you may be thinking of selling your home, or if you know a friend who is, we would appreciate the opportunity to PRODUCE A SATISFACTORY SALE.

Thanks very much.
Sincerely,
Harry C. Foster

ATTENTION!
VENDORS!

Can I be honest? I would like the opportunity to offer my services to you!

I would like to sell your home !!

Eleven years of experience have taught me that service and good judgment are essential. I have many clients — your house may suit them and it may not, but buyers are not the problem — it is homes, properly serviced that bring the end result. Please call

Rings for Meters

DETROIT (AP) — Five thousand times a month, Detroiters pull up to parking meters and, instead of depositing a nickel, insert a pull-ring from a beer can. Deputy city treasurer Robert Temple said Friday the city has collected more than 20,000 of the rings in the last five months.

New Red Pacts

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Two economic and military aid agreements were signed Friday between North Korea and Vietnam in Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea, the North Vietnamese news agency said.

First Inmates

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—The first inmates of the new federal prison here will arrive Aug. 16 from Prince Albert, it was announced Friday. Inmates will be expected to attain at least grade eight standing while in the prison, which offers courses to grade 12.

Manning Returns

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning returned to Edmonton Friday after being briefed in Los Angeles on a new health sciences centre for the University of Alberta. The $88,000,000 centre will be one of the most advanced medical concepts in the world, architects said.

RCMP Nab Girls

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two young California women on a hitchhiking tour across Canada, were remanded for one week Friday when they appeared on charges of possessing marijuana. Kay Bonnie Allen, 24, and Carol Michels, 22, said they were students from San Francisco.

Water Record Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver water district Friday reported Vancouverites this year have used more water to date than at any time in the city's history. Commissioner F. R. Bunnell said users are consuming an average of 115,000,000 gallons a day.

First Sewers In N. Saanich

North Saanich has revealed plans for its first sewage disposal scheme.

Designed primarily for the Dean Park Estates subdivision on East Saanich Road, the scheme would also serve surrounding residents.

The project was approved in principle by North Saanich council—subject to the approval of the B.C. Pollution Control Board.

"Other matters will also have to be resolved, such as financing and legal technicalities, before we can go ahead with the project," said Reeve J. B. Cumming.

Cost of the project has been estimated between $60,000 and $70,000.

The scheme would service an area bounded by the Dominion Experimental Farm and Patricia Bay and Sidney to the north.

It would be capable of serving a population of about 3,000.

Plans call for the installation of outfall to be taken out to sea 2,000 feet or more.

The proposal is the result of talks between officials of the Dean Park Estate Ltd. and council.

The developing firm plans to establish about 300 homes in its large subdivision over a period of 15 years.

Jumpers Set Pace In PNE Horse Show

A new class — the $500 Rogers and Boyd Centennial Open Jumper Stakes — will be featured during PNE 67's "Century Pacific" Agricultural Show Aug. 19 to Sept. 4.

Another new addition to the light horse show this year will be the Stock Horse Class—a western class where the horse and rider will move and control cattle in the ring, simulating actual ranch work with cattle.

Other feature events in the show will be the Nick Henderson Memorial Open Jumper Stakes, trick riding and roping feats, a shorthorn cattle show, and dairy, sheep and goat shows.

Carcass classes will be of special interest this year with beef, swine and lambs being judged alive, slaughtered and the final placing made on the carcass evaluation.

Cook-off competitions for turkeys and broilers, an egg-grading and candling display, and poultry products in refrigerated showcases can all be seen at the Poultry Show.

Another special attraction—particularly for the youngsters—will be a display of baby chicks shown hatching in incubators.

Bridge Tournament Set for Nanaimo

Defending champions from Victoria and Vancouver will be in Nanaimo Aug. 18, 19 and 20 to compete in the summer sectional tournament of the Parksville unit of the American Contract Bridge League.

Main events include men's pairs, women's pairs, mixed pairs, open pairs and teams of four.

Special Sunday events are Centennial pairs and Route of the Haidas pairs.

Trophies are offered for all main events.

Phil Wood of Vancouver is in charge of the tournament.

Two New Branches For Silver Threads

Two new branches of Victoria Silver Threads Service will open at Esquimalt and Saanich in September.

The Esquimalt centre, located in the Jubilee Community Hall, Fraser Street, will be opened by Municipal Affairs Minsiter Dan Campbell, Sept. 5 at 2 p.m.

The Saanich centre, to be opened by Mr. Campbell Sept. 11 at 2 p.m., will be in the Christian Living Church hall at Lurline and Harriet Roads.

Both will be open daily Monday to Friday from 1 to 5 p.m.

These much-needed outlets for our work have been made possible by a federal-provincial grant under the Canada Assistance Plan," Mrs. Catherine Horne, Silver Threads executive director, said today.

"We are very happy that both the B.C. and federal governments have recognized our need."

The main centre at 4 Centennial Square has been taxed to capacity during the past year.

"Decentralization is the only answer," Mrs. Horne said, "and the new centres will be more convenient for senior citizens living in outlying areas."

They will offer recreational facilities, counselling services and arts and handicrafts classes similar to those in the main centre.

Twenty-seven arts and handicrafts classes will be resumed in the main centre Sept. 19 or 20. There will be a classs in conversational French and a class in Spanish is planned for a later date.

"There is a real demand for adult education among older citizens," Mrs. Horne said. "We shall try to start new classes according to the demand."

Shop Welder Falls 20 Feet

A welder who fell 20 feet when the staging he was working on collapsed is in fairly good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Alec Karpuchin, 43, of 1505 Denman St., suffered back injuries Thursday when a crane backed into and toppled the structure supporting him.

He was working on a train ferry under construction at the Outer Wharf plant.

Chinese Talk Loudly Carrying Small Stick

The Washington Post

HONG KONG — While loudly urging communists here to undermine Hong Kong's British administration, Peking has apparently ordered Chinese troops in adjacent Kwantung province to defend this tiny colony against incursions by militant Red Guards and other activists.

Thus China's strategy towards Hong Kong, after nearly three months of communist-inspired disorders, currently seems to be a contrast of strident rhetoric and extremely cautious conduct.

Verbal encouragement for local leftist agitators, which pours out steadily through Hong Kong's communist press as well as Peking's media, is typified by a People's Daily editorial monitored here Wednesday entitled: "Tighten the noose around the neck of British imperialism."

Counterpointing this propaganda, however, Chinese soldiers stationed along the 21-mile Hong Kong border have acted decisively on two occasions within the past week to curb communist crowds inside China from exacerbating frontier tensions.

Flamboyant Calypso Band Can't Get Jobs

MONTREAL (CP)—Midtown Place Ville Marie echoed Thursday night to the crackling calypso rhythms of a flamboyant steel band from the West Indies.

But behind the performers' glee was a touch of gloom. "I can't understand it," said Mel Henville, the band's manager. "We play and the Canadians seem to love it, yet we don't get the engagements we hoped for."

He said the band lacks what many such West Indian ensembles have—an indulgent commercial sponsor.

Its 16 youthful members, playing as the Rebels Steel Orchestra, work at a variety of jobs in their island home of Nevis.

They fashioned ordinary oil drums into the standard steel band. A variety of rhythm-making devices were used, including one apparently makeshift instrument called a scratcher.

The Rebels, most of them teen-agers, decided some months ago that they would like to perform at Expo 67.

They wrote Expo and the result was an invitation to come here. Mr. Henville said the Rebels went into debt to the tune of $3,000 to finance their trip north.

But apart from Expo and Place Ville Marie, the Canadian pickings have been slim, said Mr. Henville.

They plan to fly back soon to Nevis, via the neighboring island of Antigua, if things don't improve.

CP Bowlers Capture Cup

Joanna McNair, Sam Barr and John McNair of the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Club won the Ashford Trophy for inter-club triples with women skips.

They overcame a one-point deficit in the final end to edge defending champions Kay Dickie, Bill Cruickshank and Jack McMillan of Burnside 18-17 at Burnside greens.

The winners had defeated clubmates Mrs. I. McGillivrary, Dave Fyvie and Fred Brown in the semifinal. In the other semifinal bracket, the Burnside finalists had eliminated Jennie Bennett, Jack Hobbs and Bert Bennett of Victoria club.

You Know Who Will Be Boss

MONTREAL (CP) — Three members of Montreal Canadiens and Frank Udvari, the National Hockey League's supervisor of officials, will leave Canada Sept. 1 to conduct a week-long hockey and referees' school at Canadian Forces Bases in West Germany.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Tuesday left-winger Dick Duff, defenceman Jacques Laperriere and right-winger Yvan Cournoyer will accompany Udvari on the trip.

NEW GOLF TOURNEY

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A new tournament, the $125,000 Kaiser International, has been added to the 1968 professional golf schedule. It will be played Jan. 18-21 and offers $25,000 to the winner.

B.C. LIONS WANT TO RETURN

Royal Roads received a hearty slap on the back from the B.C. Lions this week along with a request for "once more around."

"The best facilities we ever had," wrote Lions' general manager Dennis Veitch to commandant Group Captain D. B. Wurtele.

From management to players said Veitch there was unanimous agreement on the superb facilities "both from an esthetic and working point of view."

The Lions moved to Royal Roads last month after several years at Courtenay.

Aware that applications must be made on a year-to-year basis Veitch wrote: "Please consider (this letter) as the B.C. Lions' request to use your fine facility as a training camp site in 1968."

Bad Attitude Causes Most Bad Driving

Trouble with most bad young drivers is their attitude.

And usually they only change that when it is too late.

So said Ray Hadfield, superintendent of motor vehicles in B.C., when he spoke to the All Canada Conference of Young Drivers in Ottawa this week.

Said Mr. Hadfield: "The problem is how young people can be reached" with this message.

Getting across "the message" was the main topic being examined by 130 young delegates to the conference, sponsored by the insurance industry.

Another speaker, Dr. Eric Campbell, of the Traffic Industry Research Foundation in Ottawa, developed a theme similar to Mr. Hadfield's.

He said much evidence suggests that unsuccessful drivers are often unsuccessful in other areas of their lives. "They are frequently in trouble at home, at work, in school, with the law and even with their peers."

Mr. Hadfield said too often the wayward driver only realizes he must assume responsibility when he desperately needs his licence and is about to lose it, frequently after a serious traffic accident.

"The problem is how the young people can be reached in time to prevent that serious accident."

SMART GALLERY

Gravity-defying stunts are always fun. Spring this one on friends:

Using old silverware, fit the bowl of a spoon between the first and fourth tines of a fork. Now slip a toothpick between the tines and balance the toothpick on the edge of a tumbler as shown in the illustration above.

Now, flaunting a match or cagarette lighter, inform onlookers that you are about to light both ends of the toothpick. Ask them to guess which way the fork and the spoon will fall — toward or away from the glass. After they have guessed, proceed to light the toothpick as stated as nearly simultaneously as possible. What do you think will happen? Try it and see.

SEE THROUGH HIS SMOKES?

A cigaret smoker decided to cut down on his daily quota. By reducing his habit to 33 cigarettes a day, his weekly reduction in smokes was equal to one and one-half times his original daily rate. How quickly can you determine his original daily rate that is to say, how many cigarettes did he smoke per day when he decided to cut down?

Answer: Forty-two cigarettes a day. He then cut down by nine per day, a saving of 63 in a week, which is 1½ times 42.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Britain's first issue to feature miniatures of some of the country's famous works of art on stamps came out last month. A 4d value shows "Master Lambton" by Sir Thomas Lawrence; the 9d "Mares and Foals in Landscape" by George Stubbs; while the 1s 6d is from a painting by the contemporary artist L. S. Lowry, "Children coming out of School." They are printed in full color by photogravure, and make a most attractive addition to a collection of British stamps.

They make one regret that Canada didn't use the same process in producing its current issue featuring pictures by the "Group of Seven." Being turned out by line-engraved method made it necessary to print them all in monochrome, which makes for a dull set.

★ ★ ★

The above mentioned British issue is, as usual these days, to be found on plain paper as well as on paper showing two phosphor lines on the face (for use in automatic sorting machines).

A friend has showed me a freak pair of the latter type showing only a single phosphor line on each; and English collectors are already paying $5 apiece for them, according to his correspondent.

The 1968 edition of Vol. 1 of Scott's catalogue marks the 100th year this indispensable reference work has been published. It started as a monthly one-page price list put out by John W. Scott in 1867 from his shop at 34 Liberty Street, N.Y.

His first list offered about 350 sets, single stamps, and packets, including a Nova Scotia 1d red at 50c, which today catalogues $70.

The complete Centennial edition (when Vol. 2 appears shortly) will run to more than 2,200 four-column pages, and will list more than 160,000 major numbers alone.

The new Vol. 1 includes nearly 48,000 price changes or newly inserted prices. Nearly all the alterations are, as usual, increases, the U.S. section accounting for some 5,000 of these.

For example the 24c airmail invert is now $20,000, up from $18,500.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Use each word below to its best advantage in the sentences given. All five words are to be used; one in each sentence.

Penny Pinching Title Given To Saanich

By JIM HUME

A little more than a year ago the phrase was used in this column that Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant was a penny-pincher.

Hume

He just lost the title.

The award this year goes to Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis and his council for (bravely?) rejecting a $3,000 grant to the Greater Victoria Visitor's Bureau.

The City of Victoria annually tosses $50,000 into the pot.

Now there may be some people in Saanich who really believe that, because their municipality has a greater population than Victoria, the tail is starting to wag the dog.

But they must be few.

The realists know that Saanich for all its population boasts, is still the dormitory of Victoria proper.

The reasons Saanich gave for refusing to contribute to one of the major industries in this area were vague. That in itself is not surprising. Many of the decisions from Vernon Avenue are vague.

Let me sum it up this way: when Saanich has the tax-base to be able to thumb its nose at its neighbors, then let the thumb be where it should.

Speaking for the general populace of Greater Victoria, you need us more than we need you. Get your $3,000 in the till and stop whimpering.

* * *

Monday morning may reveal a different story, but to date the great water shortage mystery must go down as one of the more confused epics of the year.

Ald. Ian Stewart, a rookie Victoria council member, struck deep at the heart of the matter Thursday when he asked how water resources could be so suddenly depleted overnight.

One week the area boasts that we may be short of food or money, but water, never!

The next we are informed that, whoops, there is a serious possiblilty that the taps may run dry.

Water commissioner Ron Upward is an efficient and conscientious public servant. He runs a good show. It would appear that on this particular problem, Ron blew the decision.

I will be easy to make that a major issue.

But let it be remembered that over the years his decisions have been consistently right.

If knuckles are to be rapped, let them be rapped lightly and with full recognition that Mr. Upward wins far many more than he loses.

* * *

Now for the weekend gossip.

One: the fountain in Centennial Square wastes very little water. It is a self-circulating fountain, which means that the water going up not only comes down again but is recirculated.

The only loss is from evaporation and spray.

How much does evaporation and spray cost a month? Would you believe $400? They may cut it off next week for duration of the current crisis for sake of appearance.

Two: Ald. Lily Wilson will not retire from civic politics in December. That she deserves to rest from the daily grind there is no doubt. But, says that worthy lady, "as it stands now my name will be on the ballot paper in December."

Japanese Course For Uvic

The University of Victoria will offer its first course in Japanese this September it was announced by President Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor today.

Teaching the course will be Henry John Warkentyne, 41, a graduate of the University of Western Ontario. Mr. Warkentyne has spent most of the past 16 years in Japan where he taught at all school levels. He lectured for seven years on English language and literature at Kwansei Gakuin University, Nishinomiya.

During the last few years he has been working on his doctoral dissertation at University College, London.

Also just appointed to the department of modern languages at Uvic is Joseph Francis Kess, 25, from Honolulu.

Mr. Kess has just completed graduate studies at the University of Hawaii and is a specialist in Tagalog, the official language of the Philippines.

He will be concerned mainly with the studies of English structure and North American Indian languages.

50,000 AT OPENING OF ABBOTSFORD SHOW

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — An estimated 50,000 persons attended the opening day Friday of Canada's largest air show—a centennial spectacular.

For 6½ hours, the crowds were entertained by the flypasts of virtually every type of plane known — home built to the Golden Centennaires aerobatics group.

R. H. Laidman, head of Pacific Western Air Lines and air show president, said he believes the show will attract 300,000 people during its three days.

Seamen Face Union Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nineteen British seamen from the freighter Riley said farewell to their ship, Canada, and China Friday as they boarded a plane for Britain.

Three other crew members, including Edward Halliday, who spent 18 days in solitary confinement in a Communist prison when the Riley was last in China, left for Britain Thursday.

Facing the men at home will be a shipping federation and union inquiry into the problems they met in China and their subsequent refusal to return.

Only six of the original crew have stayed with the ship, including Captain Godfrey Franks.

The Riley took on almost 30 non-union Canadian seamen here, and today was anchored in Vancouver harbor, loaded with wheat for China. Capt. Franks was awaiting word from England on which Chinese port he was to head for.

The original crew said they feared reprisals if the ship returned to Dairen.

Tugs Attempt Tonight To Pull Ferry Off Reef

Long Layup Likely

By TERRY IZZARD

An attempt was to be made this evening to free the crippled ferry Queen of Prince Rupert from a reef near Alert Bay.

Two deepsea tugs were standing by at press time awaiting the 7 p.m. high tide.

Meanwhile everything possible was being done to lighten the ferry's weight.

Sitting atop Haddington reef, 3½ miles northwest of Alert Bay, the B.C. government superferry was discharging her load of 87 vehicles this morning.

They were being driven aboard scows down a hastily built ramp.

While the efforts to free her were going on, B.C. Ferries officials in Victoria were trying to assess damage.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

They weren't as optimistic as Premier Bennett who said Friday the ferry would be in drydock for "at least two weeks."

Operations manager Bill Weston said the ferry won't be back in service for "a few weeks."

A Victoria shipyard official estimated the ferry will be undergoing repairs for at least three months.

GOING TO BURRARD

If tonight's attempt is successful, the ferry will be towed by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s Sudbury II to Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver.

Until she is out of the water, no one can be sure about the extent of damage.

She has a gash along her bow and the engine room is still flooded despite the use of auxiliary pumps.

Hindering the pumping operation is the fact the Rupert is without power. Sudbury II and Island Sovereign provided the pumps.

In addition to the engine room, a number of tanks in the ferry's double-hull are flooded.

With the vehicles removed and some of the sea water pumped out, no great difficulties are foreseen in successfully completing this evening's tow.

NEXT TIDE THURSDAY

High tide is 14-feet 8-inches, which should float the vessel free. Next tide as high is Thursday when it reaches 15 feet.

In Port McNeill, where the 299 passengers were taken by a small armada of boats, people were boarding buses this morning for the 10½-hour ride to Nanaimo.

They will have dinner in Campbell River and be put up in Nanaimo hotels tonight. B.C. Ferries will meet the expense.

By Sunday, all the vehicles should have arrived at Nanaimo's Departure Bay ferry terminal.

Two cars were derailed and some were crushed in impact. (AP Wirephoto)

FACE UPHILL FIGHT

Canadians Drop Foursomes Again

An inability to win the Scotch foursomes held true again for Canada, today, and once more the host team had to hope for a big comeback in the afternoon singles in an effort to win the Commonwealth golf team championship today.

The singles were to wind up the five-day, five-nation tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

Canada, starting out the day in excellent position to win the trophy, lost its foursomes matches for the fourth straight time. Great Britain won two of the three matches.

New Zealand—also in the running for the over-all title along with Canada and Britain—chalked up a 2-1 edge this morning against Australia.

To claim both points today, Canada had to win four of the six afternoon singles.

Nick Weslock and Keith Alexander came in with Canada's only win this morning, 3 and 2 over the British pairing of Michael Bonallack and Dudley Millensted.

Foursomes results:

CANADA 1, GREAT BRITAIN 2

Silverberg and Vollmer lost to Shade and Foster, 2 and 1; Cowan and Johnston lost to Saddler and Cosh, 4 and 3; Weslock and Alexander defeated Bonallack and Millenstead, 3 and 2.

AUSTRALIA 1, NEW ZEALAND 2

Donohoe and Hartley lost to Murray and Durry, 3 and 1; Bulgin and Bell lost to Stevens and Jones, 1 up; Billings and Britten defeated Vezich and Clarke, 3 and 2.

Congo Seeks Help in Fight

KINSHASA (UPI) — The Congolese government today awaited an answer to its appeal for international help in fighting mercenary-led rebels now in control of Bukavu, the Kuvu province capital.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko made the plea Friday to the U.N. Security Council and to friendly countries.

In a letter to council president Roger Seydoux of France, Bomboko asked for "logistic support and other help in maintaining regional order."

WIRE BRIEFS

U.S. Planes Downed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian-built ground to air missiles and anti-aircraft guns shot down and damaged several American warplanes which flew over Hanoi in waves today, Communist information agencies reported from the North Vietnamese capital.

Laos Raids Confirmed

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force planes have been bombing Communist targets in Laos for the past three years, it was officially disclosed today for the first time. An air force spokesman in Saigon said American fighter-bombers were carrying out the attacks at the "request of the Royal Laotian government."

K Demands Release

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin personally demanded today that China release a Soviet ship whose captain was jailed in the Chinese port of Dairen. (See story Page 3.)

Children Move Up in Front Of Contenders' Viewfinders

The kiddies seem to have taken the place of kittens in the viewfinders of Times Amateur Snapshot contest entrants.

Children at the beach, at home, posed and natural, happy and not so happy, all made good subjects for the camera fans as the contest went into its fourth week.

Winners will be named in the early part of next week.

This week's entries closed at noon today and judges are now sifting through scores of prints to find a $10 winner in each of the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animal of the World and the World in Which We Live.

There are two more weekly contests, then the six winners in each category will compete for the $25 best of contest prizes and these winners will go into the national competition.

First prize is a trip around the world for two with $1,000 in spending money. For other winners there are trips to Mexico, Europe, the West Indies and Hawaii.

For Canadians who are not lucky with the travel prizes there are seven $100 prizes and a special $200 prize for the best Canadian picture submitted.

The contest is open to amateurs only.

No color pictures will be accepted but black and white prints from color negatives are permitted.

All pictures must have been taken since July 1, 1966, and must be no more than 10 inches on the larger dimension.

Pictures for different categories may be mailed in the same envelope and each print should bear the name and address of the sender and the category. Contest deadline is noon on Saturday each week.

FALLING ROCK TRAPS BOY IN WELL

LENORE, W.Va. (AP)—A 15-year-old boy remained trapped 14 feet underground in an old well near this southern West Virginia mountain town at noon today. Anxious rescue workers were trying to reach the boy by digging a deep trench.

Young Leonard Boyce was given a sedative this morning, about 14 hours after he was trapped in the well by falling rock. Only his head and one arm were uncovered.

Before the sedative took effect he reported: "I have lots of pain. I'm praying. Do you think they're going to get me out of here?"

Hospital Strikes Averted

A Victoria union official said today a proposed agreement between major B.C. hospitals and operating engineers is certain to be accepted.

Ed Callan, local business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, gave the Times the assurance in a telephone interview from Vancouver where he's attending a union meeting.

Acceptance of the proposal will avert a threatened strike against Victoria's two major hospitals.

"We have obtained everything we set out for in Victoria," said Mr. Callan.

GAINED PARITY

"We have gained parity for third-class and senior engineers, and a few fringe benefits.

"No membership vote is necessary in our local (Victoria). We are authorized to accept these terms."

Mainland locals will vote on the proposed two-year contract this weekend.

The terms would boost third class engineers from $540 to $620 a month, rising to $645 next Jan. 1 and $660 the following July 1.

Ratification will end the strike against Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster, now in its fourth day.

GREAT RELIEF

The tentative settlement came after appointment of a mediator, labor department conciliation officer Jack Sherlock, and a strong hint by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson hospital strikes could be made illegal.

Dr. Murray Anderson, medical superintendent of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said "everyone is greatly relieved. We would hope this proposal truly means the end of the strike threat."

A spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital said "we are all very grateful."

The hospitals' negotiating was conducted by the B.C. Hospitals Association.

Mr. Callan said he has "full confidence the final agreement will be signed Monday."

HIGH AND ALMOST DRY, the B.C. Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert sits on a rocky reef 3½ miles from Alert Bay where she ran aground Friday. Crews are working today to prepare the $6.5 million vessel for refloating early this evening. (CP Wirephoto)

Shipwreck Passengers Having 'Heck of a Time'

ALERT BAY (CP)—Friday's grounding of the British Columbia Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert could be considered one of history's happiest shipwrecks.

The 299 passengers aboard were scarcely jostled by the impact, no one was killed or injured, passengers and crew were taken ashore in a swift and efficient rescue effort, and finally, the town of Alert Bay went all out to help.

Citizens of this isolated community of 825 on Cormorant Island off the north tip of Vancouver Island, closed ranks and devoted all efforts to making the stranded passengers comfortable.

And the unanimous feeling among the passengers was that Alert Bay is a very nice place to get shipwrecked. Most said they were having a heck of a good time.

FESTIVE ATMOSPHERE

After feeding the victims, clothing the ones who fled the ship in night attire, and finding 299 spare beds in the town, the burghers of Alert Bay — mostly fishermen and loggers, Indians and bush pilots — set out to entertain their unexpected visitors.

A festival atmosphere set in throughout the day. Visitors and natives mingled and got to know each other.

At. St. Michael's Indian School, where most of the visitors were billeted, students prepared a sign that read: "Hi! Welcome to St. Michael's. Hope you enjoy your visit."

LIKE A PARTY

The visitors, mostly American tourists, strolled about the village, looking at totem poles and other native art work.

James Sewid, chief of the Nimpkish Indian Band arranged for the visitors to tour recently-built reserve longhouses, and had 50 members of the band perform authentic dances for an hour to the throb of Indian music.

By evening Friday, the town's two beer parlors were filled to capacity with tourists and residents, maxing in a party-like manner.

"We have a very fine group of people," said Mrs. Albert Martin, manager of the Harbor Inn. "They come from everywhere; from Washington to Belgium.

"The town went way out to make them feel at home — and the people are proud to say they did."

Caouette Pushes For New Province

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of le Ralliement des Creditistes, is throwing his support behind a movement for the creation of an eleventh Canadian province in northwestern Quebec.

The proposal for creation of a new province in this ara of Quebec and another suggestion for one which would incorporate the adjoining area of Ontario, have been put forward in recent times by residents of both areas.

Mr. Caouette said in an interview Friday that the Abitibi region, which would be in the heart of the proposed new province, has been treated worse by Quebec City than Quebec has been treated by Ottawa.

The Creditiste leader said: "According to statistics based on the provincial budget we pay annual taxes in this region amounting to $593 per head of the population while the average for the whole provice is $291 . . . and we get 10 times less than the others."

Thet ferry wreck seems so popular with th' passengers, mebbe they c'd make it a regular feature o' th' run.

Nice t' know thet with the strike over y' kin git inta hospital next year.

YOUNG LOVE THREATENED

'Litter Not Letter'

LONDON (AP) — Young love, parted by the English Channel, almost sank today on a typographical error.

The story came out when Dominique Bientait, 18, from Montelimar, France, complained to Glen Nichols, an urban council clerk in Aldridge, that he never got any mail from his girl-friend.

Dominique, living as a guest of Nichols, was on an exchange visit arranged by the sponsors of the Aldridge-Montelimar "Twin Town" Friendship Society.

He said he had written at least seven letters to his girl Martine Rivasi, and some to her parents.

In Montelimar, Martine also wondered what was wrong.

Nichols was unable to find a handy explanation at first. Then he asked Dominique to explain how he went about it.

The French youth showed the box where he had deposited his letter.

The box bore the painted sign: "litter."

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1967--PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

We have so many problems kicking around unsolved these days that I hate to bring up another. But when may we expect our provincial government to do something about two highways that are no longer capable of handling the traffic load imposed on them?

The first of these is the Island Highway itself, a heavily-travelled artery which by modern standards must be considered obsolete.

The second is the Patricia Bay "Highway," a country road apparently laid down in the naive belief that change would never come to the Saanich Peninsula.

Well, change has come, and unless the population prognaosticators are very badly off the mark, we have but seen the beginning of it.

Through much of their length, both links are two-laners. They are cut into and across at frequent intervals. Posted speeds on each range to a 60-mile top, which is exceeded as a matter of course. This is especially true of the Island Highway: drive it at 60 and you are passed with monotonous regularity. (This in the stretches where traffic is not slowed to a jog by summer caravans of trailers.)

We need multi-lane divided highways to replace this overgrown pair, and it is not to the credit of Mr. Bennett's government that we lack them.

★

While it's no secret that adult education has gone over big it is still startling to learn that evening class takers now out-number high school day students in Greater Victoria.

Authority for this statement is adult classes co-ordinator Reg Mylrea, who tells me that the evening total for 1966-67 was 7,817 . . . a record which will almost certainly be shattered this fall.

Well over 300 general, vocational-technical and academic courses will be offered, and the evening division people stand ready to add more at the drop of an idea.

With this in mind, I'm asked to let you know that new course suggestions and bids from instructors competent to teach them will get a ready hearing. (Phone 385-1411, local 258.)

Sifting through the prospectus, which the Times will offer as a supplement later this month, I'm amazed as always by the variety of skills practiced and taught in this area.

Here's "Foil Fencing," to be given for the first time, and a page or two over, "Gardening and Landscaping," a course 19 years old and still popular as ever.

In between, you'll find everything from doll doctoring to do-it-yourself home repairs and Lannie King Yee's courses in Chinese cooking.

My wife has her eye on those last, and as an eager hand with the chopsticks, I couldn't be more delighted!

★

A couple of days back, I noted the problem of finding a present for the friends we'll be staying with in Montreal. The suggestions have been tumbling in.

"If they have children," urges one kind reader, "be sure you take them some shells. Not fancy ones, but the kind we pick up on our own Vancouver Island beaches. Take my word for it, children who live inland love them."

Next caller suggested an authentic West Coast Indian basket, and hoped we would steer clear of made-in-Japan souvenirs.

Then, a matter of minutes later, another chum wondered if we had considered tucking in a bottle or two of local wine. "Better than they make in California," said he, "or Niagara either!"

Since then, we have added to our list dogwood china, Victoria-made pottery, and a painting of an arbutus tree . . . all notions of merit.

That's the problem: any or all would make nice presents; and our thanks to those who thought of them.

Home now, wondering when the big tap in the sky will open, and remembering an axiom given me by a good gardener in an earlier drouth:

"If you can't water your flowers, do the next best thing. Get in and cultivate 'em."

Come on to the Square To Hear the Oom-Pa-Pa

By PETER LOUDON

Victoria was getting like any other city on a shopping night.

Tired people dashing downtown, parking in store lots, dashing into the fray and dashing home.

And the only people who ever took a look at the town in its summer beauty were the tourists who could take time to stand and gawk.

But the summer entertainment program in Centennial Square has changed all that. You can almost close your eyes and dream yourself back into the restfull summer nights of years gone by . . .

You hear the drums first. Then you notice everyone's walking in the same direction—toward Centennial Square and the music.

The air cooled by the fountain and the beat of the band tempts you to stretch out on the steps. People who have stopped by before often have a folded lawn chair along.

You become aware of the crowd, elederly people often, but bare-footed kids too, pretending to be hippies, but most of them just taking an evening vacation from reality.

BEST PLACE

There are shop clerks and shoppers, folks who were just driving by, downtown wanderers who have nothing else to do. And they've just found th best place to do it.

The program could be anything. Since May 6 there have been a couple of dozen bands, choirs, dancers, sunset ceremonies. Sundays it's the Salvation Army's hymn sing-out.

Some of the events are unscheduled, like the 97-voice Toronto boys' songster group which arrived Friday afternoon. Bit if it matters to you, there's a sign in the window of the Victoria Centennial Society, 14 Centennial Square, saying what's next. It doesn't seem to matter to most people.

INSTANT AUDIENCE

They hear the music and they appear It's an instant audience, a whim thing, and it's a great success. It costs money, but it has all come out of centennial funds (taxes?) and there isn't even a silver collection.

Folks are hoping it will all continue after Centennial year ends. They say they are sitting down and enjoying the built-in pleasures of downtown Victoria without commercial influence for the first time in years.

It's almost like the good old days when people made their own fun.

TWO BOYS INJURED IN FALL OUT OF CAR

Two boys about 12 years old were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital shortly before noon when they tumbled backwards out of an accelerating convertible.

Colwood RCMP officers, who are still investigating the mishap, said the youngsters were sitting atop the back of their father's car as traffic was dispersing following the Luxton Fall Fair parade.

When an officer waved traffic on, the father accelerated and the boys lost their balance, falling backward out of the moving car.

'Not Guilty' In Drug Case

A teenager charged last week with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking pleaded not guilty in his second court appearance Friday.

Ricky Gregory Kardera, 18, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, elected trial by magistrate.

A trial date of Sept. 18 was agreed upon. Bail of $3,000 continues.

CO-OP HOUSING STUDIED

Co-operative housing for male University of Victoria students may be available in September.

An Alma Mater Society committee chaired by fourth year arts student Garry Curtis has researched methods of financing, organizing and initiating a system of co-op housing.

The idea, Mr. Curtis said, involves a number of students living communally. They would make decisions concerning the administration of all the household affairs.

A letter from the committee outlining the plan has been sent to all male out-of-town students registered at the university last term.

A similar system for female students could also be established if sufficient interest was shown.

AID OFFERED

The AMS would not officially set up the house but would provide the necessary help to any interested group in overcoming legal, purchasing, furnishing and structural problems involved in such a project.

"The committee originally started with the idea the AMS would buy a house and inaugurate the plan. Further research proved this concept could be fatal," said Mr. Curtis.

"We then decided to let co-opers organize their own system with help from us.

Co-op housing is used at the University of Western Ontario, University of Toronto and Saint Francis Xavier.

Water Ban Expected To Last Six Weeks

Need Inch of Rain To Fill Reservoirs

Lifting of water restrictions before the end of September is unlikely.

Water Commissioner Ron Upward today said an earlier date is a remote hope.

Lawn and garden watering limitation to one day a week will remain in effect "until we get at least an inch of rain," he said.

Any less, he said, would only settle the dust.

Unless there is an unusual downpour, the normal September precipitation is about one inch.

The drain on Greater Victoria's dwindling water reserves increased by 15 per cent Friday.

This was blamed on gardeners rushing to soak lawns before the restrictions became effective at midnight Friday—not midnight tonight as reported in Friday's Times.

CLOUDBURST?

It will require five or six inches of rain to swell the creeks, fill the reservoirs and make the area once again a land of unrestricted water supply.

Until then, consumption must be kept down to between 18,000,000 and 19,000,000 gallons a day, the amount usually recorded after a "decent" rainfall.

Consumption would probably reach the 30,000,000 gallon mark on free watering days and this would mean an average daily consumption of about 22,500,000 gallons.

This average must be maintained, suntanned lawns notwithstanding, for the next 80 days to cover the anticipated dry spell.

Even then rain might not wash away the need for restrictions altogether.

October is the critical month, Mr. Upward said.

Even if there is a reasonable amount of rain and restrictions are lifted, there's always a danger that gardeners will take advantage of the freedom t really soak gardens and thi might again deplete the suppl to restriction level.

Meantime special permits are available to permit sprinkling of lawns seeded within the past three weeks.

But for other gardeners, sprinkling may only be done in Victoria, Esquimalt, and Oak Bay south of Lansdowne on Thursdays.

Oak Bay north of Landsowne, Saanich, View Royal, Langford, Colwood, Metchosin, Saseenos and Sooke Harbour are restricted to Monday sprinkling.

The restrictions do not mean there is cause for panic, Mayor Hugh Stephen told the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday.

He said the ban was merely a measure to help conserve what water there is.

A special meeting of the water board has been called for Monday for discussion of the water shortage and its cause.

ROBBERY CHARGE WAIVED

An American sailor appeared in central court this morning charged with robbery.

But Charles Purcell, 20, of the USS Chicago, was turned over to U.S. navy authorities after the attorney-general's department agreed to a stay of proceedings requested by the city prosecutors.

Purcell will be prosecuted by the U.S. Navy, court was told. His ship, a missile-carrying cruiser, was scheduled to sail this afternoon.

Purcell was arrested by city police early this morning after a 40-year-old Rosedale man suffered a gash on his face in an incident outside a downtown cafe.

Two dollars was taken from the injured man, officers said.

TOW-AWAY FOR STUDENTS

University of Victoria students may have their cars towed away in September if they park illegally on the campus.

This will normally result from repeated parking offenses.

But the tow-away law may also apply on a first offence at the discretion of the superintendent of buildings and grounds.

A new regulation also permits a $1 reduction in the $2 parking fine if paid within 48 hours.

Man Supplied Beer to Minors

Ronald Thorpe, 21, of Franklin River was fined $50 today when he pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to minors.

Police found him with a supply of beer in an abandoned shack on Cordova Bay Road June 25, court was told. The three boys and a girl with him were all under 21.

Fire Crews Seek Firebug In Saanich

Saanich fire department suspects a firebug lit three brush fires which broke out within a space of nine minutes Friday afternoon.

First call came in at 1:02 p.m. and crews from Shelbourne station were rushed to Blenkinsop and Lohbrunner where a grass fire was burning.

While attacking this blaze firemen noticed another fire 100 yards away.

At 1:11 p.m. another call came in and, with two Shelbourne trucks at Blenkinsop, headquarters trucks were sent to the foot of Mount Douglas at Cedar Hill Road where a grass fire eventually burned three acres.

Oak Bay gave assistance under the "mutual aid" plan.

SUSPICIOUS

It would have been easy for someone to have started the Blenkinsop for then gone to the Cedar Hill Road site and started another in that space of time, a Saanich fire department spokesman said today.

Deputy Chief Glen Robbins said Friday he thought the three fires were the work of a firebug. The Cedar Hill fire started on the roadside and the wind swept it up into the brush.

Water was relayed 1,500 feet from a hydrant to a pumper truck and youngsters in the vicinity were called upon to haul hose while firemen went up the hillside to stop the fire from spreading.

A farm tractor took a 1,000-gallon tank up into the fire spread and sprayed the flames.

At Blenkinsop, firemen were able to get ahead of the fire which could easily have spread over the mountainside.

Alarm on the Cedar Hill fire was turned in by Joyce Mainer, 18, who rushed with her younger sister Diane to the home of Gus Ransom, 4394 Shelbourne who phoned the department.

TWO ARE UNDERAGE, but which two? That's the problem facing beer parlor waiters, not necessarily with these young people, but with thousands of others. Guess wrong, serve a minor and the waiter may be fined, the hotel could be closed. Many youngsters tender false proof of age, but that doesn't let the waiter off the hook. Would you have guessed that Karol is 20, Lynne is 22, John is 23 and Pat 17? The legal age for entering a beer parlor is 21. In the past hotels have refused service to under-21s and have asked them to leave. Now they plan to lay charges immediately.

UNDER-21 DRINKING

Illegal Tippling by Youth Ignored by B.C. Government

By PETE LOUDON

This final instalment of a three-part series considers a simple method of curtailing illegal drinking by teen-agers—a mandatory, government-issued ID card, bearing a picture of the applicant.

The British Columbia government is apparently ignoring the problem of teen-age drinking.

Speeches are made in the legislature, resolutions are forwarded by community groups, prosecutions increase and liquor laws are ridiculed. But nothing changes.

●

The British Columbia Parent-Teacher Association as far back as February, 1965, complained in convention at the "moral, social and legal frustration" of B.C. youth.

The PTA said it is impossible for the present laws governing sales to minors to be enforced and vendors find it impossible to stay within the law.

Court costs and social welfare costs arising from illicit drinking by youths are continually rising.

The PTA stopped short of recommending the age limit for drinking be lowered. But it demanded a study of the act to see if changes where it concerns youth, could make it more effective.

The president of the Alcoholism Foundation of B.C., E. D. McRae of Vancouver, went a step farther.

He said it's a safe assumption that 70 per cent of the 18 to 21-year-olds in B.C. are drinking and the government should give attention to this.

●

"If a law is being continually flouted, someone should take a long look at it. To deny these young people the right to drink until they are 21, is unrealistic," he said.

He doesn't condone drinking, warns that alcohol is a drug which can cause addiction, but would prefer young people to be drinking in other than clandestine circumstances.

If the legal age were lowered, then enforcement of the law should be stepped up, said Mr. McRae. And he proposed how this might be done—adopt the identification card system now used in Washington and many other states.

Visitors to Washington know that grocery stores sell beer and wine. Taverns dot every downtown area. But there is never any doubt about the age of a customer.

●

In Washington, and in many other states, a youth who attains his 21st birthday and who wishes to be served alcoholic beverages goes to a liquor store or government agency.

He fills out an application for an identification card, presents his birth certificate or three other suitable documents proving his age. He also provides a small photograph of himself.

In due course he receives a card bearing his likeness. Any person selling beer or spirits to a person who is not obviously over 21 must ask to see the card. No card, no sale.

●

Infringement of the law can result in the seller being charged with a felony or at the least, a licence suspension is in order. The system covers sales of beer in grocery stores.

The system would be an effective curb if the present legal age of 21 were preserved. Or it could be effective if the age limit were dropped to 18 or 19 as many of the authorities in this series suggest.

QUEBEC OPINION POLL RESULTS:

De Gaulle Not Backing Separatists

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

MONTREAL — A public opinion poll among French-speaking Quebecers indicates that a majority disagree with English Canada's contention that President Chrles de Gaulle's celebrated cry of "Vive Le Quebec Libre" was support for the province's separation from Canada.

Just over 71 per cent do not believe that the French president advocated Quebec's withdrawl from confederation, the poll indicates. Only 17 per cent believe he favors Quebec's separation.

Even those under 29, living in the Montreal region, did not support the belief that the general supports separatism.

The findings are the result of a poll conducted by an independent Montreal firm of public opinion survey experts, Le Centre de Recherches Sur L'Opinion Publique. The pollsters themselves drew no conclusions from the figures they obtained.

A series of 17 questions were asked of heads of households in Montreal, Quebec City and Three Rivers. The questions were confined to French-speaking persons.

A solid majority agreed the general should have made his visit and that his words and deeds did not constitute interference in Canada's internal affairs.

Just under half — 48.9 per cent — felt the general had done no harm by uttering the phrase, the slogan of the province's strongest separatist party, Le Rassemblement Pour L'Independance Nationale. And a bare majority — 50.5 per cent — felt the Canadian government had dealt too harshly with him in saying the phrase was "unacceptable."

Most — but not majorities — felt the visit had been good for Quebec and for Canada as a whole. But 45 per cent felt it had changed little in Quebec's situation regarding the rest of the country.

The Quebec politician who appeared to come off best, and by a long shot, was Mayor Jean Drapeau who sent the general home from his shortened visit with a reminder that while Quebec wants French cultural aid, it had stood without help from France for two centuries.

But perhaps the most significant reaction was that of young people.

Asked whether when he uttered the famous phrase from the balcony of city hall, the French president had meant that Quebec should separate from Canada, 68.4 per cent of Montreal's 29 and under said no. Only 17.5 per cent of this category said yes and 14 per cent had no answer.

In the whole sample — all-age categories, all three cities — 37.3 per cent agreed the General meant Quebec should free itself from U.S. domination, 38.3 per cent disagreed and 20.3 could not reply.

DRAPEAU BACKED

The subjects were asked which of three Quebec politicians — Premeir Johnson, Liberal Leader Lesage and Mayor Drapeau — seemed to feel the same way they did about the general's visit.

The poll indicated that 41.8 per cent of French-speaking Quebecers identified themselves most closely with Mr. Drapeau's comments on the visit. Mr. Johnson got 22.5 per cent and Mr. Lesage 4.6 per cent. Another 30.2 could give no opinion, or suggested some other figure, who was not named in the results.

Another question dealt with how the general's four-day visit had affected Quebec's situation in its relations with the rest of Canada.

A total of 17.9 felt it had worsened the situation and another 17.9 felt it had improved the situation. But 45.2 per cent felt the viisit had changed nothing.

Another question dealt with the visit's effects on Canada as a whole. The sample was fairly evenly divided between those who felt it had done some good (32.8 per cent), and those who felt it had done nothing (31.6 per cent). Another 11.9 per cent felt it had been bad for Canada and 22.6 had no opinion.

City 'Won't Be Pushed Around' On Siting Convention Centre

A suggestion that Victoria city council is "pussy-footing" over the provision of a convention centre was repudiated by Mayor Hugh Stephen Friday.

He told a meeting of the directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce that neither he nor his council will be "pushed around by anyone" in the matter of providing a convention centre.

The mayor was replying to a statement by Chamber president Courtney Haddock that most of the directors might be "dead" before Victoria had a centre in operation.

"I resent any suggestion that council has delayed in this matter," Mayor Stephen said.

U.S. 'Exported' Quaker Issue To Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Informants said Friday the United States almost certainly will investigate incidents at Lacolle, Que., where an American inter-faith group tried unsuccessfully to move medical supplies over the international border for shipment to North and South Vietnam via Canada.

The group, which included Quakers, Unitarians and Episcopalians, was prevented earlier this week from taking the supplies over the border to Montreal.

Friction is reported to exist between the treasury department, responsible for policing the United States' Trading with the Enemy Act, and the justice department, which would have to decide whether to prosecute the Americans involved. The U.S. applies the act to such countries as North Vietnam and Cuba.

So far, the justice department has not initiated proceedings against any mamber of the inter-faith group, although one spokesman for Quaker Action groups has said such proceedings would be welcomed as a forum for their opposition to the Vietnam war.

SOME GRUMBLE

There is some private grumbling among Canadian officials that the United States, at the Lacolle border crossing point, "exported" its problems to Canada.

RCMP had to tug from a dozen members of the group packages addressed to North and South Vietnam because they lacked the necessary U.S. export licenses. The U.S. customs wouldn't grant the licences and by Canadian law, such parcels couldn't enter Canada.

The points, Canadian officials say, is the U.S. law could halt protesters before they reach Canadian soil.

Earlier in the week, a Quaker spokesman, Ross Flanagan, said here that he fears Canada "has undertaken to do the dirty work for the U.S." He said he would welcome "a legal charge being laid agsinst us by the government, but they apparently don't want to do that."

On the other hand, the treasury department, "has done everything it can to frustrate, intimidate and harass our program."

FREEZE DEPOSITS

That includes freezing of some Quaker bank deposits, orders to post offices to refuse to sell money orders clearly bound for Canada to buy Vietnam relief and efforts to get Canadian banks to co-operate in detecting bank deposits used to send aid money to Canadian Quakers.

U.S. officials say the treasury enforces the Trading with the Enemy Act through the office of foreign assets control. Then, a spokesman said Friday, treasury investigations of violations are sent to the justice department for study as to whether prosecution should occur.

The spokesman said a specific case presumably now before the justice department involves the transfer by Flanagan and other Quakers of money and medical items at Buffalo, N.Y., to Canadians.

Viet War Vote Plan Under Way

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., announced Friday a nation wide campaign for a referendum on the Vietnam war.

The campaing, supported by the organization Vietnam Summer, seeks to place anti-war referendums on petitions on local and state ballots this fall and next spring.

King, who won the Nobel Prize for his civil rights leadership in the U.S., said in a statement the project already is under way in more than a dozen localities.

"Congress and the president have been unresponsive or indifferent in the face of deepening grass roots opposition to our policy in Vietnam," King said. "The local initiative is a unique and dramatic way for our people to deliver their mandate against the war."

King noted that last year in Dearborn, Mich., a referendum calling for "an immediate ceasefire and withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam" received 40 per cent of the vote.

"Vietnam Summer volunteers and other anti-war groups," he said, "are already working to place similar initiatives on the ballot in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Berkeley, Cleveland, New York, Cambridge, Marin County, Calif., and the State of Wisconsin."

Viet Living Costs Soar

SAIGON (AP)—Soaring food prices have pushed the South Vietnamese cost of living up some 35 per cent so far this year and the overheated economy may spin out of control entirely in the months ahead, economic sources indicate.

Because of the impact on the peasants and working class, the economic battle is considered a vital part of the political war in Vietnam.

Not all economists are agreed on how serious the current situation is. However, one who had watched the economy for many months predicted that an increase in prices from 30 to 50 per cent this year could prove disastrous.

The chief causes of the spurt in prices—12 per cent since June—are rising food costs and the tremendous amount of money being poured in the Vietnamese economy.

Ship's Equipment Smashed

MOSCOW (CP) — Chinese Red Guards attacked a Soviet merchant ship in the Manchurian port of Dairen for the second consecutive day today and smashed equipment aboard the vessel, the Russian news agency Tass reported.

The agency said "an enormous mob is raving on the embankment" where the ship, the freighter Svirsk, was moored.

The Soviet government previously sent a strong protest to Peking, accusing Chinese authorities of seizing the ship and "capturing" its captain Friday.

Tass quoted shipping officials at the Russian port of Vladivostok as saying that "Red Guards stormed onto the deck of the ship and began smashing up its equipment" this morning.

MASTER BEATEN

Tass also said the ship's master, identified as Viktor Korshov, was beaten following his arrest Friday. It said Korshov was brought back to the dock area today and was taunted by a mob of Chinese.

The crew of the Russian ship was besieged and unable to go to the captain's rescue, the agency said. The report said the Chinese were demanding that the ship's navigator also be handed over to them.

Russia charged Friday that the previous attack on the ship was a "planned provocation, intended to further complicate Soviet-Chinese relations."

It accused the Chinese of "unprecedented bandit actions" and demanded the vessel's immediate release.

"The unprecedented bandit actions against the Soviet ship and members of its crew," said the note, "took place in the presence of official Chinese authorities and with their direct connivance."

PALMA, Majorca (AP)—Nine British tourists were killed and 26 injured today in the collision of a truck and a bus. The accident occurred 18 miles from Palma on the highway to Nanacor in the Balaeric Islands.

New RCMP Deputy

OTTAWA (CP) — Assistant Commissioner Weldon Jack Fitzsimmons, 54, in charge of the RCMP provincial force, in Alberta, will assume the duties of deputy commissioner in charge of administration in Ottawa early next month, RCMP headquarters said Friday.

Ex-Diplomat Dies

HALIFAX (CP) — Charles J. Burchell, Canada's high commissioner to Newfoundland when the colony entered Confederation in 1949, died at his home here early today. He was 91.

NO COMIC OPERA

Mayor Jest Plain Folks; Royal Daimler Rejected

Mayor Hugh Stephen said Friday he has no intention of making the Mayor of Victoria a "comic opera figure".

He declined a suggestion he should ride in a Daimler car once used by the Royal Family.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Courtney Haddock said "someone in England" had a Daimler once used by the Royal Family and had offered it to Victoria for £3,000 sterling.

He said it could be the mayor's official car.

Mayor Stephen declined. He said he and former mayors of the city used their own cars 90 per cent of the time. When they needed an official vehicle they called on the police pool.

The offer of the Daimler was referred to the chamber's tourist trade group.

The Hon. John Gilbey arrives home from another international tour

England welcomes home the Hon. John Gilbey

Arriving home after another International Tour, the Hon. John Gilbey remarks on the excellent standards of Gilbey's London Dry in Canada. And Gilbey's International Quality Controller announces that he will now compare the English Gilbey's with its overseas brother:

"My gin has been the best gin in the world for no less than 110 years," says the Hon. John Gilbey. "In Canada, for example, I have found that Gilbey's London Dry perfectly matches the original English standard. So now I intend to compare our English product with it."

Next time you see Gilbey's famous frosty bottle, remember the Hon. John Gilbey and his job as Gilbey's International Quality Controller. When you see the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks, bear in mind his proud words: "This is my gin! For no less than 110 years it has carried my family's name. Gilbey's London Dry is the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks. And I shall make sure it stays that way."

Towboat Built In Novel Fashion

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Kent

Many a passerby has done a double take on seeing a full-fledged towboat rising from amid stacked lumber behind a Government Street machine shop.

The story is interesting because it illustrates how an unconventional approach can produce a finished work of good quality at competitive price.

Product of United Engineering Ltd. at Government and Pembroke, the 32-foot Albern is a steel-hulled, diesel-powered workhorse built in a storage yard more than a block from the waterfront.

It is due for launching Monday at Esquimalt graving Dock, where it will be transported by semi-trailer.

The stubby little ship's 100-ton weight will be jacked up inch by inch enabling the trailer to cradle it.

If this sounds pretty prosaic so far it is only because tug boats are no novelty here. But wait:

- United Engineering never built a ship before this one;
- The actual work is largely that of only two men;
- The propulsion system — a Corlett nozzle—is believed the first to be built and used in B.C.;
- No compound bending was used in the forming of hull plates

Company president Earl Hastings — who started in the shop 34 years ago as a machinist assistant — won't say how much the contract was worth. But it is believed to represent a substantial saving over conventional ship construction.

He will say he has had inquiries from other tug operators to build larger ships for them, but he is saying no more about that until Albern is safely launched.

★ ★ ★

Built for up-Island towing interests to become part of a four-tug fleet, Albern is a design of Vancouver naval architect Al McIlwaine and has the approval of Lloyd's of London.

Instead of having curved plates of large dimensions, the new tug is welded together almost in jigsaw fashion using irregularly cut plates which individually are quite flat.

The principle is something like that evolved for making a geodesic dome, as in the U.S. pavilion at Expo.

Forming the Corlett nozzle — which was built under licence from the British owners, Corlett and Burns Co. — was one of the most exacting and difficult parts of the project.

This necessitated a compound curve being pressed out of sections of plate to form a large sleeve around the ship's big bronze screw.

The job was done to within less that one-sixteenth of an inch accuracy, leaving a net three-eights-inch clearance for the propellor blades.

Like the German Kort nozzle already proven in these waters, the Corlett gives a ship more thrust and manoeuvrability.

★ ★ ★

Albern is powered by a 335 h.p. Caterpillar, supercharged, with hydraulic pumps to operate the towing gear.

There is three-station, hydraulic power steering, and electronic gear half fills the aluminum wheelhouse.

Radar, depth-finder, marine band and FM radio are of the latest design and placed within arm's reach of the wheel.

Hastings is pleased with the job, although it took longer than expected, having started last December.

Don't be surprised to see another one rising from his back yard some day soon.

Court Hearing Set in BIF Case

TORONTO (CP) — The petition of three Toronto men removed July 28 from the board of British International Finance Canada Ltd. for a court ruling to void the election of directors will be heard Aug. 24 in the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Notice of motion was filed this week at Osgoode Hall on behalf of William J. Mollard, Andrew M. Wofford and Dr. Peter Charlebois.

The three also asked the court for an injunction restraining those elected at the annual meeting from holding a meeting as directors of the comany, voting BIF shares in any of its subsidiaries, including the Bank of Western Canada, and interfering with the board as it existed before July 28.

Damages are asked from two defendants, Marc Masson Bienvenue of Montreal, president of BIF, and his financial adviser, Jacques Melancon.

BUILT in novel fashion in yard of United Engineering Ltd. this 32-foot steel-hulled tug will be transported Monday to Esquimalt graving dock for launching ceremony.

Chrysler Faces UAW Strike Vote

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers disclosed Friday it has authorized a strike vote among its members employed by Chrysler Corp.

The union previously authorized strike votes by its members at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. plants the week of Aug. 20.

Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler director, said Chrysler local union leaders were advised at a meeting in Detroit earlier this week to take strike votes and report the results by Aug. 25.

Fraser said he thinks some of the Chrysler locals will be voting as early as next week.

Negotiations on new labor contracts with the Big Three began July 10. Current three-year contracts expire Sept. 6.

Thus far both sides of the negotiating tables say little has been accomplished. The UAW has accused General Motors of bargaining in bad faith and has asked the National Labor Relations Board for a ruling on its claim.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has called the union demands the longest and most ambitious list of goals in the union's history.

Wheat Crop Estimate Well Down

WINNIPEG (CP) — The National Grain Company Ltd. estimates total wheat production in western Canada this year will be 424,800,000 bushels compared with 1966's record 824,000,000 bushels.

The company based its prediction on reports from more than 300 agents across the prairies. The total would be below the five-year average of 656,000,000 bushels but well ahead of the 1961 crop of 260,000,000 bushels.

In a crop report the company said wheat yields in drought areas will range from eight to 15 bushels an acre.

In Manitoba, northwestern Saskatchewan and the northern half of Alberta, the crops are better than average and wheat yields are expected to range from 20 to 30 bushels an acre, the report said.

Production of barley is estimated at 171,500,000 bushels, less than the 279,000,000 bushels last year despite an increase in seeded acreage.

Oats production is expected to be about 197,000,000 bushels.

The report also estimates a reduction in yields of flax and rapeseed.

State Ferry System Operates at Deficit

OLYMPIA (AP) — The state ferry system ended the fiscal year with an operating profit of $120,886, the state toll bridge authority has announced.

However, the ferries did not take in enough money to cover debt service on outstanding bonds of capital costs. The entire system showed a net loss of $578,391 during the fiscal year, counting all costs.

ALUMINUM EXPANSION IN INDIA

OTTAWA (CP) — An export credits insurance loan was signed Friday to provide $5,500,000 for expansion of aluminum production in India.

The loan to Indian Aluminum Co. Ltd., Calcutta, as part of Canada's contribution to a World Bank consortium aiding Indian development, will be used to buy Canadian materials and services procured by Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd.

Favorable Trade Balance

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a favorable trade balance of $148,400,000 in the first six months of 1967, more than seven times higher than the $20,700,000 export balance in the first half of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The bureau said exports to the end of June totalled $5,625,500,000, a shade more than half the government's export goal of $11,250,000,000 for the whole of 1967. Exports in the first six months were 16.8 per cent higher than $4,815,000,000 exported in the same period last year.

Commodity imports in June were 3.9 per cent higher than last year at $935,900,000, and exports increased 18.6 per cent from June last year to $1,033,900,000.

Imports from the United States rose 4.4 per cent in June to $689,300,000, bringing the six-months total up 15 per cent to $4,067,800,000. Exports to the U.S. in June were 15.5 per cent higher at $632,300,000 bringing the cumulative total up 19.4 per cent to $3,524,100,000.

Imports from the United Kingdom were 28.4 per cent higher in June this year at $62,800,000, raising the cumulative total 9.1 per cent to $345,700,000. Exports to the U.K. rose 18.3 per cent in June, raising the six-months figure seven per cent to $594,000,000.

Trade Minister Winters hailed the six months figures in a statement saying the $11,250,000,000 export target for Centennial Year was ambitious and meant a $1,000,000,000 increase in the year.

Juicier Cut Aim Of Meat Cutters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The problem of the butchers who want a juicier cut is likely to go before a conciliation board.

George Johnston, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters, said Friday this course has been recommended by a conciliation officer.

The butchers, who work in the meat sections of retail stores, want a four-day, 36-hour week and a pay hike of $1.45 an hour.

They are working a 40-hour week and earning $3.10 an hour.

About 800 men are involved in negotiations with six supermarket chains, and the dispute is expected to affect 500 more men who work for other employers.

. . . UNDER-21 DRINKING

Proponents of the ID card say B.C. could well afford to adopt the scheme. They cost about 35 cents each to produce. But total sale of beer and liquor in this province—by the province—was $141,139,853 last year.

Profit to the province was $41,683,955.

Would beer parlor operators make the cards a necessity when young drinkers appeared?

Les Ingraham, speaking for the hotelmen's associaton and for his own popular beer parlor, says emphatically yes.

"It's a big problem," he said when asked about under-age drinkers. "How they get in I don't know."

Told about the Washington system, he said, "This is the way it should be."

Without exception, all of the sources quoted in this series of articles, favored the photo-carrying cards.

There was not the same unanimity on the proposal to reduce the legal drinking age in beer parlors. This would after all, be breaking new ground in Canada, where all provinces except Quebec make 21 the legal age. In Quebec the age is 20.

Minimum age in the U.S.A. for purchase of alcoholic beverages is 21 in all states except Hawaii where it is 20, Louisiana 18, New York 18, as the law applies to hard liquor.

U.S. RULES

Beer, the strength varying, may be bought in Colorado (3.2 beer at 18), District of Columbia (light wine and beer at 18), Idaho (beer at 20), Kansas (3.2 beer at 18), Mississippi (beer less than 4 per cent at 18), North Carolina (light wine and beer at 18), Ohio (3.2 beer at 18), Oklahoma (3.2 beer for males at 21 but females at 18), South Carolina (beer and wine at 18), South Dakota (3.2 beer at 19), Virginia and West Virginia (3.2 beer at 18) and Wisconsin (beer at 18).

The phrase "3.2 beer" means beer with a 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. Beer in British Columbia has an alcoholic content of about 8 per cent and is equivalent to the level of most U.S. beer.

The varying requirements in the United States have caused some furor according to the Licenced Beverage Industries of the U.S. and investigations by New York state.

Fourteen states including Washington and Oregon now use ID cards issued by the government. But there are still problems because as one official says, "No card has ever been invented that a teen-ager can't alter."

CHEATERS

There are mail order houses which advertise they can make duplicates of any card with your choice of name and age inscribed beside your picture, sealed in plastic.

Some states report bartenders do not ask for the cards. Some say the fact that the card is available makes it a must for many youths who might not otherwise drink. Some say the necessity of a card discriminates against one age group.

(Surely the law itself does this, with reason.)

About 19 states make the driver's licence do the job, issuing different color cards to minors and adults and often having a photograph on the licence. This is a good system except where the drinker doesn't drive a car.

A DETERRENT

Washington authorities say their system is effective and has been a deterrent. Oregon says the same but notes that somehow, sales to minors have not measureably declined.

However, control over beer and liquor outlets in British Columbia is generally so much tighter than in many states that proponents believe the card system would be effective here.

Misguided adults would still be able to buy for minors at liquor stores, but the system should be foolproof in beer parlors, they believe.

The question of reducing the age for drinking might not be so easily settled. New York's legal age of 18 has been in effect for more than a century. But it is still being disputed.

A study released in 1965 shows results of four years of hearings on proposals that the age be made 21. Main support for this came from adjoining states.

Youngsters in neighboring states where the legal age is 21, swarm into New York every evening. The highway travel involved has been blamed for uncounted accidents.

The lower age limit has also been blamed for crime, deliquency and early alcoholism. Records of the hearings also include learned denials of all these things. Noted educators, researchists, doctors and lawyers are quoted by both sides.

The decision in B.C. can only be reached intelligently after a full study of B.C. circumstances. But to date, no study has been undertaken. The province, like many parents, is apparently turning a blind eye on the problem of teen-age drinking.

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle regrets that the province has not even gone so far as to finance public education about the use of alcohol — except for an annual grant to the Alcoholic Foundation.

He favors a law requiring breweries and distilleries to spend as much money advertising the evils of drink as they do advertising their products.

At this point there seems as much hope for Mr. Tisdalle's plan as for a solid review of existing liquor laws.

'Mastermind' In Gold Theft

LONDON (Reuters)—A 40-year-old unemployed Briton, described as the mastermind behind a $2,000,000 gold theft in May, became the sixth person charged in connection with the bullion haul.

Ronald Stafford was charged with conspiracy to steal the gold and ordered held without bail until a court hearing scheduled for Aug. 21.

The bullion was stolen from a Rothchild Bank armored truck by a gang of 15 men. Some of the gold has been recovered.

Police said Stafford denied he had anything to do with the theft.

Two Motorcyclists Hurt In Collisions With Cars

Two motorcyclists were taken to hospital Friday after collisions with cars in separate accidents.

David Edmondson of 2141 Denman is in "fairly good" condition after suffering a broken leg and wrist.

He was headed east on Tolmie shortly after noon when he collided with an oncoming car turning onto Rose Street and driven by Eileen Mary Foster of 1660 Earlston.

Reginald King, 22, of HMCS Saskatchewan, suffered back injuries in an accident at Fairfield and Memorial Crescent.

Driver of the car involved was Roy Denis of Calgary. King was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital and later released.

'Why Lose It All Now By Sitting on Our Hands?'

The writer of this article, Henry Makow, is an Ottawa high school student who, some years ago, wrote a widely-syndicated newspaper youth advice column, Ask Henry. He's now embarked on a trans-Canada hitch-hiking tour to find out what Canadian youth thinks about Centennial Year and about Confederation generally.

BY HENRY MAKOW

WINNIPEG—A week spent meeting people and seeing things around Winnipeg has helped us consolidate some important ideas about our country which are held by a growing number of young Canadians.

First, we seek to make our country an embodiment of our ideals, and as young Canadians, we resent the extent of American influence in Canadian affairs.

Secondly, we question some of the mores of our society—materialism and lack of love, for examples.

Thirdly, we recognize that our future lies in international co-operation and believe that Canada is in a unique position to play a decisive role.

Young Canadians who have high ideals for their country are disillusioned to find that our domestic and foreign policies are greatly influenced by the United States.

Michael, 19, an economics major at the University of Manitoba, used Vietnam as an example. "Canada is on record as supporting the American aims in Vietnam," he said.

●

"We couldn't disagree if we wanted to. Defence production has been integrated; we do sixty per cent of our trade with the U.S. and Americans control vital sectors of our economy (i.e. fifty-nine per cent of our manufacturing industries)." Michael knew of many schemes for a recovery of control—they required sacrifices on the part of Canadians.

I asked a half dozen young counsellors at a camp we visited if they would be willing to give up a quarter of their living standard for 25 years to ensure Canadian control. I took the figures out of the air in order to gauge their feelings. Five of them said they would be willing. "Personal loss is what has made Canada," said George, 18, "why lose it all now by sitting on our hands?"

Many young people are prepared to make material sacrifices for less tangible things like principles. Unlike our parents who grew up in the depression, we were raised in plenty and are able to see material possessions in perspective. We see that they don't make up for things like an honest pride in country, love, integrity, beauty, or in general, a harmony with life. "If living means appreciating life," one hippie told us, "then North America has the lowest standard of living in the world."

A teacher-friend posed this question to us: "Which would seem more peculiar? A man running up and down the street yelling 'I hate you!' or a man yelling 'I love you!'" The former was our reply. "Why is this?" my teacher-friend theorized, "why is our society conditioned to fear and hate?"

Peter and I are in contact with this fear on the road every day. For every car that stops to give us a ride, there are at least thirty which pretend not to see us. We never get stranded for more than a few hours, but the bitterness at being shunned is intense. Canadian hitchhikers back from North Africa say that everyone who has room there stops, and if there's no room, they stop anyway to talk.

●

Brotherhood on an international level is more difficult to achieve. Canadians are slowly realizing that our security ultimately depends on the welfare of all mankind. Reduction of American influence would enable Canada to be more effective in her role as an international mediator. This is a role which all Canadians are proud of and one for which we are especially suited.

Our stay in Winnipeg underlined this point. We spent a night at the home of G. N. Vogel, who is a commissioner with the Canadian Wheat Board, deals directly with the Russians and Chinese. "Through our unique trading relationship, we have a special dialogue with the Communist countries," he told us.

Even more important is that Canada herself is international in character. Just spend some time in Winnipeg and this becomes obvious. There are Polish newspapers, churches which look like the Kremlin, Hutterites in traditional dress, Ukrainian meeting halls and across the Red River, there is the French speaking twin city of St. Boniface. There is no melting pot pressure to assimilate—yet, you can't beat the patriotism of a man who chose Canada.

The noisiest Canuck in the stands at a Canada vs Cubs soccer game we saw was a Polish immigrant who sat beside me. Every time Cuba got a penalty, he would blare out in his accent "Go tell that to Castro." Needless to say, Canada won the game 2-1.

Today, we push on to Regina, and then north to Edmonton where we'll try our hand at hitching a planeride up north. If we have no luck, we'll contemplate the pros and cons of 1,500 miles of Alaska highway.

My deadline next week could be anywhere from Resolute Bay, N.W.T., to Vancouver, B.C. That is the romance of the road.

POPE ISSUES DECREE

Rome Curia Posts Ordered for Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul decreed today that bishops chosen from dioceses around the world would be assigned posts in the Rome Curia to give the Vatican wider international representation.

The decree put into effect a recommendation of the 1962-65 Vatican ecumenical council.

It is part of the developing process of reforming the traditional conservative Curia, a process recommended by the council and promised by the Pope.

Pope Paul declared that appointment of the diocesan bishops—ordinarily seven for each Curia congregation—would be up to him.

He said that to avoid excessive interference with their diocesan duties, the bishops would normally come to Rome only for an annual plenary meeting of the congregation to which they are assigned.

FULL RIGHTS

But the bishops will have full membership rights along with the Curia cardinals resident in Rome who are assigned full time to the Curia, the central offices of the Roman Catholic Church.

This marks a major step forward for the bishops in the over-all running of the church's affairs.

Bishops long have complained about the power concentrated in the hands of the so-called Curia bureaucrats.

At the ecumenical council the bishops and the Pope together worked to give the various national episcopal conferences more autonomy from Rome plus a larger voice in the Vatican.

Next month for the first time in history bishops will convene here for a synod to help advise the Pope.

Liquor Offence Brings $50 Fine

A man who admitted buying a case of beer while on the liquor interdict list was fined $50 in central court Friday.

Joseph Pelkey, of Saanichton, told court he was unaware he was still prohibited from possessing liquor after being placed on the list last year.

Attempt Tonight To Refloat Ferry

HIGH AND ALMOST DRY, the B.C. Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert sits on a rocky reef 3½ miles from Alert Bay where she ran aground Friday. Crews are working today to prepare the $6.5 million vessel for refloating early this evening. (CP Wirephoto)

Long Dock Stay For Holed Ship

By TERRY IZZARD

An attempt was to be made this evening to free the crippled ferry Queen of Prince Rupert from a reef near Alert Bay.

Two deepsea tugs were standing by at press time awaiting the 7 p.m. high tide.

Meanwhile everything possible was being done to lighten the ferry's weight.

Sitting atop Haddington reef, 3½ miles northwest of Alert Bay, the B.C. government superferry was discharging her load of 87 vehicles this morning.

They were being driven aboard scows down a hastily built ramp.

While the efforts to free her were going on, B.C. Ferries officials in Victoria were trying to assess damage.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

They weren't as optimistic as Premier Bennett who said Friday the ferry would be in drydock for "at least two weeks."

Operations manager Bill Weston said the ferry won't be back in service for "a few weeks."

A Victoria shipyard official estimated the ferry will be undergoing repairs for at least three months.

GOING TO BURRARD

If tonight's attempt is successful, the ferry will be towed by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s Sudbury II to Burrard Drydock in North Vancouver.

Until she is out of the water, no one can be sure about the extent of damage.

She has a gash along her bow and the engine room is still flooded despite the use of auxiliary pumps.

Hindering the pumping operation is the fact the Rupert is without power. Sudbury II and Island Sovereign provided the pumps.

In addition to the engine room, a number of tanks in the ferry's double-hull are flooded.

With the vehicles removed and some of the sea water pumped out, no great difficulties are foreseen in successfully completing this evening's tow.

NEXT TIDE THURSDAY

High tide is 14-feet 8-inches, which should float the vessel free. Next tide as high is Thursday when it reaches 15 feet.

In Port McNeill, where the 299 passengers were taken by a small armada of boats, people were boarding buses this morning for the 10½-hour ride to Nanaimo.

They will have dinner in Campbell River and be put up in Nanaimo hotels tonight. B.C. Ferries will meet the expense.

By Sunday, all the vehicles should have arrived at Nanaimo's Departure Bay ferry terminal.

Shipwreck Passengers Having 'Heck of a Time'

ALERT BAY (CP)—Friday's grounding of the British Columbia Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert could be considered one of history's happiest shipwrecks.

The 299 passengers aboard were scarcely jostled by the impact, no one was killed or injured, passengers and crew were taken ashore in a swift and efficient rescue effort, and finally, the town of Alert Bay went all out to help.

Citizens of this isolated community of 825 on Cormorant Island off the north tip of Vancouver Island, closed ranks and devoted all efforts to making the stranded passengers comfortable.

And the unanimous feeling among the passengers was that Alert Bay is a very nice place to get shipwrecked. Most said they were having a heck of a good time.

FESTIVE ATMOSPHERE

After feeding the victims, clothing the ones who fled the ship in night attire, and finding 299 spare beds in the town, the burghers of Alert Bay — mostly fishermen and loggers, Indians and bush pilots — set out to entertain their unexpected visitors.

A festival atmosphere set in throughout the day. Visitors and natives mingled and got to know each other.

At. St. Michael's Indian School, where most of the visitors were billeted, students prepared a sign that read: "Hi! Welcome to St. Michael's. Hope you enjoy your visit."

LIKE A PARTY

The visitors, mostly American tourists, strolled about the village, looking at totem poles and other native art work.

James Sewid, chief of the Nimpkish Indian Band arranged for the visitors to tour recently-built reserve longhouses, and had 50 members of the band perform authentic dances for an hour to the throb of Indian music.

By evening Friday, the town's two beer parlors were filled to capacity with tourists and residents, mixing in a party-like manner.

"We have a very fine group of people," said Mrs. Albert Martin, manager of the Harbor Inn. "They come from everywhere; from Washington to Belgium.

"The town went way out to make them feel at home — and the people are proud to say they did."

Comeback Canada's Only Hope

A shakeup in its foursomes pairings didn't quite work, and Canada's six-man team once again had to hope for a comeback in the afternoon singles matches in its bid to claim the Commonwealth golf championship.

As did every other country in matches earlier this week, Australia dropped Canada into a hole by winning two of this morning's three foursomes matches at Victoria Golf Club.

That meant Canada had to win four of the six afternoon singles to win both points and claim the Commonwealth honor for the first time.

After losing foursomes to South Africa, Australia and New Zealand earlier in the week, Canadian non-playing captain Phil Farley switched his combinations for the first time today.

He paired Vancouver's John Johnston with Gary Cowan and national champion Nick Weslock with Calgary's Keith Alexander. He left the Doug Silverberg-Wayne Vollmer intact because they had lost only one of their three previous matches.

It almost worked. Except, Silverberg and Vollmer were beaten, 2 and 1, by the British pairing of Ronnie Shade and Rodney Foster.

ONLY VICTORY

Weslock and Alexander proved compatible and scored Canada's only victory this morning, 3 and 2 over Mike Bonallack and Dudley Millensted.

Cowan and Johnston bowed to the Scots' twosome of Sandy Saddler and Gordon Cosh, 4 and 3.

New Zealand, also with a chance at the title, fanned their hopes by emerging with a 2-1 edge over Australia in the other battle this morning.

Ross Murray and John Durry started the Kiwis off with a 3 and 1 triumph over Australia's Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley. Stuart Jones and Bruce Stevens made it two in a row by clipping Victor Bulgin and Dennis Bell, one up.

Phil Billings and Bill Britten salvaged the Aussies' only match, defeating Boris Vezich and Geoff Clarke, 3 and 2.

South Africa had already completed its schedule and was idle on this, the windup day of the first Commonwealth event ever staged in Canada.

FINAL ★★★★ BULLETINS

Goalkeeper Scores Tieing Goal

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Pat Jennings, goalkeeper of the Tottenham Hotspur soccer team, scored a fantastic goal today in his team's 3-3 tie with Manchester United here.

He drop-kicked the ball from his own penalty area. The wind took it sailing to the far end of the field, and Manchester goalkeeper Alex Stepney ran out to the edge of his area to meet it. The ball bounced over Stepney's head into the net.

The freak goal was one of the highlights of the annual charity match between the English champions and the English Cup winners.

30 Millionth Visitor to Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—Expo 67 today welcomed its 30,000,000 visitor to the world's fair since the official opening April 27.

On hand to greet the visitor—Mrs. Timothy Broderick of the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke—was Philipe de Gaspe Beaubien, Expo's director of operations, who presented her with a corsage and a 30,000,000th-visitor button.

Montrealer Loses Shoot Medal

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Nick Bekessy of Montreal lost his gold medal at Dominion of Canada Rifle Association competition here today less than 24 hours after he was named winner of the Queen's medal for militia members.

Bekessy tied Larry Fish of Oakville with 151 points out of 200 in the Friday competition and was named winner Friday night by association officials.

But on a check of targets, officials discovered that Fish recorded a better score on the 600-yard range and named him winner, dropping Bekessy to second place in the event.

Levy Conviction Upheld

FT. JACKSON, S.C. (UPI)—Army Capt. Howard Levy lost the first of two automatic appeals of his disloyalty conviction.

The commanding general of Ft. Jackson approved the conviction and sentence of three years at hard labor.

Children Prove Leading Subjects

The kiddies seem to have taken the place of kittens in the viewfinders of Times Amateur Snapshot contest entrants.

Children at the beach, at home, posed and natural, happy and not so happy, all made good subjects for the camera fans as the contest went into its fourth week.

Winners will be named in the early part of next week.

This week's entries closed at noon today and judges are now sifting through scores of prints to find a $10 winner in each of the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animal of the World and the World in Which We Live.

There are two more weekly contests, then the six winners in each category will compete for the $25 best of contest prizes and these winners will go into the national competition.

First prize is a trip around the world for two with $1,000 in spending money. For other winners there are trips to Mexico, Europe, the West Indies and Hawaii.

For Canadians who are not lucky with the travel prizes there are seven $100 prizes and a special $200 prize for the best Canadian picture submitted.

The contest is open to amateurs only.

No color pictures will be accepted but black and white prints from color negatives are permitted.

All pictures must have been taken since July 1, 1966, and must be no more than 10 inches on the larger dimension.

Pictures for different categories may be mailed in the same envelope and each print should bear the name and address of the sender and the category. Contest deadline is noon on Saturday each week.

INJURED PASSENGER is lifted from wreckage of Montreal Limited train after it crashed into a 100-car freight train near Saratoga Springs, N.Y., early today. Two persons were killed and 40 injured, none seriously. Montreal-bound train carried 300 persons, many on their way to Expo. It struck the side of the freight as the latter was leaving a siding. Two cars were derailed and some were crushed in impact. (AP Wirephoto)

Caouette Pushes For New Province

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of le Ralliement des Creditistes, is throwing his support behind a movement for the creation of an eleventh Canadian province in northwestern Quebec.

The proposal for creation of a new province in this ara of Quebec and another suggestion for one which would incorporate the adjoining area of Ontario, have been put forward in recent times by residents of both areas.

Mr. Caouette said in an interview Friday that the Abitibi region, which would be in the heart of the proposed new province, has been treated worse by Quebec City than Quebec has been treated by Ottawa.

The Creditiste leader said: "According to statistics based on the provincial budget we pay annual taxes in this region amounting to $593 per head of the population while the average for the whole provice is $291 . . . and we get 10 times less than the others."

Thet ferry wreck seems so popular with th' passengers, mebbe they c'd make it a regular feature o' th' run.

FALLING ROCK TRAPS BOY IN WELL

LENORE, W.Va. (AP)—A 15-year-old boy remained trapped 14 feet underground in an old well near this southern West Virginia mountain town at noon today. Anxious rescue workers were trying to reach the boy by digging a deep trench.

Young Leonard Boyce was given a sedative this morning, about 14 hours after he was trapped in the well by falling rock. Only his head and one arm were uncovered.

Before the sedative took effect he reported: "I have lots of pain. I'm praying. Do you think they're going to get me out of here?"

Hospital Strikes Averted

A Victoria union official said today a proposed agreement between major B.C. hospitals and operating engineers is certain to be accepted.

Ed Callan, local business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, gave the Times the assurance in a telephone interview from Vancouver where he's attending a union meeting.

Acceptance of the proposal will avert a threatened strike against Victoria's two major hospitals.

"We have obtained everything we set out for in Victoria," said Mr. Callan.

GAINED PARITY

"We have gained parity for third-class and senior engineers, and a few fringe benefits.

"No membership vote is necessary in our local (Victoria). We are authorized to accept these terms."

Mainland locals will vote on the proposed two-year contract this weekend.

The terms would boost third class engineers from $540 to $620 a month, rising to $645 next Jan. 1 and $660 the following July 1.

Ratification will end the strike against Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster, now in its fourth day.

GREAT RELIEF

The tentative settlement came after appointment of a mediator, labor department conciliation officer Jack Sherlock, and a strong hint by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson hospital strikes could be made illegal.

Dr. Murray Anderson, medical superintendent of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said "everyone is greatly relieved. We would hope this proposal truly means the end of the strike threat."

A spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital said "we are all very grateful."

The hospitals' negotiating was conducted by the B.C. Hospitals Association.

Mr. Callan said he has "full confidence the final agreement will be signed Monday."

Congo Seeks Help in Fight

KINSHASA (UPI) — The Congolese government today awaited an answer to its appeal for international help in fighting mercenary-led rebels now in control of Bukavu, the Kuvu province capital.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko made the plea Friday to the U.N. Security Council and to friendly countries.

Rescued From Peak

BEND, Ore. (UPI)—A rescue party today reached the middle peak of the three sisters in the Cascades Mountains where George J. Schultz, of Sacramento, Calif., was fatally injured in a rock slide while climbing with his four children. One of the youngsters was hurt in the mishap and all were flown to safety by helicopter.

CONFUSION brings tears to the eyes of Cheryl Stewart, Lake Cowichan, who was travelling with her parents aboard the B.C. Ferry Authority flagship Queen of Prince Rupert when she ran aground on a reef Friday. Cheryl was one of 299 people rescued from the ship and taken to Alert Bay. (CP Wirephoto)

. . . FERRY

Passengers have already had their hastily deserted luggage returned.

Contacted at Dawson Creek, Premier Bennett said the cabinet will decide whether to hold a full-scale government inquiry.

CAPT. JOHN CALLAN
. . . still with ship

He said the vessel is fully insured.

While no official estimate on cost of repairs has been given, waterfront observers say $1 million is a conservative figure.

Mr. Weston said a lot will depend on how soon the Rupert can be drydocked.

He said it may be possible to drain the engines and "wash them out" with oil.

"The main damage will be to the electrical system," he said.

HINDERED BY KELP

The hull damage has been inspected by divers but kelp hindered their survey.

Still aboard the 3,500-ton flagship is Capt. John Callan who was on the bridge when the ship ran aground.

With him is the crew of 66.

Ferry spokesman Robert Innes said there will be no lay-offs while the ferry undergoes repairs.

"The men will be absorbed on other ferries," he said, "though there is a possibility that some of the part-time staff will not be required."

Department of transport investigators began a preliminary inquiry today.

Viets Consider End to War

By CHALMERS M. ROBERTS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — For many months the Johnson administration has been trumpeting the forthcoming South Vietnamese elections as a historic step in the process of nation-building. North Vietnam, it was said, is more afraid of a widely accepted and popularly elected government in Saigon than it is of American troops and bombs.

Today the administration is the victim of its own over-sell.

The military junta's ticket of General Thieu and Air Marshal Ky gave the back of its hand to its civilian opponents, combining humiliation with disdain. And the story got around that the junta would overturn any civilian regime that beat the Thieu-Ky ticket, if that unlikely event were to occur.

The result has been an uproar in Congress and a new sense of alarm in the executive branch. There are two points worth making, however, before succumbing to despair.

ABSURD HOPES

In the first place, to expect a replica of an American election in South Vietnam is absurd. The country is run by the military in the midst of a war that is everywhere. The military leaders are determined not to be euchered out of power by civilians they disturst for personal reasons if not for principle. While Vietnam has a history of village-level democracy, the idea of national elections, American-style, is something quite different.

In the second place, the campaign row could turn out to be of the utmost importance, not in discrediting the election process, which it seems likely to do, but in forging a generally accepted public opinion.

It is true that the one potential candidate who had been talking of a compromise peace with the Communists was ruled off the ballot and every other candidate had to pass what amounted to a loyalty test. All this was designed to eliminate any possibility that the issue of how to end the conflict would arise between the military and the other candidates.

PUBLIC OPINION

Despite these precautions, however, the remaining civilian candidates have begun to talk about how to end the war. And in the last few days, even General Thieu has joined in with a promise to ask Hanoi to talk and a suggestion of another pause in bombing of the north.

The point is not that any candidate has come upon a formula for peace; rather, the point is that all candidates including Thieu, seem to be responding to what they feel is the public's desire for peace.

In short, the unmentionable is now being mentioned; the undiscussable is now being discussed.

Thus it now seems possible, at least, that the winner in next month's voting will be under a new compulsion to do something more than simply carry on the wearisome war.

For a long time the world's attention has been focused on how to get Washington and Hanoi to the conference table. But as each effort has failed, there has been rising feeling here and abroad that the war more likely would be ended through talks between the regimes in Hanoi and Saigon.

It doubtless would be pleasing to Americans if there were to be what we would consider free and honest elections in the south. However, it is likely to be more important by far if the election produces a strong sense of public opinion.

The Saigon regime must be a party to any peace, and the first necessity is that it have a realistic willingness to face up to what could be the possible terms of a settlement.

Candidates Demanding Good Crowds

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnam's civilian presidential candidates said today they will resume their campaign trips to the provinces, but informants said they will demand guaranteed crowds to hear their speeches.

A communique from eight of the 10 civilian candidates said they will begin a limited government-sponsored tour Tuesday, probably in Bien Hoa province, northeast of Saigon. But it said continuation of the tour depends on "the good will of the government."

After a transportation mixup on the first day of the government-sponsored tour, seven of the 10 announced they would boycott it until they received assurances from the military government of adequate transportation and security.

The government sent them a peace feeler Friday, assuring them of its good intentions, but a spokesman said the candidates still blamed the government for the mixup and that they would make further demands on security and transportation arrangements.

Vagrant Jailed For Two Months

A man picked up on a vagrancy charge was sent to Wilkinson Road jail for two months after appearing Friday in central court.

Magistrate Ostler said of Ronald Strain, 21, no fixed address, "I simply cannot understand why a young man would choose this type of life instead of getting a job." Strain has a previous criminal record.

INVESTIGATION of television interview by former Conservative cabinet minster Duncan Sandys is being made by Scotland Yard. West Indian immigrants have charged he broke the Race Relations Act by calling for a halt to immigration and said the breeding of half-caste children would produce a generation of misfits.

Both Men Lost The Race

Two young drivers who raced at 70 miles an hour on Esquimalt Road both lost when they appeared in central court Friday.

Rodney Taylor, 22, of 2649 Quadra St., and Kenneth Peverelle, 125 Egerton St. in Colwood, were fined a total $900 after pleading guilty to charges arising from the race. It ended when Peverelle's car flipped over early Friday.

Police said they first noticed the cars travelling at high speeds near the Johnson Street bridge.

The Taylor car hit the curb, then tried to pass Peverelle on the right before speeding up Signal Hill.

Taylor, fined $400 for dangerous driving, said the race started when he accepted a challenge by five American sailors in the other car.

LICENCE LIFTED

Peverelle, fined $500 for impaired driving, also had his licence suspended for two years. He admitted he started drinking 14 hours before the incident.

One passenger was injured when the car turned over on Signal Hill. The vehicle received $600 damage.

Demands Mounting For Greater Rations

MADRAS, India (AP)—Widespread demonstrations in support of mounting demands for a bigger food ration broke out Friday in Kerala state.

The ration is six ounces of food grains, three of which are supposed to be of rice, but there is insufficient rice available in Kerala and the rice portion is being made up by wheat provided as aid by the central government.

Marxist students in the state capital, Trivandrum, burned effigies of prominent people, including one of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Rival non-Marxist students countered by burning an effigy of the state's chief minister, E. M. S. Namburipad, and another of Food Minister Mrs. Thomas Gowri.

Pro-Chinese students in Trivandrum stoned buses, forcing many drivers to abandon their vehicles on the roads.

In Ernakulam, about 17,000 students held up all vehicles for two hours until police dispersed them.

At Quilon, students smashed the railway station.

In addition to the government's troubles over food and political agitation by students, telegraph and telephone employees are adopting a "go slow" policy in support of demands for more pay. More than 100,000 letters remain undelivered in Trivandrum and in industrial towns like Ernakulam. Telegrams are delayed and phone connections slow.

'Quebec Liberty Or Independence'

PARIS (UPI)—Quebec Premier Johnson threatened Friday night to break Quebec away from the rest of Canada unless a new Canadian constitution is drawn up giving French-speaking Quebec more "liberty."

"If this is impossible, then we would leave and it would be independence," Johnson said on the state-owned television network.

Johnson praised President de Gaulle, who evoked a storm of protest from the Canadian federal government last month with his shouts of Long Live Free Quebec.

"Today," said Johnson, "political leaders nearly all admit—and several are even advocating—the necessity of not only a revision of the constitution but also a new constitution made in Canada for Canadians and based on the judicial recognition of two nations: the French Canadian nation and the English Canadian nation."

"We are many. We are strong," concluded Johnson. "We want to remain ourselves, to flower.

"We want that Quebec be the pivot of this development at the interior of Canada, if possible, but if impossible, well then we will leave and we will be independent."
